GERMANY TO CREATE AUTONOMOUS RHINELAND STATE

FORBES CHARGES "POLITICS AND SAWYER" MADE VETERANS' WOES

Testifying in Own Defense Before Senate Committee, Former Head of Bureau Denies Harding Ousted Him—Says He Is a Vitcim of Conspiracy.

REFUTES ALLEGATIONS REGARDING CONTRACTS

Declares Gen. Sawyer Told Inquirer "I Am the Veterans' Bureau, Come and See Me"—Says Plumbers Wanted to Be Actors.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A conspiracy to encompass "my destruction by means of perjury, subornation of perjury and the suppression of material facts and documents" was charged by Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, in testimony today before the Senate Investgating Committee.

Taking the stand in his own defense before a crowded committee room, the former director entered a "general, sweeping and absolute denial" of charges made by other witnesses reflecting upon his honesty.

The denial was directed, the witness sair, against "every charge, statement, innuendo and insinuation which in any manner whatsoever reflects upon the honesty and integrity of my official or personal conduct while I occupied the office of Director of War Risk Insurance or Director of the Veterans' Bureau."

Not Dismissed by Harding.

Most of the deficiencies in the administration of the laws providing for relief to disabled veterans, he declared, "had been due to politics and Sawyer." He was referring to Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, personal friend and physician of President Harding.

Forbes then flatly denied the statement made before the committee by Dr. Sawyer that he was dismissed by President Harding for insubordination in connection with the sale of surplus property at Perryville, Md.

"Long before the President finally decided to issue his second temporary order stopping the delivery of goods at Perryville," the former director said, "I frankly told the President that I could not continue to serve if Gen. Sawyer was to continue in my office; and it became simply a choice between Sawyer and myself, and I relieved the President of any possible embarrassment by tendering my resignation."

Requests Searching Inquiry.

At the outset, Forbes read a prepared statement in which he earnestly requested the committee members to question him most searchingly as to all matters within the scope of the investigation and of the testimony heretofore given and which he was to give.

"I feel that I cannot refrain explaining to the committee," Forbes said, "my growing belief, finally resulting in conviction on my part, which I expect by the testimony of disinterested witnesses to establish, that an attempt has been made to mislead this committee, and that a conspiracy has been on foot, the purpose of which is to encompass my destruction by means of perjury, subornation of perjury, attempted subornation of perjury and the suppression of material facts and documents bearing not only upon my personal conduct as director of the Veterans' Bureau, but also upon the official conduct of the affairs of the bureau by myself and my subordinates.

"I deny generally, and shall hereafter deny specifically and in detail the utterly false and groundless charges of official and personal neglect, dishonesty, graft, liquor drinking, [illegible] conduct, and any and every other dereliction of duty, official or personal which has been ascribed to me, either by the witnesses Mortimer and Williams and others, or charged against me by the counsel of this committee."

Administration Not Blameless

"I do not mean that my administration was blameless; I do not deny its imperfections; I do not seek

PADUCAH INSURANCE MAN, EX-BANKER, KILLS HIMSELF

Had Been Despondent Since Closing of Trust Company Last Week.

By the Associated Press.

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 13.—Frank N. Fisher, president of the Ohio Valley Fire and Marine Insurance Co., and ex-president of the Ohio Valley Bank and Trust Co., which closed its doors following an announcement of insolvency last week, shot and killed himself at his home here early today.

Fisher was said to have been deeply despondent following the failure of the bank, and, according to close friends, had spoken of ending his life on several occasions.

DRAGGING ROPE STARTS RABBITS

Belleville Hunter Successfully Demonstrates a New Device.

Ben Schuessel of Belleville demonstrated a new method of rabbit hunting yesterday and killed a dozen cottontails in a field where a moment before three of his companions had tried to chase up some game.

Schuessel had a 50-foot rope. He asked one of his friends to grab the rope at one end and the other end Schuessel tied around his own waist. In the center of the rope was a heavy iron nut. Stepping apart so that the center of the rope where the iron nut was fastened dangled on the ground, they walked through the field twice and chased up a dozen rabbits. Having the rope about hish waist, Schuessel, wha had his gun, shot the bunnies as fast as they were scared up by the dragging rope.

COUNTERFEITING AT ROYAL MINT

Messenger at British Institution Is Accused.

Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The charge that Francis Bowie, head messenger of the Royal Mint, used the mint's presses to counterfeit coins was made yesterday when the man was arraigned in police court. According to police witnesses, Bowie confessed that he had made counterfeit half crowns. He had a master key he needed in performance of his duties.

The counterfeiting was discovered when it was found a chain on a press had been broken and repaired with a bit of wire.

Britain to Pay $92,000,000 to U. S.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The British Government has notified the Treasury that its next payment on the war debt, due Dec. 15, will be made in Liberty Bonds. The payment will include $23,000,000 on the principal of the obligation and $69,000,000 interest.

DRUGGIST, TAKING HOLDUP AS JOKE, SHOT BY ROBBER

Aaron Yawitz Says Robbery Attempt at 1026 North Whittier Street Was Fourth in Four Years.

TWO ROBBERS, ONE A TALL MAN, HAD AUTO

Other Holdups Reported Committed Last Evening by Pair, One of Them Tall, in a Ford Coupe.

Aaron Yawitz, proprietor of a drug store at 1026 North Whittier street, who was shot in the back last night by a robber in his store, remarked today at city hospital, where it was said he was not seriously wounded, that this was the fourth time in four years that attempts had been made to rob him, during which he was once before wounded, and that he would soon be back at his store.

As on a previous occasion, Yawitz said, he at first believed the robber was a practical joker, and laughed, but when informed in a stern voice that it as no laughing matter, he thereupon realzed that the robber meant business.

Returned After Closing Store.

Yawitz fled from the store at the command of hands up, with the robber in close pursuit and calling upon him to halt. When he ignored the repeated command, the robber fired one shot, which struck Yawitz in the left side and passed out near the groin, resulting in what is believed to have been only a flesh wound.

It was about midnight and Yawitz had closed the store, but had returned with his porter to get some letters he had forgotten. As he entered the store a Ford coupe stopped at the curb and the robber, a tall man, entered behind him. After the shooting, the robber escaped with a confederate who remained at the wheel of the automobile.

Yawitz is 29 years old and lives at 4731A McMillan avenue. His porter told policemen that the same men in the automobile had held up a pedestrian at Fairfax avenue and Whittier street a few minutes earlier.

Other Holdups by Robber of Same Description.

Highwaymen were active last night in different parts of the city and seven other robberies were reported, two of which are believed to have been committed by the man who attempted to rob Yawitz.

A tall man, one of two in a Ford coupe, held up and robbed Albert Goelz of 4728 McPherson avenue, of $11.75 near Taylor and Maryland avenues at 10:45 o'clock. At 11:55 o'clock, robbers answering the same description robbed Wilbur West, 4405 St. Ferdinand avenue, of $15.60 and a gold pin at Page boulevard and Pendleton avenue.

Two robbers in a Ford coupe at 11 o'clock held up Ralph Heckwolf, 22, of 2005 Oregon avenue, and Miss Estelle Frank, 5753 Page boulevard, who were sitting in their car in Forest Park, near Tamm avenue entrance. The robbers took $14 from Heckwolf, Miss Frank's beaded bag and their automobile, which later was found abandoned in Maplewood.

A negro robbed Clarence Shepherd, 3407 Washington boulevard, of $28 near Channing avenue and Washington boulevard, at 7 o'clock, and at 7:30, two men in an automobile robbed Fred Parkman of 1471A Clara avenue of $230 near Madison street and Jefferson avenue.

A youthful robber seized Miss Gertrude Klein of 1408 John avenue at 4600 North Broadway, about 9:30 o'clock, and after twisting a ring from her finger, ran through a vacant lot.

Mrs. Anna Buesing of 4232 Page boulevard reported last night that she was knocked down and kicked by a negro robber Friday night in front of 4226 Page boulevard, after she had resisted him and screamed. She is in bed suffering from minor cuts and bruises.

52 AGENTS IN ONE DRY RAID

By the Associated Press.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 13.—Fifty-two Government agents raided violators of the Volstead law here early today and a great quantity of liquor was seized and United States Marshals are serving warrants against many persons.

The Government forces now here include "Izzie" Einstein, Government operative.

MANY IN COURT FULL-FLEDGED LIARS, JUDGE DYER SAYS

He Hires Stenographer to Record Everything He, Witnesses and Lawyers Say.

So many full-fledged liars were in Federal Court today—the statement is Federal Judge Dyer's own—that the Judge announced he had engaged a public stenographer to take down everything he and witnesses and lawyers said.

After this sweeping statement, the Judge made no further explanation.

The stenographer, Miss Mildred Cook, is to be paid from stated portions of fines collected in the court. This morning Judge Dyer ordered that she be given $10 of the fine assessed against one bootlegger and $5 from another and similar fine.

As she was engaged to take down everything that went on, no doubt the following passage is down on her little notebook:

"Judge Dyer—ah—I am a busy New York business man. I have come to your State three times to testify in this case and a continuance at this time, I might say—would be extremely annoying." The speaker was R. M. Lederer, president of the Standard Trust Co. of New York City.

The case was that of the United States vs. Herbert and Catherine Uribe, charged with interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

"Any man from New York will certainly get consideration in this court," replied Judge Dyer. "The case is continued two days." Defendants had asked for the continuance.

TESTIFIES WALTON TOOK KLAN OATH AND PAID FEE OF $10

Former "Cyclops" Testimony Before Legislative Committee Made Public at Oklahoma City.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 13.—Dr. W. T. Tilly, former "cyclops" of the Muskogee (Ok.) Ku Klux Klan, testified before a legislative investigation committee that Gov. Walton applied for membership in the klan, paid an initiation fee of $10, and took the oath of the organization, according to a report of the committee, made public today.

The committee report quoted Dr. Tilly as saying he administered the obligation to the Governor in the executive offices here in the presence of Dr. E. A. Davenport, State Health Commissioner. Dr. Davenport was said to have testified before the committee in confirmation of Dr. Tilly's statement. No one else saw the oath administered, according to the report.

AERIAL COUPE BEGINS FLIGHT

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 13.—With ideal flying weather in prospect, the O-W aerial coupe, carrying passengers and a cargo of freight, started this morning at 7:30 o'clock for Los Angeles, with Howard Rinehart, as pilot.

The flight, it is hoped, will set a new mark in aerial transportation as the first freight and passenger ship to carry freight from the middle west to the Pacific Coast. It is expected that the plane will reach Iowa City for the night, proceeding from there over the route of the United States aerial mail service via Omaha North Platte, Rock Springs, Cheyenne, Salt Lake, Reno, San Francisco, thence to Los Angeles. With good weather, Pilot Rinehart expects to land his passengers and freight cargo in Los Angeles in 30 flying hours.

LLOYD GEORGE AND ASQUITH FACTIONS ARE REUNITED

Liberal Party Groups Combine to Present a Solid Front Against Conservative Protectionists.

GENERAL ELECTION TO BE HELD AT ONCE

Baldwin Advised King to Dissolve Parliament Immediately—Premier Wants to Get Election Over.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Dissolution of Parliament before the coming week-end was forecast by Prime Minister Baldwin at the opening of the new session today. He announced he had advised the Crown to dissolve Parliament as quickly as possible and he did not see why the date should not be fixed next Friday.

The Premier made only a brief statement in which he said a general election was always a disturbing element and should be got through with as quickly as possible.

If this parliament is dissolved on Friday the nominations will take place on Nov. 23 and the elections on Dec. 6.

Lloyd George and Asquith Unite.

The Asquith and Lloyd George factions of the Liberal party sank their differences this morning and reunited to present a solid front against the Conservative protectionists as well as the Labor party in the election.

The issue between the Consarvatives and the Liberals will be protection versus free trade, while both these parties will fight the labor party on ground that the laater is out for a levy on capital.

The Liberal reconciliation was effected at a meeting of Former Premiers Asquith and Lloyd George, Sir Alfred Mond and Sir John Simon. Arrangements were made for a united campaign by all the Liberals.

There had been a great element of doubt as to whether the two bitter political antagonists, Asquith and Lloyd George, could be brought together. Therefore, the announcement of the reunion furnished a sensation.

Since the late Bonar Law had promised there would be no fundamental change in the Government's fiscal policy during the life of the present Parliament, added the Premier, his only course "as an honest man" was to place his views before the country.

If the country released him from Bonar Law's pledge and gave him a mandate he could incorporate in next year's budget such measures as he deemed necessary, he said.

The House of Commons, after a brief discussion, adopted a motion by Prime Minister Baldwin appropriating the whole time of the House tothe Government, for the remainder of the session. The vote was 270 to 0.

The Evening News states that Asquith will lead the reunited party.

It is recalled that Lloyd George, in answering interviewers when he landed at Southampton from his American visit last week, said he would work with anybody who would serve the country faithfully.

Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Laborites opposition, told a meeting of the Parliamentary Labor party and National Labor executives today that Prime Minister Baldwin had informed him of his intention of appealing to the country on a policy of unadulterated protection.

Labor, which is the second strongest party in the Commons, has also thrown down the gauntlet to Baldwin and his followers, and thus one of the fiercest political wars in recent years is about to be fought in England.

CONFERENCE ON OLD TREATY

Belgian Wants Revision of Pact Controlling River Scheldt.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The Belgian Government, according to a Brussels dispatch, is about to ask the powers to call a conference to revise the treaty of 1839 insofar as it concerns the control of the River Scheldt. Belgium wishes the estuary to be free for Belgian ships going to and from Antwerp, seeking to remove her shipping from the subjection of the Dutch Government.

WILLIAM'S RETURN NOT AUTHORIZED, BERLIN DECLARES

Official Denial Issued at German Capital—Britain Confident Holland Will Hold Ex-Kaiser.

PASSPORTS READY, BRUSSELS HEARD

Newspaper Said Monarchist Coup Was Planned for Dec. 4—Much Activity at Doorn.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—It is officially denied here that Former Emperor William has been authorized to return to Germany.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—British Government officials said today that they were entirely satisfied with the adequacy of the assurances originally given by Holland that ex-Emperor William would not be allowed to leave Dutch custody. They say that up to the moment they have no reason to suppose the former war lord proposes to decamp, and if he has such an intention they are confident the Dutch Government will frustrate the attempt.

No new representations have been made to Holland.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 13.—The Brussels Gazette says that former Emperor William, equipped with passports for himself and members of his suite, is prepared to establish either himself or his son, former Crown Prince Frederick William on the throne of the empire on Dec. 4.

There is no official confirmation of the activities at Doorn House nor is William's destination in Germany suggested.

Private advices from Doorn, received by the Agencee Telegraphique Belge, say that a courier, Von Hoeschst, arrived at Doorn at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon with 12 German passports for the ex-Kaiser and his immediate entourage. A telegram in cipher was received there in the morning, and early in the afternoon there was a long conference between William and those close to him. Later a high Dutch official, Dr. Kan of the Ministry of the Interior, called and was closeted with the former Emperor for 35 minutes.

ALLIED ACTION LIKELY AGAINST FORMER PRINCE

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—After an hour's session, during which a defiant German note was read to the effect that the return of the former Crown Prince to Germany was none of their business, the Council of Ambassadors adjourned to obtain new instructions from their respective Governments.

Chancellor Stresemann's words conveying this defiance were:

"The German Government finds no reason in law or fact to justify refusing a German permission to return to his own country."

At the Foreign Office no effort was made to conceal the gravity of the situation. The curt reply has apparently determined the Ambassadors to adopt stern measures, which may be promulgated Wednesday. England shows signs here of not being willing to tolerate a farcical trial as was the case with the war criminals tried at Leipzig.

The Treaty of Versailles gives the allies the right to claim Friedrich Wilhelm for trial by an international tribunal. Tonight (Monday) this looks like the most likely solution.

BELGIUM WOULD RECALL ALLIES AND ASSOCIATES TO THEIR MORAL DUTIES

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 13.

THE question of addressing the allied and associated Powers, recalling them to their moral duties, is under consideration by the Belgian cabinet. It may also bring the matter before the League of Nations, as it considers the peace of the world is becoming increasingly endangered.

In connection with the return of the ex-Crown Prince to Germany, Belgian cabinet opinion holds that close cohesion of the allies is necessary with a view to the strict application of the Treaty of Versailles, both as regards the punishment of war criminals and reparations.

COOLIDGE PROBABLY WILL DELIVER MESSAGE IN PERSON

Considers It Wise to Continue Custom Revived by President Wilson.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—President Coolidge probably will deliver in person his message to Congress when it convenes next month.

He considers it wise to continue the custom, revived by President Wilson and continued by President Harding, although he is inclined to be guided largely by the desires of Congress. Should the leaders indicate that they desire him to appear in person, Mr. Coolidge would be glad to do so, but if the opposite desire is indicated, he will return for the most part to the old custom of sending messages by messengers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Unlike President Harding, who wrote his state papers with a lead pencil, on a scratch pad, or President Wilson, who hammered at a typewriter, President Coolidge is dictating his first message to Congress to his confidential stenographer. His documents and messages according to close friends, always have been prepared in this manner.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—Menacing letters from anti-Semites received by Prof. Albert Einstein since his return from Russia several days ago have convinced the scientist of the advisibility of his leaving Germany for Holland. The letters contain clear intimations that attempts would be made on his life. Einstein is father of the theory of relativity.

THROUGH COLLEGE MAKING 'MOON'

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 13.—David White, student at the University of Denver, was arrested last night, charged with the illegal manufacture of whisky. Officers discovered a large still and eleven barrels of corn mash stored in the attic of White's home, they said.

"I'm sorry you caught me," White was reported to have said when arrested. "I've been making my way through school by selling the stuff."

3000 Quarts of Ale Seized.

By the Associated Press.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Approximately 3000 quarts of Canadian ale were seized early today by Federal Customs Inspectors on a wharf here. The contraband is believed to have been part of a cargo said to have been landed during the night from a Canadian schooner.

THIS WAY TAKEN OUT OF SEPARATIST DIFFICULTIES

Stresemann Was Reported Last Month to Have Agreed With Rhinelanders on a State Within the Reich, but Divorced From Prussia.

BREAK WITH FRANCE EXPECTED IN BERLIN

Every One in Capital Wonders Whether French Will Go to Munich or Hamburg—Chancellor Forced to Speak Plainly.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The German Government will proclaim an autonomous Rhineland state in the immediate future, it was stated on good authority here this afternoon.

A proclamation of an autonomous Rhineland state would be a way for the German Government to get out of the difficulties arising from the separatists' movement.

It was reported in a special cable dispatch to the Post-Dispatch Oct. 27 that a separate Rhine state, within the Reich, but divorced from Prussia, was agreed on in principle between Rhinelanders and Chancellor Stresemann, Herr. Zollman President Braun of Prussia in a conference at Hagen Oct. 26. A separate Rhine state, within the Reich, would be opposed by France, it was reported.

GERMAN CAPITAL FEARS A BREAK WITH FRANCE

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Berlin Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—A break with France—a flat break—is feared here. Chancellor Stresemann's policy is driving straight to it. The French apparently are only too willing to move.

When the break comes, whether from an act of the Council of Ambassadors, independent French action or further utterances of Herr Stresemann directed against France, a momentous armed act is expected. Every one wonder whether France will go to Munich or Hamburg.

The Chancellor was forced by the reactionaries and monarchists to speak up to the French as he did last night at Halle and as he did in the note refusing to guarantee the safety of allied control commissioners. A third expression of this kind may easily precipitate trouble.

Socialists, fearing the consequences—a military dictatorship, breaking of the treaty, an eventual monarchy—want to get the Reichstag in session again before the break. They will demand of Stresemann that he call the Reichstag this week. They intend to give a vote of lack of confidence before it is too late.

Apparently Stresemann's own party, the People's party, and the German Nationals will vote against him. The People's party wants as Chancellor either former Minister of Justice Rudolf Heinz or the present leader of the party, Ernst Scholz. Either would build a Government of nationalist parties, making a dictatorship under new leadership.

The Reichstag will also have the money question before it. The presses are turning out 50,000,000 gold mark notes daily, which is insufficient. At that rate the new "mortgage marks" will be swallowed up in less than a month.

A new financial plan is considered imperative even before these new marks are issued.

The Socialists also want to clean up the Bavarian situation and force the issue with Dictator von Kahr. The Chancellor prefers other means, and the correspondent learns, is negotiating with Premier von Knilling to push Von Kahr and Gen. von Lossow, commander of the Bavarian

FRENCH PUBLISHER IS IMPRESSED BY U. S. ADVERTISING

Senator Dupuy, in Talk Before Ad Club, Says He Plans Similar Organization in Paris.

VISITING ST. LOUIS NEWSPAPER PLANTS

Asserts France Can't Allow Return of Ex-Kaiser — Finds Ford "Intelligent and Interesting.

"I would rather sing in French than talk in English," remarked Senator Paul Pupuy, noted French editor, publisher and statesman, as he began an address before a large audience at the Advertising Club luncheon today at Hotel Statler. He is in St. Louis for two days as part of a tour of large American cities to study newspaper publishing and advertising methods.

In a similar strain, which was received with laughter and applause, the Senator continued:

"I have made only two speeches in English in my life. The first one was upon the occasion when I received the American Legion on its visit to the birthplace of Marshal Foch, which is in the department I represent in the French Senate. In my address I found a good system and it worked. Every time I could not think of the English words I wanted, I would yell 'Hip, hip, hooray,' or else sing, 'For he's a jolly good fellow.'"

His Next Speech.

"My next speech in English was at Hotel Astor in New York on this trip. After it was over a man came up to me and said: 'Senator I did not understand what you said, but I liked the feeling.' If you gentlemen cannot understand the words I hope you will like the feeling."

Senator Dupuy declared life in Paris is much closer to American life than is generally imagined. For example:

"When I get up in the morning in France, I shave with an American razor. Then I drive to the office in my Automobile which burns American gasoline. Arrived at the office my stenographer gives me letters written with an American typewriter and I sign them with an American fountain pen. And my newspapers are all printed with American machines. My paper manufacturing plant was started by 50 American experts and has nothing in it but American Machinery. Furthermore, my wife is an American and from St. Louis. So you see how close we are to you.

"When I was asked what thing surprised me most of all in the United States," Senator Dupuy went on, "I replied that it was advertising. You must understand the French people do not know what advertising is. They must be educated to it. For that purpose I intend to start an advertising club in Paris when I return—one like yours here, the first I have ever seen. I mentioned this and the possibility of having the world advertising conference come to France, when they meet in England next year, to Premier Poincare just before I left, and he declared he would do everything in his power to bring it about."

Proposes Toast in Water.

In closing, Senator Dupuy said, suiting the action to the word: "I raise my glass of beautiful water to the prosperity of the St. Louis Advertising Club."

But nobody drank.

At Hotel Chase, where he is stopping, Senator Dupuy had something to say on a long list of subjects. He talked of everything from Kaiser Wilhelm to Henry Ford. When informed that the ex-Kaiser was reported as about to enter Germany, he said:

"That will be impossible. France cannot allow that, but I don't think we can stop it alone. We have had enough of war and we will be the last to start another one. The problem of the Kaiser must be presented to the allied Powers in council.

Buffer State Not Wanted.

"No, France does not want a buffer state between herself and Germany and I am sure we have nothing to do with the Separatist movement that resulted in the 'Rhine Republic.' It is easier to deal with a united Germany than with a host of small states."

"What is M. Poincare's strength and position when the Chamber of Deputies convenes tomorrow?" he was asked.

"M. Poincare's position," declared Senator Dupuy, "is the strongest of any statesman I have known since I entered politics many years ago. There is no possibility of his being turned out. His power is greater than most French statesmen have ever known."

Senator Dupuy found Henry Ford "intelligent and interesting" when he met him yesterday in Detroit. "But he would not talk about anything mechanical," said the Senator. "Every time I asked questions about machinery or inventions he somehow changed the conversation back to general topics. How amazing it was to see a Ford just a jumble of material in that great factory, and then, in 10 minutes, it would come out the other end—complete."

Newspaper Plants "Amazing."

"I have visited all the great newspapers in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and Chicago," he added. 'They are amazing. And I am much interested in the things I am to see in your city."

"It is understood that you are to introduce American newspaper methods in France."

"Yes," Senator Dupuy replied. "Now you are talking about something I am really interested in. I intend to introduce a similar system to your American Associated Press, and perhaps connected with it, in France. I hope to reach an agreement with enough French publishers as soon as I return. You know, 20 years ago, I introduced American press machinery in Paris after my first trip to the United States. The only great difference now between American and French newspapers is in the advertising. I expect to change that, too, when I finish my observations here."

Accompanying Senator Dupuy are M. de Wemdel, managing editor of Excelsior, and M. Aghion, advertising manager of the Dupuy publications. The party will remain in St. Louis over tomorrow.

DUPUY CONTROLS THE LARGEST DAILY PAPER IN FRANCE

He Succeeded His Father As Director of Petit Parisien.

By FERDINAND TUOHY.
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Paul Dupuy is in absolute control of the largest daily newspaper in France, the Petit Parisien.

During the last 15 years, under his direction, Petit Parisien has reached a circulation of 2,000,000, which is 1,000,000 more than its nearest competitor, Le Journal. Its influence over moderate French public opinion is so great that the Poincare Government is grateful for its editorial approval.

Paul Dupuy inherited the Petit Parisien from his father, Jean Dupuy, who carefully prepared him for the task of conducting a great newspaper. He was educated as a lawyer, was admitted to the bar in Paris and for several years practiced as a specialist in newspaper litigation. At the same time he collaborated with his father, who was then likewise in sole control of Petit Parisien, as well as being the Senator representing Hautes Pyrenees and successively French Minister of Agriculture, Public Works and State.

Visited U. S. 20 Years Ago.

Twenty years ago Paul Dupuy paid his first visit to America for the same purpose as his present visit—to study American newspaper practice in all its ramifications. When he returned he gave up law and soon became practically the sole directing mind in Petit Parisien. His father was preoccupied with politics and seldom even appeared at the newspaper office. At that time Petit Parisien already had been the largest French newspaper for a decade.

Like all other French newspapers, its circulation increased during the war, but unlike others, instead of decreasing with peace it continued to mount. Dupuy, morover, has extended his attention beyond Petit Parisien to restore the collapsed Excelsior and make it at present the greatest illustrated daily newspaper in France. He founded Science et Vie, an automobile journal entitled Omnia, a woman's home paper, Loisir, and a sporting journal.

Succeeded Father in Senate.

When his father died, the electors of Hautes Pyrenees petitioned the son to take his place and represent them in the French Senate, and he was elected almost with opposition

In politics and journalism, Paul Dupuy always had been particularly interested in practical application of the lastest discoveries.

Paul Dupuy was born in 1878 in Paris. His wife, who accompanies him on this tour of American journalism, herself is an American—Ellen Brown. Their two sons and daughters have grown up speaking English as fluently as French.

Dupuy is accompanied by the editor-in-chief of his newspaper, Excelsior, and two engineers. They intend to bring back to France any improvements they may observe in America.

Reichswehr, aside while they are still suffering from their participation in the Hitler putsch.

That putsch has upset monarchist plans, and on the surface, at least, monarchists are lying low. The truth is they see things coming their way very fast and believe they need only hold on while the country loops the loop. One important fact in Germany is that local power is in the hands of half a dozen Generals under Gen. von Seeckt. This gives rise to the belief the next step will be a Von Seeckt military dictatorship.

Italy Adheres to Protest of the Allies.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 13.—Italy has adhered to the protest of the allies against the return of former Crown Prince to Germany and also against the refusal of Germany to re-establish the inter-allied military control commission, says the Giornale D'Italia. This is new proof of the solidarity of the allies in maintaining the validity of the treaties the newspaper adds.

GERMAN AGENTS TO BE HEARD ON CAPACITY TO PAY

Reparations Commission Decides to Give Audience to Representatives of Reich —Date Not Fixed.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The allied reparations commission today decided to hear representatives of Germany regarding the capacity of the Reich to pay reparations. The date of the hearing will be fixed later.

The commission deferre daction on Premier Poincare's proposal for the creation of a committee of experts, until the German delegates should have been heard in regard to the Reich's capacity to pay. Poincare's proposal was made through Louis Barthou, French delegate and president of the Reparation Commission.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. — Although the door still is open for American helpfulness in the reparations problem, President Coolidge regards the latest move in that direction as having come definitely to an end.

The United States would find itself unable, in the view of the President, to participate in the reparations inquiry proposed by Premier Poincare for the same reason that it declined to enter the investigation suggested by Great Britain. This reason is that the American Government considers it useless and futile to make an inquiry which is hedged about by restrictions as to its scope.

Great Britain, it is pointed out, has presented no invitation for participation by the United States into a reparations inquiry, in which France would not be a party.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The French, unlike the English, are not concerned about the former Crown Prince so much as about control of German armaments. Berlin has refused to guarantee the safety of control commissioners. It is suggested the situation could be simplified by sending the officers to undisturbed centers first and not to Bavaria.

The correspondent understands France wishes to threaten further economic sanctions if the mission is incommoded. The French industrials want, as these sanctions, control of the railway from Wesel to Emmarch, controlling German exports to the west. The industrials also want the Darmstadt-Frankfort line, permitting control of Ruhr traffic to Switzerland.

It is proposed that England seize the customs at Hamburg, France, encouraging other allies to seize "productive pledges" to align them them with her Ruhr policy.

The Reparations Commission meets tomorrow (Tuesday) and probably will summon Germany to reveal all details of her financial condition. It is said experts will be sent by France with Gen. Nollet's control commissioners.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—A new factor had entered the reparations situation today as the reparations commission met to decide whether Germany's request for a financial hearing should be granted.

The new factor was Premier Poincare's own proposal that the commission name a committee to investigate thoroughly Germany's economic and financial condition with a view of determining means of bringing back to the Reich illegally exported German capital. Assistant delegates of the reparations commission have been suggested as the body of experts; in any event, the committee would be composed of delegates from the Powers represented on the commission.

Poincare, who, it is said, would be kindly disposed toward a suggestion for negotiation with Germany now that the economic situation in the Ruhr is clearing up would have the proposed committee of experts empowered to do several things. It would arrive at an estimate of Germany's external resources; it would suggest how these might be used for her reparations account, it would determine what steps Germany should take towards re-establishing her finances; it would make every effort to learn the location of the Reich's exported capital and would then study means of returning it. The investigation would last at least two months.

M. Poincare has instructed M. Barthou, president of the Reparations Commission, to ask that body to designate the committee of experts. At the same time the commission will have to pass on the German demand to be heard on the Reich's financial situation, action on which was postponed on the motion of Sir John Bradbury until the result of the negotiations with the United States became known.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Until Premier Poincare has officially advised the British Government regarding the details of his proposed new reparation inquiry Great Britain will withhold formal expression of its attitude.

As the suggested committee of experts, however, would apparently operate on a narrower basis than that suggested by England or the United States, it is stated that the Government will decline to join in it, especially as there is no indication that Premier Poincare intends to invite American participation.

NATIONALISTS OF NORTH GERMANY RALLY TO VON KAHR

Leadership of Entire Monarchist Movement Offered to Bavarian Dictator—Ehrhardt Champions Cause.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1923.)

MUNICH, Nov. 13.—(By Telephone to Berlin.)—Dictator von Kahr, following the shrewd line which his conduct of the last fortnight indicated, further consolidated his position Monday tending toward leadership of the whole German monarchist national movement.

Von Kahr's military brutality won his first victory. A second victory came in the form of a message from the combined North German nationalist organizations offering him the leadership of the nationalist movement throughout Germany. A third victory appears in the open espousal of his cause by Capt. Ehrhardt, leader of the famous Ehrhardt brigade and a former supporter of Adolph Hitler.

Ehrhardt at noon Monday addressed a meeting of university students. Hitlerites heard about the meeting and sought to stampede it by sending hundreds of their organized rowdies to attend it. But Ehrhardt's personality dominated everything. He announced to the students that Hitler had been arrested and added in effect: "There must be no foolishness. If you mean business come with me."

The students vociferously declared their confidence in Ehrhardt's leadership, and sang the song of Ehrhardt's brigade which is becoming the song of German nationalism.

New Prestige for Ehrhardt.

Curiously enough, Ehrhardt, who deserted Hitler at the last moment, has, nevertheless, acquired an increased prestige. He appears in a fair way to inherit Hitler's following, which he is quietly placing at Von Kahr's service. The Hitlerites, who are too bitter to declare their loyalty to Von Kahr, are declaring loyalty to Ehrhardt. Thus it appears that a gradual coalescing of forces is being effected.

Ehrhardt's emergence as a leader is important, because whereas Hitler was a demagogue and perhaps mentally unbalanced, Ehrhardt is a man of great force of character, daring and military skill and has some political knowledge, as even his bitterest enemies will admit. His latest proclamation ends with the words:

"I am for the black, white and red," the colors of United Kaiseristi Germany.

Taking Ludendorff's Place.

A month ago Von Kahr was regarded as representing the blue and white, or Bavarian separatism, in opposition to the black, white and red. Today he is succeeding Ludendorff as leader of the black, white and red, with Ehrhardt, Hitler's successor, as an ally.

Ludendorff Says He Was Misled by Hitlerites.

By the Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The Deutsche Zeitung says Gen. Ludendorff has informed Von Kahr he was misled and lured into the attempted Hitler coup. He was without knowledge of the real aims of the movement and is said to have urged Hitler to surrender.

Adolph Hitler, leader of the fascisti in Bavaria, was arrested after his flight from Munich in a villa belonging to Ernst Hanfstaengel, formerly a New York art dealer. The villa is in Uffing, Bavaria. Hanfstaengel is credited in Berlin as being one of Hitler's financial backers.

Ludendorff to "Devote Himself to Popular Movement."

MUNICH, Nov. 13.—Gen. Ludendorff, in a statement printed in the Neueste Nachrichten, explains that when given the parole last Friday he did not undertake to abstain in the future from participating in "the popular movement." He declares that only through this popular movement can the real recovery of the German people be effected and that he intends still to devote himself to it.

His word of honor, says Ludendorff, applied merely to his remaining in Munich and refraining from hostile activities pending his examination. He adds that he accepted parole without any mental reservations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MUNICH, Nov. 13.—Gen. Ludendorff, who was conditionally paroled after his arrest for his part in the Hitlerite revolt, today voluntarily placed himself in the custody of the Bavarian authorities on the ground he was not given sufficient freedom of movement. The telephone line into his villa was cut and he was not permitted to attend the funeral of servant who had saved his life.

$1 FINE FOR HUNTER WHO SHOT AT DUCK AFTER SUNSET

St. Clair County Farmer 19 Minutes Late, Under Law—"Small Business," Says Judge Dyer.

Frank Mackenberg, a St. Charles County farmer, was fined $1 by Federal Judge Dyer today, when he pleaded guilty to violating, by a margin of 19 minutes, the Federal law prohibiting hunters from shooting at ducks after sunset.

Federal Game Wardens testified the offense occurred at 5:10 p. m. one day last December. Mackenberg's aim was bad and he missed the duck.

Referring to this testimony, the Judge said, "This is awfully small business. How can a man tell what time it is when it is so hard to tell at what time the sun sets?

"You Game Wardens had better find better cases than this," the Judge continued, "or stay away from court, especially this court." Turning to Mackenberg, he ordered, "You pay $1 and go home."

"NO INTERVENTION," IS COOLIDGE'S VIEW

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—President Coolidge believes the traditional policy of the American Government would preclude it from joining with the allied Governments in protesting to Germany against the return of the former Crown Prince or the former Emperor, or in measures to prevent the re-establishment of the monarchy.

The chief executive feels that the United States should abide by its long-established tenet that any nation is within its rights in establishing whatever form of government it desires. He has told visitors he believed that policy should be followed with respect to all European countries.

The allied Governments, in the view of officials here, have a right and a duty under the Treaty of Versailles to protest and take such measures as they deem advisable. The United States, not being a party to the treaty, is under no such abligation.

POINCARE OBTAINS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Premier Upheld, 379 to 165— Not Ready to Discuss Ex-Prince's Return.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The French Chamber of Deputies today passed a vote of confidence in the Poincare Government by a vote of 379 to 165.

Premier Poincare, making it a question of confidence, "involving the responsibility of the Government" asked the chamber to set aside a portion of each week for a discussion of the interpellations, numbering 40, and added he was willing to commence with those dealing with the Government's foreign policy.

The Premier insisted that he would not be able to reply to interpellations anent the return to Germany of the former Crown Prince and the refusal of the German Chancellor to provide protection for inter-allied commissions of military control. The French Government was in active negotiations with the allied Governments on these questions, he said, and consequently he must maintain the strictest secrecy.

PAROLE ORDER FOR EXCESS QUOTA ALIENS REVOKED

Secretary of Labor Davis Denies He Ever Promised to Admit Them.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—It was learned today that the order to admit on parole 3000 immigrants who arrived here Nov. 4 after the quotas of their countries had been filled had been revoked.

Secretary of Labor Davis denied that he ever promised to admit the aliens on parole, and Commissioner General Husband said that all excess quota aliens would be deported. Entrance on parole is for reasons of humanity, bonds of $500 being given.

Secretary Davis, it is said, revoked the parole order the day after it was given, but not before 800 aliens, of whom 600 were British, had been admitted under it. About 600 of these were British and 300 came from the Leviathan, which arrived here with 1365 of the 300 excess aliens.

Chief of Police Caldwell of Maplewood, after an inspection, said the fumes were apparently sulphuric. Some residents of the neighborhood became nervous, but he advised them to remain.

NEGRO IN HURRY TO LEAVE CITY SOUGHT IN BOWERS CASE

Man Answering to Description of Girl's Slayer Last Seen Running Into Railroad Yards.

YOUTH DETAINED AS CORONER'S WITNESS

Inquest to Be Resumed Tomorrow—Several Persons Found Who Heard Shot—Three Saw Man Running.

Police investigation of the murder of Marie Bowers, 16-year-old telephone operator, who was shot in an alley near Twenty-first street and Chouteau avenue Saturday night, has developed two lines of inquiry.

While one squad of detectives of the Police Homicide Bureau is centering its efforts in an attempt to find loopholes in the story of Clarence Level, Miss Bowers' sweetheart, who says she was killed by a negro while resisting criminal attack, another squad is attempting to confirm his statements and is searching for a negro who answers in every detail the description given by Level.

Meanwhile Level is detained at Police Headquarters as a Coroner's witness at the inquest, which will be resumed tomorrow to hear what progress the Homicide Squad has made in its double-barreled inquiry.

No Variation in Story.

So far as the police have learned, Level was the only eyewitness, although two men and a woman have been found who say they heard the shot and saw a man running away. Level has been questioned time and again by police officials and newspaper reporters, and has repeated his statement in detail without the slightest variation.

A negro known as "Beans," who is being sought, is said to fit the minute description given by Level, even to manners of speech and action. Detectives have been informed that "Beans" ran into a poolroom at Seventeenth and Gratiot streets about half an hour after Miss Bowers was slain and sold his overcoat for a quarter, slipped overalls and jumper over his clothing and departed, with the remark that he was going to leave town.

A few minutes later "Beans," the detectives were told, ran down the steps leading from the Eighteenth street viaduct to the railroad yards. No one saw him board a train, but several negroes about the poolroom later spiked what the police believe was an attempt to manufacture an alibi for him.

Two Negroes Arrested.

Two negroes were arrested after they had told conflicting stories about the movements of "Beans." One said the suspect was in the poolroom Sunday afternoon, the day following the murder, and the other said that the "Beans" referred to as having run into the poolroom Saturday night was not the negro described by Level but another negro having the same nickname.

However, detectives have been informed by several other negroes whose names are being withheld, that "Beans" does answer the description and was not in the poolroom after Saturday night. They said his movements in the poolroom were so suspicious that they followed him and saw him descend from the viaduct into the railroad yards.

On the other hand, the detectives investigating Level's statements have caused inquest summonses to be issued for Mr. and Mrs. Ben Weed of 2009 Chouteau avenue and Charles Trenzel, 11, of 1939 Papin street. Mrs. Weed told detectives she was in her kitchen, which overlooks the alley at a point about 250 feet east of where Miss Bowers was shot. She said she heard a shot and called to her husband, who was in the front room. Both looked from the kitchen window, she said, and saw no one run east through the alley.

Another Story.

This is at variance with what was related by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vocker, 1930A Papin street, and Harry Leonberger, 1917 Chouteau avenue, who said they heard two shots and saw a man run through the alley toward Twentieth street.

Vocker and his wife, each carrying a child in their arms, were returning home from a visit with relatives and started through a lot extending from Chouteau avenue north to the alley when they heard a shot, followed a few seconds later by another shot. They called to Leonberger, who was on his way to mail some letters, and asked him to accompany them through the lot, as Mrs. Vocker was frightened. Leonberger, who also had heard the shots, went with the Vockers, and as they got half way across the lot they said, they saw a man running east in the alley past the lot.

Detectives assigned in an effort to find discrepancies in Level's statement, said today it was strange the Weeds, whose kitchen commands an unobstructed view of the alley, did not see anyone running east and that they heard only one shot. But other detectives point out that possibly they heard only the second shot and that the slayer might have passed through the alley before the Weeds got to the kitchen window. Mrs. Weeds said that after the shot she called to her husband before she went to the window.

Boy's Account.

The Frenzel boy said that on his way to a grocery to get a loaf of bread he saw Level and Miss Bowers waiting for a street car at the northwest corner of Twenty-first street and Chouteau avenue and that when he passed the corner again on his way home they were not there. As he was crossing Twenty-first street he heard a girl crying, then scream and immediately after a pistol shot. He saw Level drag Miss Bowers to the Twenty-first street mouth of the alley and then run after a northbound Manchester car. Becoming frightened, the boy then ran home.

Detectives checking up Level's statements consider it significant that the Frenzel boy saw no negro as he was on his way to the grocery, although only a minute or two elapsed from then until he was on his way back home. But Level insists the negro must have come from around the corner as he did not see him until the negro was upon him and poking his ribs with a revolver.

Relatives Analyze Story.

At the Bowers home, 1240 South Vandeventer avenue, where arrangements are being made to hold the funeral Thursday morning, Marie's father, George Bowers, and her older sister, Annabelle, were analyzing Level's description of the murder.

"He said that Marie suggested that they walk part of the way home from the picture show at Seventeenth and Market streets," said Bowers. "I don't believe it. She was too timid to want to walk through such a neighborhood. Why—"

"She would not even walk three blocks if there was a street car handy," interrupted Annabelle. "Lots of her friends will verify that."

"Why didn't Level show fight if she was attacked in his presence?" continued the father. "He was considered a fighter. He hit another boy with an iron bar Saturday afternoon because the boy had danced with Marie, and he often told Marie that if she went with other fellows he would beat up the fellows."

"Just last Friday he asked me for a pair of brass knucks that I had taken from him," said Annabelle. "He told me he was going to 'clean up' at Eagles Hall, where Marie was to attend a dance next Thursday."

Tells of Fights.

Annabelle told of fights in which she said Level engaged with other boys last summer in Lafayette Park just because they were 'cutting up' with Marie. She also related how he jumped from an automobile once while riding with her and her sister, "just to pick a fight with some boys who tried to strike up a flirtation with Marie."

"He was the most jealous person I ever met," Annabelle concluded. "He could not dance, and although he escorted Marie to dances he always quarreled with her for dancing with other boys. Marie was a good dancer."

And Level, in the police holdover, today begged to be allowed to attend Marie's funeral. "I loved her," he sobbed. "If I had only realized what a horrible situation it was I would have protected her with my life."

"We'll ask Mrs. Bowers if you may attend," a detective told him, "and if she gives her consent we will arrange it so you can go."

Following this conversation, Level accompanied detectives to the scene of the crime and went over the ground, pointing out the various positions occupied by the principals in the tragedy in the alley. When asked where the negro stood as he fired the second shot after wounding Miss Bowers, Level took the detectives to a spot beneath the Weeds' kitchen window.

Amplifies First Statement.

Mrs. Weeds, when told of that, said it was possible. She amplified her first statement by saying that a street car was rumbling across the Twenty-first street viaduct at the time she heard the shot, and it might have been fired from beneath her window, although at first she thought it had been fired from a point further west in the alley.

Level's mother was nearly prostrated with grief at her home, 1230 Missouri avenue, last night. She said she believed every word her son had told the police and that she hoped the guilty negro would be apprehended.

"To think that my boy, only 19, could make up such a story as that is ridiculous," she said. "He never kept anything from me. He told me that he and Marie were going to a picture show Saturday night and that he expected to be home early. I never heard him say a word that indicated he was jealous of Marie.

"Why should he have run after the street car to get a policeman after the shooting if he had anything to conceal? He could have run away. He never carried a revolver, and if he had one Saturday night he could not have disposed of it after the shooting. The police hunted everywhere for it."

Level's description of the negro, whose features he said he studied carefully, follows: About 26 years old, six feet tall, weighing about 170 pounds, brown skin with black rings beneath the eyes, long face with high cheek bones and sunken cheeks, long humped nose, thick lips, mole or lump on right side of neck above collar, broad shoulders, long, thin legs. He talked rapidly and wore a brown coat, light cap and dark shirt with attached collar.

SUITS FOR $24,286 FILED AGAINST HOUSING TRUSTEES

Officers of Republic Co. and Surety Co. Defendants in Action Begun by Millspaugh.

Five suits against five trustees of the Republic Housing & Investment Organization, a housing trust, and the American Surety Co., which signed their bonds for a total of $125,000, were filed in Circuit Court today, seeking recovery of an alleged deficit of $24,286 in the accounts of the housing trust.

The suits were filed by attorneys for State Finance Commissioner Millspaugh, who was appointed receiver of the company May 4, last. The defendants are the surety company and William R. Edison, William P. Moss, Gustave Moritz, Maurice V. Lippman and Harry Stahl.

As exclusively told in the Post-Dispatch, Commissioner Millspaugh found assets of $45.57 in cash, and office furniture which sold for $650, when he took charge of the concern. It had outstanding contracts totaling about $100,000, on which the certificate holders had paid $24,286. The company is one of 32 housing trusts in Missouri placed in receivership through suits filed by the State Finance Commission.

WABASH WOULD SPEND $285,000 AT DELMAR

Less Than Road's Previously Estimated Share of the Cost of a Viaduct.

A proposal of the Wabash railroad to pay $285,000 toward construction of a viaduct over its tracks at the Delmar boulevard crossing, with a 22-foot clearance, has been submitted to city officials through F. W. A. Vesper, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service has reported to Mayor Kiel that he does not favor acceptance of the proposal, which is less than the amounts previously estimated as the railroad's share of the cost of a viaduct with an 18-foot clearance. The city planned an 18-foot viaduct, to cost $535,000, and the Wabash desired a 22-foot one, the cost of which is estimated at $670,000. The city's proposal has been that the railroad should pay 60 per cent of the cost, and the city 40 per cent.

A 60 per cent share of $535,000 would be $321,000, while such a share of $670,000 would be $402,000.

The Wabash recently appealed to the Cole County Circuit Court, at Jefferson City, against the Public Service Commission's order for elimination of the grade crossing in accordance with the city's plan. Judge Westhues of the Cole County Circuit Court handed down a decision favoring the railroad company, and in effect ordering the elevation of the tracks instead of their depression. The city will carry this matter to the Supreme Court, and the present offer of the Wabash is in the nature of a compromise proposal for speedy settlement of the matter.

The Board of Public Service today, on President Kinsey's recommendation, let the contract for construction of a reinforced concrete culvert over River des Peres, near Delmar Station, for $150,765.50. This is figured by the city officials as part of the cost of the viaduct, though the Wabash has objected to this part of the plan, declaring the culvert should be built from the River des Peres part of the bond issue funds.

It is planned to begin work on the culvert by Jan. 1, in the expectation that the Supreme Court will uphold the city in the crossing elimination case. The contract was let to Henry A. Henske.

DOCTOR HELD UNDER COMMON LAW BOND ON LIQUOR CHARGE

J. F. J. Narocki Arrested as Sequel to Finding of Still in Stable at 1440 North Ninth Street.

Dr. Joseph F. J. Narocki, 1438 North Ninth street, was held under common law bonds, by the Carr Street police today, while application was to be made to the warrant office for violation of the Volstead act.

The physician's arrest was a sequel to the discovery Saturday of a still of 150-gallon capacity and a concrete vat containing about 50,000 gallons of mash—one of the largest distilleries unearthed by the police—in a two-story brick stable in the rear of 1440 North Ninth street. The police confiscated the still, destroyed the mash, and arrested two Italians, against whom warrants have been issued.

At the Carr Street Station, Dr. Narocki admitted he owned the stable and said he rented it Oct. 15 for $50 to an Italian who was driving a produce truck and said he wanted the building to carry on the produce business in which he and a brother were engaged.

TRIAL OF FOURTH OFFICER IN SHIPWRECK CASE RESUMED

Commander of Flagship Testifies Capt. Robert Morris Was Not Negligent.

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 13.—The courtmartial which is trying the cases of 11 officers, in connection with the wrecking of seven United States destroyers Sept. 8, off Point Honda, resumed with the case of Capt. Robert Morris this morning. Capt. Morris, whose case was before the court all of yesterday, is the fourth defendant to be tried.

Commander W. H. Toaz, who was in command of the S. P. Lee, flagship of Capt. Morris on the night of the wreck, declared under cross-examination that the accused was "not in the slightest degree negligent," and that he gave full consideration to all navigatorial matters. Commander Toaz was called as a witness by the prosecution.

WOMAN'S CLUB NAMES OFFICERS

Mrs. Winthrow G. Chappell Elected President.

Mrs. Winthrow G. Chappell of the Buckingham Hotel was elected president of the St. Louis Woman's Club at the annual election of officers yesterday. She succeeds Mrs. Charles W. Scudder, who was elected first vice president. Mrs. Scudder had filled the unexpired term of the late Mrs. Kate Howard, who had been president of the club 10 years at the time of her death last February.

Other officers elected are: Mrs. Benjamin F. Bush, second vice president; Mrs. John C. Roberts, third vice president, and Miss Lizzie L. Reed, secretary and treasurer. Board of governor: Mrs. Alexander N. De Menil, Mrs. Thomas C. Ratcliffe, Mrs. Henry S. Butler, Mrs. Thomas C. Young, Mrs. Robert Atkinson, Mrs. John O. Ockerson, Mrs. James F. Ballard, Mrs. Herbert L. Parker, Mrs. W. G. Yantis and Mrs. John O. King. The election was held at the club quarters, 4600 Lindell boulevard.

'Politics and Sawyer' Caused Veterans' Woes, Forbes Says

shift any responsibilities to others, dead or alive; but I do assert that I have not consciously been guilty of any wrongdoing, either by act or neglect.

"I feel it is only proper to state that I did not seek this position. I am frank to say that while I have never been particularly active as a politician, although always a Republican, yet, when the present administration came into office, I was ambitious, on account of my experience, to become a member of the Shipping Board, which ambition I committed to the late President who had been my political and personal friend for many years."

"President Harding frankly advised me that it was impossible for him to gratify my ambition; and he ultimately tendered to me the position of direction of war risk insurance. I accepted the position with much misgiving, with the expressed desire on my part that I might retire from the office at the end of a year.

"Among the first difficulties that I encountered was the insistence by Gen. Sawyer of his plan to hospitalize all disabled veterans in the ramshackle and tumble-down cantonment buildings throughout the country. I was and always have been utterly opposed to this plan, as have practically all other persons who have given any thought and study to the matter, except Gen. Sawyer and his immediate followers. Early in the administration, Gen. Sawyer insisted upon this plan, notwithstanding that a most distinguished committee, appointed by the American Medical Association and composed of Dr. Hubert Work, present Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, and other distinguished physicians, were bitterly opposed to such a plan. I regret that on account of my opposition to such a plan I incurred from the beginning the active hostility of Gen. Sawyer.

"I feel that I would not be frank with this committee unless I added to this that, in my honest belief, most of the deficiencies in the administration of the laws providing for relief to the disabled veteran, whether under the War Risk Insurance Bureau or the Veterans' Bureau or the Public Health Service or other agencies, has been due to politics and Sawyer.

Constant Interference.

"During the summer of 1922, after I had served something more than a year, my health began to break and I desired to retire. This desire, expressed not only to the President, but to many others, did not take definite form until towards the end of the year 1922, when it became apparent to me that it would be impossible for me to continue to administer the law relating to the Veterans' Bureau on account of the constant interference on the part of Gen. Sawyer.

"In the month of December, 1922, and long before the President finally decided to issue his second temporary order stopping the delivery of goods at Perryville, I frankly told the President that I could not continue to serve if Gen. Sawyer was to continue in office; and it became simply a choice between Sawyer and myself, and I relieved the President of any possible embarrassment by tendering my resignation, the date of which he insistently deferred for 60 days beyond the date suggested by me for it to become effective."

Examined by his counsel, James Easby-Smith, Forbes told in more detail the story of what he termed the interference of Gen. Sawyer in the operation of the Veterans' Bureau. He quoted Sawyer as telling one inquirer:

"I am the Veterans' Bureau. Come and see me."

Wanted Homeopathic Doctors.

Forbes also asserted that Sawyer "constantly opposed" conferences of scientific consultants who came to Washington to assist in devising means of caring for the disabled; that he wanted all patients, tubercular, neuropsychiatric and general, housed together and that he insisted that homeopathic doctors be given the same opportunity as other doctors in the matter of employment by the bureau.

"He told me," Forbes added, "that he was going to see that homeopathic doctors had their innings."

In one instance, he said, Dr. Sawyer issued an order for reinstatement of a doctor that Forbes had ordered discharged. Asked where the General got his authority, the witness replied: "He always claimed he had authority from the President."

Pressed for more specific information, Forbes said he would like to be excused from mentioning President Harding.

"If the President issued orders hampering bureau administration," said Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, "you should state it rather than take the responsibility upon yourself."

"I can say frankly," the witness replied, "that Sawyer attempted to exercise more authority around Washington than any Senator and he successfully got away with it."

Tells of Protest to President.

Forbes added that when he protested to President Harding, the latter told him Sawyer simply was getting information for him.

As chairman of the General Hospitalization Board, the former director continued, Sawyer would call meetings in his office in the State War and Navy Building at which hours were spent in discussion and nothing was accomplished.

"I suggested that Gen. Sawyer establish his office in the Veterans' Bureau so I could get some work done in my office," he said. "But one room wasn't enough for him."

Asked about political pressure, Forbes said there was both "Outside and inside politics."

"Political pressure is brought to bear on individual cases," he added. "Political pressure in the interests of employes, political pressure in the interest of employes of the bureau. Political pressure was brought to bear for the sale of property, for the purchase of property and 101 other things.

Says He Saved Millions.

"Inside politics, that was just the men on the inside working with 'The gang' on the outside. This hindered and hampered my work."

Forbest testified that he had saved millions to the Government in "Revamping the dental situation" and improving the rehabilitation work. He asserted that many of those in vocational training were housed in mere shacks and that in many cases men were getting useless training.

"Plumbers' helpers would go in for dramatic art," he said. "They would ask for full dress suits and plug hats."

Forbes told the committee he believed the Veterans' Bureau never would function effectively until there was a change in the system.

"There must be more than one man to direct its activities," he declared. "No one man in the world can handle that job. There should be an unbiased nonpolitical board to run it."

Recalling that he had been charged with over-liberalty in dealing with the veterans, Forbes said he believed it was the intention of Congress to give the benefit of the doubt to the former service men.

"Hospitalize them first and question them afterward—that was my order," said Forbes.

Most Hospital Sites Gifts.

There never was any secrecy about selection of hospital sites, the witness continued, adding that most of the sites, including those at Northampton, Mass., St. Cloud, Minn., and Tupper Lake, N. Y., were gifts.

With respect to hospital construction, Forbes declared that every award made by him was made "on the recommendation of the Quartermaster-General of the army." From the first, he said, he sought the co-operation of the engineering divisions of th Army and Navy, and the plans and specifications for the hospital were prepared by those departments.

Taking up the contract for the hospital at Northampton, which figured largely in the testimony of Elias H. Mortimer of Philadelphia, Forbes said speed in construction was the essential thing, and that the award for the foundation was given to the Pontiac company of Detroit, because it agreed to complete the work in 60 days. He said he insisted on a penalty provision of $450 a day, and that this penalty was collected, as the job took 76 days.

As to the contract for the hospital at American Lake, Wash., which was awarded to the Hurley-Mason Co., Forbes testified, and letters read into the record showed that the bids were opened in the War Department and the recommendation that the award be made to the Hurley-Mason Co. was prepared by a special board appointed in the Quartermaster-General's division.

Forbes said he was present when the bids were opened and remarked that "It looked like the Hurley-Mason Company." He added that he told Col. E. S. Walton, of the quartermaster corps, that he once had been vice president of the Hurley-Mason Co., and that before any decision as to the award was made there should be an inquiry as to whether he then held any interest, direct or indirect, in that company.

Taking up the Tupper Lake contract, about which Mortimer also testified, Forbes said the plans for that hospital were prepared in the Bureau of Yards and Docks of the Navy Department, the bids opened there and the award made to the Sutherland Construction Co. of St. Louis.

Gasby-Smith read into the record a number of letters from the files of the Navy Department regarding this contract to support Forbes' testimony. They showed that negotiations for additional work to be done by the Sutherland Co. were conducted by officials of the navy on recommendations of Forbes, who wanted the work on the foundations expedited before cold weather should set in.

Denies Any Deal With Mortimer.

Forbes denied flatly that he ever had any conversation with Mortimer regarding the Tupper Lake contract or the contract for any other hospital. Mortimer had testified that a representative of the Sutherland Co. had paid him $2500 for using his influence with Forbes to get the contract for extra work at Tupper Lake.

It had come to his attention, Forbes said, that Mortimer was claiming to represent the Sutherland Co., and he sent for William M. Sutherland and Mortimer and asked about it. Sutherland, the witness said, denied Mortimer was agent for his company in Government work, but Mortimer claimed he was agent for the company in other work.

Forbes declared he was convinced Mortimer was "hooked up in a deal" and had determined not to have anything to do with any company for which Mortimer was an agent. The committee pressed for details of the "deal."

"The statement had been made to me by the Department of Justice," Forbes said, "that Mortimer was the social and professional bootlegger of Washington."

The witness was asked if he had written reports from the Department of Justice and Easby-Smith said he would present them later.

"Did you know he was a 'Bootlegger' when you were traveling around with him?" asked Senator Walsh. "There were reports about it, and I saw some indications" was the answer.

TEACHERS' PENSION PROPOSED

A proposal to establish an old age retirement pension fund for St. Louis public school teachers has been submitted to the Board of Education by Byron W. Moser, president of the Security National Bank, and probably will be referred to a committee for consideration when the board meets tonight.

The plan is similar to a foundation recently established for Y. M. C. A. workers and to which the Rockefeller Foundation contributed $1,000,000. It is based on the insurance system, the teacher paying a percentage of salary annually, the Board of Education contributing a like amount and an accrued liability fund being subscribed to start the proposition.

SAYS BOARDERS LOUNGED WITH THEIR SHOES OFF

Resident of Vandeventer Place, at Injunction Suit, Tells of "Offensive Sights."

Boarders at 36 Vandeventer place last July sat about with their shoes off—in Vandeventer place mind you—and now and then as other residents drove down the street they caught from limousine windows a glimpse of a red flannel undershirt.

Thomas M. Pierce, an attorney, of 21 Vandeventer place, who gave the above description in Circuit Judge Hartmann's court today, declared that such sights were offensive to all residents of the place.

The Vandeventer Parks Association, composed of property owners, are suing for a permanent injunction against the use of No. 36 as a boarding house, on the ground that there are restrictions preserving the section as a first-class residence neighborhood. The house in question was the mansion of the late Ambassador Richard C. Kerens, and now is owned by Adolphus Branham.

Branham rented it to Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Campbell last spring and they filled its 18 rooms with paying guests.

These persons, Attorney Pierce explained, quite evidently did not know what was expected of Vandeventer Placers.

"They were always whooping and hollering at each other," he testified.

Counsel for Branham reminded Pierce that these were not wealthy people and having no maids wasn't it natural for them to appear a trifle unkempt at times? The witness retorted that soap and water was cheap enough, wasn't it?

Other witnesses for the plaintiffs proclaimed Vandeventer place a veritable garden spot. Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd, wife of a surgeon, who resides at No. 47, said her friends in Westmoreland and Portland places often remarked to her how much nicer it was where she lived. John Lawrence Mouran, an architect, of 46 Vandeventer place, declared his location to be the "choicest spot in the city."

Funeral of Howard G. Colwell.

The funeral of Howard G. Colwell, 49 years old, of 5711 Clemens avenue, former Central High School teacher, was held Sunday from the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards. He was a graduate of William Jewell College, and in 1915 was made assistant principal at Central High School, where he taught foreign languages. He subsequently resigned and had since been active in the training of Sunday school teachers. He was also dean of the St. Louis Community Training School and a deacon of the Third Baptist Church. Mrs. Colwell and three children, Robert, David and Lillian survive.

WOMEN DEMOCRATS' PLANS FOR 1924 TOLD OF BY LEADER, HERE

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair Says They Will Attempt to Prove Failure of G. O. P. Administration.

Distribution of facts intended to prove failure of the Republican national administration and a refusal to recognize as pertinent or to defend attacks by Republicans upon the Wilson administration, will be the chief activities of Democratic women during the 1924 campaign, Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee and national committeewoman for Missouri, said in an interview here today.

She is in St. Louis for a conference at Hotel Statler tomorrow of Democratic organization women in the Fifth Regional District, which comprises Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Oklahoma. Discussions in the conference have been limited to organization matters and no issues of a controversial nature will be taken up, Mrs. Blair said. Several hundred women from the five States are expected to attend.

"The Democratic National Committee is recommending that delegations to State and national conventions be equally divided between women and men," she said. "My information is that the Republicans are not going to encourage the sending of women to conventions."

TELLS OF ATTACK ON STREET

Man Who Says He Is Detective Is Severely Injured.

Joseph Walsh, 38 years old, who said he is a detective employed by the Burns agency, is at the city hospital suffering from fracture of both jaws and severe scalp lacerations, which, he said, were inflicted by men unknown to him at noon yesterday, on Broadway, near Park avenue. Walsh said he was walking along the street when a man lunged out of a doorway and knocked him down with a fist blow. A second man, he said, attacked him with an iron bar and both kicked him several times and then escaped through a hallway.

UPROAR IN STATE SENATE COURT AT TRIAL OF WALTON

Questioning by Defense Counsel of Witness for Prosecution Characterized as "Outrageously Unfair."

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 13.—The State Senate court of impeachment was thrown into an uproar today when counsel defending Gov. J. C. Walton launched into a cross-examination of Dr. E. T. Bynum, former confidant of the suspended executive, which was characterized by members of the court as "outrageously unfair."

Dr. Bynum testified that he and Aldrich Blake, who succeeded him as executive counselor, had considered placing a secret telephonic device in the Governor's office to "protect" the executive.

Defense counsel immediately plied the witness with a series of questions which forced him to defend his integrity and loyalty.

Questions Leading to Uproar.

After Dr. Bynum had denied that he had been removed from the faculties of the University of North Carolina and of Oklahoma City College, Warren K. Snyder of defense counsel demanded:

"Were you ever compelled to kiss the American flag?"

"I never had occasion to do so. No, sir," Dr. Bynum replied.

"Is it not a fact," Snyder persisted, "that shortly after the war at the Huckins Hotel in Oklahoma City a gentleman asked you if you had not written a letter to Germany in which you said the best citizens of this country were with Germany in her trouble and you replied that you had and that you were proud of it, whereupon the gentleman said he was proud to have the opportunity to knock you down, and proceeded to do so?"

When Snyder finished the question the court was in a tumult.

Senators from all parts of the chamber shouted their opposition to such a line of questioning. When the bedlam quieted somewhat, a member of the court demanded of Snyder what he was trying to show by his questioning.

Explanation of the Questions.

"We are trying to show that this witness is not loyal to his country, to his flag or to his chief and that innately he couldn't be straight if he wanted to," Snyder shot back.

The uproad was loosed again, Senators demanding the remark be expunged. A motion was made that the court recess to "cool off," but was tabled, and the remark was then struck from the record by a vote of the court.

When the court reporter repeated Snyder's question, Dr. Bynum answered in an even voice: "It is absolutely false."

"You didn't have any meeting like this with Senator Lillard, then?" the attorney asked. "No, sir, I did not," Dr. Bynum replied.

Remark Stricken Out.

In striking out Snyder's remark the Court held it was "an expression of personal opinion."

Snyder retorted that those who objected to it were "also expressing an opinion" and again members of the court leaped to their feet, demanding an end to the subject.

Referring to the proposed installation of the telephonic device in the Governor's office, Dr. Bynum declared there was no "sinister or selfish motive" behind the plan. He said that Blake and himself thought the idea might be effective in "protecting the Governor against mysterious goings-on in several State departments." This reference was not amplified.

Dr. Bynum was questioned regarding his work as a collector of funds for the Governor. He said he has solicited campaign money and testified that he had accepted personal gifts from wealthy men who contributed to the campaign chest.

He told the court he had received $1000 as a personal gift from C. J. Wrightsman, wealthy Tulsa oil man. He said another $1000 given him by J. S. Cosden, also a Tulsa oil magnate, was split with Blake, the Governor agreeing. Dr. Bynum testified that he received "several hundred dollars" in personal gifts, but could not recall the donors.

Testimony on Sale of Notes.

The financing of the purchase of the executive mansion with which was linked the names of prominent oil men of the State, was described by witnesses at yesterday's session of the trial. Thirty thousand dollars in notes given by Gov. Walton as part payment for the residence was purchased by E. W. Marland, widely known Ponca City oil man, it was shown. By this transaction, the prosecution charges that the Governor, as chairman of the State Tax Board of Equalization obligated himself to the oil man, the holder of extensive taxable properties.

Marland, Dr. E. T. Bynum, the Governor's chief adviser, testified, at first recommended a less expensive home for the Governor and offered to help the executive make money in stocks with which to pay for it. Advised of this, the Governor was quoted by Bynum as having said "he didn't see why Marland couldn't as well take the notes."

Previous efforts had been made by Walter D. Caldwell, who sold the house to the Governor, to dispose of the notes, Caldwell himself testified. He related he had offered them to Chauncey B. Nichols, manager of the Oklahoma Portland Cement Co. after proposing that he aske the Governor to reconsider difficulties then said to be existing between Nichols and the executive.

C. J. Wrightsman, prominent Tulsa oil man and chairman of the Oklahoma University Board of Regents, testified he had emphatically refused Caldwell's request that he buy three of the notes, declaring that it obviously had not been made to him as a good business proposition and that if he took the notes, he considered "it would be the end of it."

Caldwell told him, he said, that Charles Page, millionaire oil operator of Sand Springs, Ok., would take the other paper. Wrightsman added that he had previously contributed $12,000 to Gov. Walton's campaign fund.

Marland, who now is slightly ill, at his home, has been summoned to appear before the court as soon as he is able. The court refused to accept depositions which he made to the Board of Prosecution.

BARGAIN BASEMENT

Due to a backward Coat season manufacturers were forced to sacrifice their heavy stocks. With thousands too many Coats on their hands, certain big New York manufacturers offered to let us have our pick of them at almost unbelievable concessions. It was hard luck for them—but it was GREAT luck for us and for you. And when you see these beautiful Coats Wednesday you will be as surprised as we were that SUCH COATS COULD BE SOLD THIS EARLY IN THE SEASON AT $18.00. If we told you what the materials and furs in some of these Coats actually cost under normal conditions your amazement would be complete.

Get health—Keep health—Feel fine by eating Kellogg's Bran regularly!

Constipation and the toxic poisonings that come from it not only take the enthusiasm out of life, making you depressed and physically and mentally dull—but they head you into the most dreaded of human diseases. You can actually rid yourself of these dangers if you will EAT KELLOGG'S BRAN REGULARLY!—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases with every meal!

Kellogg's Bran is nature's most wonderful food. It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation and it will do that as no other food can! Don't take a chance of "getting away" with constipation—IT WILL GET YOU! Don't ruin your health with pills and cathartics—they are as dangerous as constipation itself and give but temporary relief, at the very best!

What you should do for your family and for yourself is to serve Kellogg's Bran every day, in any one of several attractive ways, and fight constipation as you have never fought it before! AND YOU WILL WIN, because Kellogg's is ALL BRAN.

In the first place, Kellogg's Bran is delicious in its nut-like flavor, adding greatly to any cereal with which it is used. Eat bran as a cereal with hot milk, or mix it with hot cereal before serving. Another method is to cook Kellogg's Bran with cereal. In each case add two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person. A popular way is to sprinkle bran on hot or cold cereal. Bran makes wonderful bakery products. Recipes are printed on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is served in leading hotels, restaurants and clubs. It is sold by all grocers.

END CURB PARKING TO SPEED TRAFFIC, ENGINEER ADVISES

Bartholomew Also Declares Conditions Will Compel City to Put Street Cars Underground Downtown.

INDEPENDENT OF PLAN FOR RAPID TRANSIT

Suggests Double Level for Pedestrians and Vehicles at Grand Boulevard in Next Few Years.

Traffic conditions on downtown streets will force St. Louis to put its street cars underground, in the judgment of Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission. This result will be independent of the need for rapid transit, which can be fully met only by a more comprehensive plan. However, transit would be more rapid than it is now if the cars were placed underground downtown.

The United Railways has complained that it requires 30 minutes for its cars to get from Fourteenth street east to Fourth, and back to Fourteenth. A person can walk the distance in that time. That means, in most cases, that the movement of automobiles in the same district takes just as long, or longer.

"The traffic congestion on our downtown streets is equal to that on Fifth avenue, New York," Bartholomew said today. "The only difference is that at some hours of the day it is not so heavy here, while on Fifth avenue it is about the same all day.

Would Bar Parking at Curb.

"Automobiles and street cars can only crawl along. This is due to two things—the presence of street cars on the surface, when they should be underground, and the use of the curb for parking cars.

"All the curb parking space downtown accommodates only about 2500 cars—a very small part of the city's equipment of nearly 100,000 motor vehicles. I am convinced that we sacrifice too much else in order to furnish that space.

"There should be no parking at the curb, for 15 minutes or any other period. Machines should stop at the curb only long enough to take on and let off passengers. Establishments which consider parking space essential to their business should provide it in buildings, the plan which department stores here have adopted.

Not a Public Obligation.

"The time has come when the parking question must be treated on broad general principles, and one of these principles is that moving vehicles must be restricted as little as possible, and that vehicles not moving must not be in their way. Another principle, which goes with this, is that it is not a public obligation to provide parking space, any more than it is a public obligation to provide free storage space for property of any other kind.

"In Pittsburg, one eight-story downtown building is given over to automobile storage. New York buildings are providing basement parking space.

"There has been talk of relief through providing second-story sidewalks, but these would not only be unsightly and light-destroying, but they would require reconstruction of buildings and changes in the interior arrangements of all retail establishments, to a degree that would appear to make the whole idea impracticable.

Urges Double-Level Plan.

"There is one place in St. Louis where the double-level plan, not only for pedestrians but for vehicles, should be used in the next fey years. That is at Grand boulevard. Because of the natural 'hump' there, it would be practicable to carry Washington boulevard, Lindell, Olive street and the Morgan-Delmar cutoff under the level of Grand, so that vehicles going east and west would take the tunnel, and those turning into Grand would stay on the surface. The Olive cars should go through the tunnel.

"Eighty-five per cent of the traffic, as measured by number of persons, is street-car traffic. This 85 per cent must have more consideration. It, and the much smaller amount of vehicle traffic, must have the right of way. We must speed up traffic movement and clear the streets. The first way is to put a stop to curb parking. The second way is to put the street cars under the surface. Those measures would relieve the present congestion. For the future, this city and other cities probably will have to face the problem of decentralization."

Taken From Bed and Beaten.

By the Associated Press.

OREGON CITY, Ore., Nov. 13.—August Olson, a garage proprietor, told the police yesterday that he had been taken from his bed early yesterday by three masked men who invaded his apartment, taken out and severely beaten. Olson declared he had no idea as to the assailants' identity or a reason for their action.

Two Men in Sedan Drowned.

By the Associated Press.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Nov. 13.—George B. Rose, proprietor of a taxicab company at Hennyan, and William I. Long of that city were drowned last night when a sedan driven by Rose plunged from the highway bridge over Chemung River. J. W. Kelly of Oklahoma City and two other men escaped by smashing windows.

THE REV. J. A. GRIFFIN HEADS ALTON DIOCESE

Rector at Joliet Appointed Bishop to Succeed the Late Rt. Rev. James Ryan.

ROME, Nov. 13.—The Rev. James A. Griffin, D. D., rector of St. Mary's Church, Joliet, Ill., was appointed by Pope Pius today to be bishop of the diocese of Alton.

The Rev. Father Griffin succeeds the Rt. Rev. James Ryan, who succumbed to a heart attack following a spell of acute indigestion at Alton, July 7, last. Bishop Ryan, who was 75 years old, had been head of the Alton diocese for 35 years and observed his fiftieth anniversary in the priesthood in 1921. Archbishop Mundelein has had charge of the diocese since the death of the bishop.

The Rev. M. Griffin has been pastor of St. Mary's Church at Joliet since June 25, 1921. He was born in Chicago in 1883. In 1904 he went to Rome to study, being enrolled in the North American College. In 1906 he received the degree of doctor of philosophy and in 1909 was given the degree of doctor of divinity. He was ordained to the priesthood July 4, 1909, and in 1910 was made assistant pastor of St. James Church, Chicago.

MUSSOLINI ON GERMANY

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 13.—Premier Mussolini, in the preface of a book written by R. Suster on the present situation in Germany, asks:

"Is Germany sincerely republican?"

"Is Germany loyally pacifist?"

"Is Germany really bankrupt?"

The Premier asks the first two questions by quoting from articles he has written in the past:

"The fall of the empire," he said, "left an aching void in Germany's soul, which the republic has been incapable of filling. Germany secretly aspires to a return of the glistening capital of the empire. Pacifism in germany is forced. She has no army and therefore is pacific because she cannot wage war."

You can have steam heat without having a chimney

You can have steam heat without having a cellar, and without using solid or liquid fuel

The burner of a Clow "Gasteam" Radiator creates tiny Bunsen flames

Each radiator an independent steam heating plant

WHEN you have Clow Gasteam Radiators and want heat, all you have to do is turn a valve and light.

For these radiators you don't need a cellar. You don't need a chimney. You don't have to bother with coal or with liquid fuel. You don't have to worry about a lot of pipes.

100% of the fuel they use is converted into usable heat. They are as convenient and efficient as a kitchen gas range, and, in addition, are automatically regulated.

An automatic regulator controls the flow of gas to the burner, so that there are no ups and downs of temperature—just a steady even warmth. If you need four or five of them in cold weather, you don't have to keep all of them going on milder days.

Light as many as you need, just as the housewife lights only as many of her range burners as she happens to need.

Safe as a Bunsen Flame

In 1855 the great Chemist Bunsen devised a tiny heater that scientists, doctors, dentists, jewelers, and many others have used ever since.

It has never been improved upon for providing heat instantly when needed, without smoke or dirt—heat that can be turned off when it is not needed—clean heat without waste.

Each Clow Gasteam Radiator has a burner providing tiny Bunsen flames.

Its principles of design are those recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

Its flames cannot touch any surface and are, therefore, free from the troubles sometimes experienced with antiquated types of water heaters and similar appliances.

Wholesome Heat

Many people still accept as a necessary evil the colds and throat troubles caused by air that is dried out by the ordinary methods of heating.

Others go to much expense and trouble to provide humidifying devices. With Clow Gasteam Radiators neither this class of colds nor the humidifiers are necessary. Clow Gasteam represents the only type of heating system that preserves the normal moisture of the air.

Its Bunsen flames actually make moisture, thus automatically humidifying the air.

Send for Designs and Prices

Clow "Gasteam" Radiators are designed according to principles recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Standards. They are approved by over twenty years of continuous use.

They are made in a number of attractive designs, of which the latest and most popular is the four-column Colonial.

SALOON KEEPER, AWAKENED FROM SLEEP, IS SHOT FIVE TIMES

Peter Byrnes, 34, Tells of Mysterious Attack in Bedroom of His Home.

Peter Byrnes, 34 years old, proprietor of a saloon at 6232 Wells avenue, Wellston, is at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium recovering from five pistol wounds inflicted last night in a mysterious shooting in his home over the saloon.

Byrnes, who has only one leg, told detectives he was asleep on a bed in a front room upstairs when he was awakened about 10:30 o'clock by a man standing beside the bed and shooting at him. The man fired half a dozen shots in quick succession as Byrnes attempted to shield his head with his arms, and then ran from the room, he said. Byrnes was wounded twice in the right arm and once in the left arm, left side and through the right ear.

The saloon keeper said he had never seen the man before, and could give no reason for the shooting. He declared he had no enemies. His wife was not at home at the time of the shooting, he said.

JEFFERSON CITY MERCHANT SHOT SERIOUSLY BY ROBBER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—J. G. Tritsch, 67 years old, keeper of a small restaurant in the Goose Creek bottoms section of Jefferson City a few blocks west of the State Capitol, was probably fatally shot about 7 o'clock last night when he did not comply with a "hands up" command from a young man who entered, pistol in hand. Despite the presence of several customers, the robber then removed $86.25 from the till and escaped to the nearby railroad yards.

About three hours later Constable John Bruner, hero of a serious outbreak at the State penitentiary several years ago, and a companion captured a young man answering the description of the robber, about two miles east of Jefferson City, on the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks near a tunnel. The captive, who had $86.25 and a 25-caliber automatic pistol, said he was Harry Gray, 19 years old, of New York. He denied the shooting, but was identified by some of those who had seen it.

EXPERTS SPECULATE ON WHY DUCKS ARE LATE

One Believes Birds Have Gone Farther North, Due to Drouth In Usual Grounds.

While thousands of sportsmen wait at their clubs in the region about St. Louis for the ducks to come south, experts are attempting to discover why the flight is this season unprecedentedly late.

Perhaps the most interesting theory is that advanced by Carlos Avery, formerly game commissioner of Minnesota. Avery is one of the foremost authorities upon the migration of ducks and geese. He thinks that drouths through the past three seasons have deprived the birds of their breeding grounds in the shallow marshes of the Northern United States and Canada, with the consequence that going further north to breed the ducks and geese have been later getting back. He says mallards and greenwing teal have not yet reached Minnesota in numbers.

Most sportsmen recall that the lateness of the flight has been coincident with severe drouths in 1921, 1922 and 1923. These drouths have only recently ended.

Louisiana Situation.

That the flight of ducks and geese is anything but normal this year is illustrated by the observations of E. A. McIlhenny at Avery Island, La. He reports that many kinds of ducks reached Louisiana this season far in advance of their usual arrival. This was particularly true of bluewing teal, a variety which was almost entirely absent this season from shooting grounds notable for their early sport with this bird. It has not been true of mallards, the duck chiefly shot about St. Louis.

Singularly, the reports of early arrivals at the Gulf Coast are true also at Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., though this great shooting ground is far north of the gulf. It is in the country between the Ohio River and the Canadian border that the absence of ducks and geese has been pronounced this year.

Answering inquiries made by the Post-Dispatch for the information of sportsmen, the following statements have been made:

J. Gould, Game Commissioner of Minnesota: There are millions of ducks still in the lakes and marshes of Minnesota and Canada, according to reports from our deputies. Hunters are not having their usual success because of the disposition of the birds to leave the shooting grounds at daybreak and remain away until night; but the birds are here and seem content to stay here as long as their feeding grounds are not frozen. I agree with Mr. Avery that the absence of rain and snow in the north through the last few years has driven ducks and geese much further north to breed, but I think their failure to appear in the central valley is due much more to the mild weather we are having in Minnesota.

Report from Iowa.

Keokuk, Ia.—Duck hunters here await colder weather before expecting any great flight from the north. Some few ducks have been killed, but the real season is not thought to have begun. Not until the feeding grounds freeze will ducks and geese start south, and there has been almost no freezing weather in the north so far. In the region around the mouth of the Des Moines River, where there are extensive marshes and many camps and clubs, the hunters are waiting for the ducks to come south precisely as they are around St. Louis.

HICKMAN, Ky.—The shooting at Reelfoot Lake has been normal this year. Great numbers of ducks have been there since the first day of the season, and the complaint of ducks coming late this year is not heard in this region.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—H. H. Hopman, Director of Information to the Louisiana Conservation Commission, disagrees with Carlos Avery as to ducks and geese migrating later this year than usual. He says they have come earlier to Louisiana, and thinks poor feed in the North possibly had more to do with it than anything else. This has been an unusually cool autumn in the South, and Hopman says he has had reports of even canvasback on the Gulf Coast early in November, though ordinarily these birds come later than that.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

You May Have It— But Don't Know It.

Norma is the name of the one successful prescription that thousands are daily taking to reduce high blood pressure to normal—often one bottle brings assurance of permanent reduction.

Used with unvarying success for many years in his private practice, and being purely vegetable and harmless, a learned Buffalo physician decided to allow it to be dispensed in pharmacies of the better class.

There is little mystery today regarding high blood pressure, yet it is a dread condition that causes constant worry to those who have it.

The most pronounced symptoms are dizzy spells, hot flashes, shortness of breath, dreams that disturb sleep, heachache, nervousness and a moody feeling that something dreadful is going to happen.

Norma is for high blood pressure and nothing else, and that is why it does reduce high blood pressure, and, as that condition usually prevails with women at the important change in life, many have found it the most helpful of remedies.

Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph, Enderle and Johnson Drug Stores sell it, and know what a wonderful medicine it is—so do druggists everywhere. If your druggist can't get it for you, it will be sent C. O. D. by mail from Norma Laboratories, Inc., Albany, N. Y.

$38

These Are Exceptional Values

THE group at $58 includes Coats of that highly luxurious character which emphasizes their distinctive origin. Deep collars, borders and cuffs of fur when combined with deep-pile fabrics have tended to reflect an elegance that rivals that of the all-fur Coat. The styles, too, are noteworthy—reproducing foremost Paris originals.

The woman who is limited in her selection by money, will be especially delighted with the $38 coat assortment, which assures her a Coat as smart and luxurious as any she has seen under $75 with the attractive difference of this low price. The values are really so unusual that they will be available at this price during the sale only. Rich-textured fabrics develop each.

DRY ENFORCEMEN SERVICE ROTTEN CORE, FOULKE SA

Head of Civil Service Ref League Charges Hay With "Outrageous Mis resentation."

WANTS UNIT BROUG UNDER MERIT SYST

Attacks Commissioner's forts to Put Blame for ity on State and Munic Officers.

BY CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Corresponde the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A proportion of the prohibitio forcement service is "rotten t core." William Dudley F president of the National Civil ice Reform League, tells Pr tion Commissioner Haynes in a ticle published today in "Good ernment," the organ of the le

Foulke charges Haynes with rageous misrepresentation" o forcement conditions in his a cated book, "Prohibition I Out." Denying repeated staten by Haynes that enforcement i coming more effective, Foulke clares there will never be any improvement till the prohi unit is brought under the meri tem. He attacks Haynes' effo place the blame for existing on State and municipal officia

Foulke recalls that on Oct. 4. Haynes issued a statement tha New York enforcement office w "excellent condition" and tha Oct. 22 a Federal grand jury re ed that the New York office been conducted in a "disgra manner."

"Awakened From Pipe Drea

"The Commissioner," Foulke cedes, "has at least awakened so much of his pipe dream a him to tell us that all was going Concealment was no longer po and it became necessary to c that violations of the law were spread and dangerous. But h insists that this is the fault o ers—of lax enforcement by Stat local officials and of general wi ness. That his own force of c spoilsmen was at the bottom o lawlessness—this he is still unw to confess."

A passage from Haynes' bo establish that dishonest Federa forcement officials are "few in ber," is quoted by Foulke a lows:

"As the result of temptatio scores of forms; 43 officers o prohibition unit have been adju guilty by the courts since the ginning of the administration. so, the force was 99 per cent est."

"Misleading Statement.

"A more outrageously disin ous and misleading statement be hard to conceive," Foulke ments. "Because only 1 pe had been actually convicted, fore 99 per cent were honest? Mr. Haynes know the percenta convictions for other crimes? report of a committee of the Association at Minneapolis tel that last year in New York 26 ders were committed and only convictions were obtained. Thi 1.15 per cent of the murders a ly committed."

Foulke believes "it is safe that the crimes committed by bition agents exceed by many the number of these agents, gle man often committing sco them." He quotes Mr. H further as stating, "of real c tion the per cent stands about half of 1 per cent." Addressin Prohibition Commissioner, he tinues:

"Mr. Haynes, if you believ you are deceiving yourself a rest of s can no longer credi you say. You tell us of 43 tions. But you say nothing 'almost numberless cases' men by President Harding in whic mediate dismissal' was necess appeal from your misleading tics to the common conscious the country that a great prop of your service is rotten t core."

Taking up in detail the st corruption told by Haynes book, Foulke says that "he gi illustrations from the officia different States and cities a from his own subordinates."

Foulke contrasts the Co sioner's statements that there been "a general decrease in prosecutions and conviction crime in general" with the rec port of the Attorney-General ing the enforcement of the V act itself," which tells us tha ing the 41 months' period in act was passed each ye brought an increase in prose and convictions; that there been at least 10,000 more tions this year than last and more than the year before."

"Now, if according to Mr. H diminished arrests and conv show improvement as to laws," Foulke comments, "do

DRY ENFORCEMENT SERVICE ROTTEN TO CORE, FOULKE SAYS

Head of Civil Service Reform League Charges Haynes With "Outrageous Misrepresentation."

WANTS UNIT BROUGHT UNDER MERIT SYSTEM

Attacks Commissioner's Efforts to Put Blame for Laxity on State and Municipal Officers.

BY CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A great proportion of the prohibition enforcement service is "rotten to the core," William Dudley Foulke, president of the National Civil Service Reform League, tells Prohibition Commissioner Haynes in an article published today in "Good Government," the organ of the league.

Foulke charges Haynes with "outrageous misrepresentation" of enforcement conditions in his syndicated book, "Prohibition Inside Out." Denying repeated statements by Haynes that enforcement is becoming more effective, Foulke declares there will never be any real improvement till the prohibition unit is brought under the merit system. He attacks Haynes' effort to place the blame for existing laxity on State and municipal officials.

Foulke recalls that on Oct. 4. 1922, Haynes issued a statement that the New York enforcement office was in "excellent condition" and that on Oct. 22 a Federal grand jury reported that the New York office had been conducted in a "disgraceful manner."

"Awakened From Pipe Dream."

"The Commissioner," Foulke concedes, "has at least awakened from so much of his pipe dream as led him to tell us that all was going well. Concealment was no longer possible and it became necessary to confess that violations of the law were widespread and dangerous. But he still insists that this is the fault of others—of lax enforcement by State and local officials and of general wickedness. That his own force of corrupt spoilsmen was at the bottom of the lawlessness—this he is still unwilling to confess."

A passage from Haynes' book to establish that dishonest Federal enforcement officials are "few in number," is quoted by Foulke as follows:

"As the result of temptation in scores of forms; 43 officers of the prohibition unit have been adjudged guilty by the courts since the beginning of the administration. Even so, the force was 99 per cent honest."

"Misleading Statement.

"A more outrageously disingenuous and misleading statement would be hard to conceive," Foulke comments. "Because only 1 per cent had been actually convicted, therefore 99 per cent were honest? Does Mr. Haynes know the percentage of convictions for other crimes? The report of a committee of the Bar Association at Minneapolis tells us that last year in New York 260 murders were committed and only three convictions were obtained. This was 1.15 per cent of the murders actually committed."

Foulke believes "it is safe to say that the crimes committed by prohibition agents exceed by many times the number of these agents, a single man often committing scores of them." He quotes Mr. Haynes further as stating, "of real corruption the per cent stands about one-half of 1 per cent." Addressing the Prohibition Commissioner, he continues:

"Mr. Haynes, if you believe this you are deceiving yourself and the rest of us can no longer credit what you say. You tell us of 43 convictions. But you say nothing of the 'almost numberless cases' mentioned by President Harding in which 'immediate dismissal' was necessary. I appeal from your misleading statistics to the common consciousness of the country that a great proportion of your service is rotten to the core."

Taking up in detail the stories of corruption told by Haynes in his book, Foulke says that "he gives his illustrations from the officials of different States and cities and not from his own subordinates."

Foulke contrasts the Commissioner's statements that there has been "a general decrease in arrests, prosecutions and convictions for crime in general" with the recent report of the Attorney-General covering the enforcement of the Volstead act itself," which tells us that during the 41 months' period since the act was passed each year has brought an increase in prosecutions and convictions; that there have been at least 10,000 more convictions this year than last and 15,000 more than the year before."

"Now, if according to Mr. Haynes, diminished arrests and convictions show improvement as to other laws," Foulke comments, "does not an increase in convictions for violation of the Volstead act show that conditions in regard to its enforcement are growing worse?"

GOV. HYDE CONFERS WITH LEGISLATORS ON ROAD SESSION

Question Is Whether Legislature Shall Be Summoned to Consider Plans for Additional Revenue.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO MAKE INQUIRY

Executive Explains Situation Which Will Restrict 1924 Bond Issue Unless More Funds Are Provided.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—Gov. Hyde today is conferring with members of the Senate and House committees on roads and the Senate Advisory Committee as to the advisability of convening the Legislature in extraordinary session to provide additional revenue for the State road fund.

The State Highway Commission has indicated that work will have to be stopped in many counties of the State next year unless additional road reevnue is provided.

Committee Named.

Soon after the conference opened in the Senate chamber, a committee of seven Representatives and five Senators was appointed to consider the emergency, and to report to the general conference later in the day. It comprised Senator N. T. Cave of Fulton; S. A. Cunningham of Cabool; Painter, Richard Ralph of Valley Park and Larry Brunk of Aurora, and Representatives R. L. Haines of Slater; D. L. Boles of Eminence; Sid Follins of Columbia; E. L. Shoemaker of Plattsburg; Charles D. Mitchell of East Prairie; W. R. Lay of Steelville, and E. H. Winter of Warrenton.

Gov. Hyde in opening the gathering said:

"To this date there have been completed out of all funds available 1046 miles of earth road and 1034 miles of hard surfaced road. There are 750 miles of earth road and 830 miles of hard surfaced road under contract. The completed roads have cost $24,000,000; the contracts call for $20,000,000; total $44,000,000. These funds up to this time have been derived from or spent under the authority of the following law: Hawes law, $1,300,000; McCullough-Morgan, $5,700,000; Federal aid $12,000,000; county and local districts' money, $12,000,000, and road bond money $13,000,000.

"The highway law of 1921 commanded that the roads should be commenced and constructed as nearly simultaneously as possible in each of the counties of the Stae.

"That requirement has been made as nearly as humanly possible and each county has had several pieces of road constructed within its borders.

"The road revenues after paying maintenance expense will permit an issue of only $2,000,000 in bonds. There is also available $2,000,000 of uncontracted bond money, and $2,000,000 of Federal aid money. This total, $6,000,000, is the measure of the amount of road projects which can be let during 1924 and such part of 1925 as may elapse before the next regular session of the Legislature can authorize more.

"This being the general situation, a demand has arisen for a special session of the Legislature to provide more road funds upon which larger issues of road bonds can be based and to authorize the bonds. It is to discuss these questions that I have called you together."

Opinion of Painter.

Former Lieutenant - Governor Painter of Carrollton, now a Democratic State Senator and president pro tem of the Senate, said:

"It is up to the Governor whether he wants work on the roads to go forward or to stop. But he will have to give the Legislature a chance to go into the question and solve it right without being trammelled by a call restricting its labor to one phase of the road situation, or the whole thing will be a fizzle.

"I for one will not vote for anything which does not provide for completion of the entire system."

Painter has suggested doubling the automobile license fees and placing a tax of 2 cents a barrel on gasoline, which he estimates would provide about $15,000,000 a year, with which the road system could be built for cash, instead of by issuing bonds. If the bond plan is to be continued an issue of $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 will be required to build all the roads, he said.

About 25 of the Legislators are here. Hyde announced today that the Automobile Club of Missouri had agreed to advance money to pay expense of the conference until the Legislature can appropriate the necessary funds.

MELLON TAX-CUT PROPOSAL AROUSES THE REPUBLICANS

All Advocates of Soldiers' Bonus Violently Oppose It and Many Against Bonus Favor Reduction.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Without committing himself either to approval or disapproval of the Treasury tax revision program, President Coolidge today let it be known that he regards the proposal as a step toward opening the way for meeting the demand of the country for lower taxes.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Congress will never enact the tax cuts recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, though he may force some tax reduction on the administration. From the storm his proposals provoked among Republicans it is clear there is nothing political in Mellon's motives.

The cold merits of the reduction are little discussed among Senators and representatives. They reduce the Mellon figures to political terms. All the bonus advocates violently oppose it. Most of those who are against the bonus favor it.

A few, like Senator Smoot of Utah, who becomes chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, merely observe that the bonus issue is to pass and hence the Mellon scheme will never get anywhere.

Smoot is against tax reduction on general principles, as untimely and inviting trouble from the La Follette faction. Senator Borah, of Idaho, has been studying the subject and intends to express his own views, presumably in line with Mr. Mellon's, in a few days. He, like Smoot, is against the bonus. He leans to the Mellon idea, believing, unlike Smoot, that it is time to cut down taxes.

Representative Green (Rep.) Iowa, acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, to whom the Mellon letter proposing the cuts was addressed, is likewise unconvinced that taxes ought to be reduced at this time, and he, too, sees sure victory for the bonus and hence considers the Mellon suggestion as chiefly academic.

"Darned Poor Judgment."

Representative Graham (Rep.) Illinois, spoke what was in the minds of most of the Representatives when he said:

"I am not in accord with Mr. Mellon, and it was darned poor judgment to express his views at this time. The people in my country are against reducing income taxes on larger incomes. I disagree with Mr. Mellon as to the bonus."

The "darned poor judgment" feature is predominant in most senatorial minds on the G. O. P. side. They consider it an uncalled-for political embarrassment.

It promptly opened the way for the radicals to make their demands for drastic statutory upheaval. Senator Norris, (Rep.) Nebraska, voices the National Progressive view by saying that a counter-proposition will be projected for no tax relief for the wealthy, for taxation of stock dividends and for abolition of tax-exempt securities.

That would cure Mr. Mellon's fears, it was added, that a continuance of present tax rates would mean a breakdown in the system and diversion of capital from productive channels.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, the first to wave the Coolidge-for-President banner, was the only regulation Republican discovered today who warmed to the Mellon idea. But then it developed he had not studied it and was speaking generally. There is one other G. O. P. Senator, Reed, of Pennsylvania, who also is for it, but he and Mellon are stanch allies in the Keystone State.

Expresses Democratic View.

Senator Glass of Virginia expressed the Democratic view, apart from the bonus advocates, by saying:

"I very earnestly favor a reduction in the great tax burden that the American people are now enduring. And, of course, I'm utterly opposed to the bonus, but for sentimental and economical reasons. The question resolves itself into whether we are to have lower taxes and no bonus or higher taxes with the bonus."

He added that he did not want to alter the luxury and amusement taxes, believing the "rich can and should pay for pleasure."

Senator Cummins of Iowa, who probably will be president of the next Senate, shared the common prophecy that the Mellon program will never be carried out.

Senator Oddie (Republican, Nevada), and Senator McKinley (Republican, Illinois), thought perhaps there could be a compromise whereby there could still be a bonus, which both favor, and a "slight reduction of taxes."

The consensus is that if anything tangible results for the beleaguered taxpayer, it will be a "slight" reduction. This view is accompanied by the hope that this will satisfy said taxpayer when he goes to the polls.

Far-Reaching Political Effects.

The political effects of the Mellon declaration are far-reaching. It means the Republican party cannot now escape from the plank so conspicuously nailed down by its own Secretary of the Treasury and presumably will have to make some reductions to escape public censure. That President Coolidge sanctioned the Mellon idea is inferred, and this caused astonishment, since by implication it aligns Mr. Coolidge against the bonus, so the bonusists heatedly contend.

The Old Guarder, who professes to be able to divine what Mr. Coolidge thinks, suggests that he has shrewdly put himself in the position of favoring tax reductions, always one of the most popular of campaign themes, without assuming responsibility for it; and that he will sign the bonus bill eventually, thus smoothing any irritated feeling that may remain in that direction. Also, it is remarked, he will have found it difficult to disagree with Mr. Mellon's cold logic.

It was explained at the Treasury today that Mr. Mellon has consulted widely about the necessity for the tax reduction, rather than political aspect, and thus arrived at his conclusions—a new tax bill, some $323,000,000 lower, as permitted by the annual surplus of nearly that much which he expected to come rolling into the Treasury for the next half dozen years.

It is said that Mr. Mellon recognizes the question is whether Congress wants the bonus or tax reduction more. That it is impossible to have both he is convinced.

The fundamental soundness of his proposals is inescapable, as conceded by Senators he has talked with, but Mellon realizes how coldly Congress is likely to regard his viewpoint.

Comment by Several Senators.

How various Senators feel about it may be gathered from the following comments:

McNary (Republican, Oregon)—I am for the bonus. I am hopeful that Congress may be able to pass the bonus and reduce taxes, too.

Wheeler (Democrat, Montana)—I do not believe Congress will accept the recommendations. Its first duty is to provide compensation for the ex-service men.

Kendrick (Democrat, Wyoming)—I am not in favor of a tax reduction which ignores a bonus long promised by Congress. The soldiers should have compensation, even if the present tax rates must continue. I do not believe that Congress will accept Mr. Mellon's recommendations.

King (Democrat, Utah)—I think Secretary Mellon is right on the bonus and the people desire a reduction of tax burdens.

Representative Greene said: "I have read Mr. Mellon's letter, but will not be able to say anything as to his recommendations. I stand where I did in the summer. If we can cut down appropriations, then we can cut down taxes. I may add that the prophets say a bonus is sure to pass."

AUSTRIAN FINANCES RECOVERING

Budget Deficit Reduced, Nation's Savings Increased.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Oct. 24.—In a report issued in Vienna, Dr. Zimmermann sums up the following features as evidence of satisfactory progress towards the restoration of Austria's finances:

The deficit of the budget has been reduced 760 billion kronen in six months; the nation's savings have been increased from 32 to 400 billions in the past 12 months; the controller has been required to advance 800 billions less for the half year than the funds in hands allowed of; unemployment has decreased 54 per cent compared with February. The report goes on to say, "The credit of the country has been fully restored, the kronen has been stabilized, foreign capital is flowing in and Austrian capital stored abroad is returning, the circulation is covered to the extent of 50 per cent by gold reserves of the National Bank and production is increasing."

Illinois Road Contracts Awarded.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 13.—Contracts for work on State bond issue roads totaling $277,345.13 in Ogle, Lee, Rock Island, Jackson and Randolph Counties have been awarded, Frank T. Sheets, Superintendent of Highways, announced today. Contracts awarded included: Route 13, Section 12A, Jackson County to W. T. Bland, Columbia, Ill., $42,123.47; Route 13, Section 12B, Jackson County, to Frazier Davis Construction Company, St. Louis, Mo., $119,800.80; Route 13, Section 21A, Randolph County, to Gains Brothers, Fairland, Ok., $35,547.92.

DAUGHERTY LINES UP WITH COOLIDGE FORCES

Attorney-General to Run for Post of Delegate-at-Large to Republican Convention.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Attorney-General Daugherty's failure to take advantage of the Coolidge entry into the White House to make his exit from the Cabinet has been construed as meaning Daugherty would jump into the "Coolidge-for-President" campaign for 1924. The construction was definitely proved true by the news that Daugherty will seek the post of delegate-at-large from Ohio in support of the Coolidge candidacy.

Hiram Johnson has lurked in the background so long that the Ohio politicians, finding it unseemly to remain uncommitted indefinitely, have about patched things up for Coolidge. Both Senators Willis and Fess—who will be among the six Ohio delegates in accordance with the customary Senatorial prerogative in that state—and Daugherty are now out for Coolidge.

The Ohio sages say the plan is to give women delegates two of the remaining places with the understanding that the convention votes cast will be for Coolidge. One of these places is expected to go to Mrs. Harding.

Predictions were made after President Harding's death that Daugherty, target of so much complaint, would relieve Coolidge of the inherited embarrassment by resigning. When the expected failed to materialize it was concluded the Attorney-General had agreed to be drafted for the Coolidge campaign.

Democratic leaders are pleased at the idea of the Daugherty retention, since the ammunition they thought they would have to throw away holds good. The Attorney-General has not made any public declarations of his intentions, but he never does. The news of his alignment and purpose to be a Coolidge delegate was authentically, if privately, given out by the Ohio political entente.

PARIS PAPER RESENTS WILSON'S ACCUSATION

Le Temps Says Charge That France Broke Treaty Is "Profoundly Unjust."

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The semi-official Temps, commenting today on former President Wilson's Armistice Day speech, says:

"His accusation is profoundly unjust when it accuses France and Italy of throwing the Versailles treaty into the wastebasket. Yet there is no one who has less right to make such a reproach than Wilson himself. He was received in Europe as the personification of the admirable spirit of the American people during the decisive phase of the war. His decisions had the greatest influence on drawing up the treaties and particularly on the very structure of the Versailles treaty.

"His intervention even provoked an international crisis at Fiume. Yet European government deferred to Wilson because he seemed the incarnation of the American people, and because stipulations suggested or accepted by him seemed sanctioned in advance by the powerful authority of the United States.

"France, to speak only of herself, made sacrifices to retain accord with Wilson. She did so because he promised her guaranties. Treaties, including the covenant of the League of Nations, had been built to repose on American co-operation. All was raised according to the advice and injunctions of Wilson as though this keystone would never be discarded. And now he accuses us!"

After declaring that the ex-President's speech seems to concern the existence of "a serious difficulty" which the French had already suspected, the newspaper says:

"The United States cannot intervene in European affairs by halves. If America wished to cease its entire aloofness, it could scarcely avoid being engaged entirely in all the great problems of Europe—even the problems of the interallied debts and territorial guarantees."

McAdoo Praises Armistice Speech of Wilson.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Former President Woodrow Wilson's Armistice day speech was a great speech in the opinion of William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, who stopped here en route to his home in the West. He said:

"Mr. Wilson has voiced the conscience and the noblest spirit of America in his Armistice day speech."

SOVIET NOTE TO FINLAND

Russian Government Denies There Are Unusual Concentrations.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1923.)

PARIS, Nov. 13.—In order to quiet the political effervescence which the German crisis and uncertainty regard Russia's intentions have created in Eastern Europe, the soviet government has presented to the Finnish Government a note denying reports of unusual concentration of red troops on the Polish and Lettish frontiers. The note declares that the soviet government is opposed to any intervention in Germany's interior affairs.

WOMAN ELECTED SECRETARY BY THE STATE DEMOCRATS

Admitted to Equal Power in Committee, Women Win First Contest When Mrs. Kate S. Morrow Lands Post

MOST OF THE MEN WERE FOR MEANS RAY

Resolution, Framed in Mild Language, Condemning the Ku Klux Klan Adopted at Meeting.

Men no longer control the Democratic party organization in Missouri. Through action of the Democratic State Committee in St. Louis yesterday, women have equal voice with men in every matter of party organization and equal power with men in determination of every question connected with organization politics in the State.

Immediately after the adoption of a resolution officially taking them into the party councils, they proceeded to demonstrate the power they expect to exert by electing one of their number secretary of the combined committee. Mrs. Kate S. Morrow of Jefferson City was the victor for the place over the opposition of the more powerful element of the men, who supported Means Ray of Jefferson City.

Career of Mrs. Morrow.

Mrs. Morrow is particularly well informed on political history of Missouri. She is the widow of W. A. Morrow, who was confidential secretary to four Missouri Governors and who died in 1912. She has been employed in stenographic and clerical positions in various offices in the State Capitol for many years, and for several years until a few months ago was an employe of the Missouri Public Service Commission.

Since the advent of woman in politics she has been very active, having assisted in organization work in the State headquarters. She has been a member of the Woman's State Committee since it was organized and was its secretary when it was taken into the state organization yesterday. She was a delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention in 1920.

Mild Anti-Klan Resolution.

The one other important action of the committee was the adoption of an anti-Ku Klux Klan resolution. It was of rather mild character, due probably to the fact that there had not been sufficient time to ascertain the probable action on a more forceful declaration. Senator Kinney, who introduced it, refused to comment upon that question, but the understanding is that it was framed in mild language because of an uncertainty that strong language would be acceptable. Its sponsors preferred to carry it in the form introduced rather than run the risk of losing one more clearly stating their views.

At the State convention in the spring, it is expected, the Ku Klux Klan issue will be fought out. There was no opposition to the resolution yesterday. It was:

"Resolved, That the Democratic State Committee of Missouri, duly assembled, renews its faith in the time-honored principles of Democracy. We pledge ourselves anew to a continuance of the struggle for the fullest civil and religious liberty. We stand as we have always stood against proscribing or limiting the right and privilege of any American citizen because of his race or religious belief."

Efforts at Harmony.

The gathering of Democrats at the meeting yesterday was the largest in Missouri in many years, except at delegate conventions. More than 300 men and woman, representing every congressional district, were in attendance, bent apparently on initiating a harmony program which would reconcile the factional differences which developed in the 1920 campaign over Senator Reed's efforts to be elected a delegate to the National Convention, and continued through the 1922 campaign when Reed sought and gained re-election to the Senate.

Both Wilson and Reed Applauded.

It is of course entirely too early for any definite plan to take form, but party leaders seem determined to prevent any factional fight which will divide the party next year. Whether the rank and file of the party will be willing to accept Reed is uncertain. The fact that Woodrow Wilson is still the idol of Missouri Democrats was evidenced by the applause which greeted mention of his name by Mrs. Emily S. Harshe of Columbia in a short speech. Mention of Reed a little later also produced applause from his supporters, of whom there was a considerable number present, but it was not equal to the Wilson demonstration.

To Improve Traffic Conditions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE funniest thing I have heard for a long time is Chief O'Brien's request for suggestions as to how St. Louis traffic conditions may be bettered. Truly, if a man in command of some 1500 police officers is in such a dilemma, the reason for St. Louis being reputed to have more fool drivers to the square inch than any city in the country is discovered.

From the viewpoint of a pedestrian and a driver, I suggest that the Chief disguise himself by shedding his "harness" and:

Tour the city in street cars. Observe and take the license numbers of drivers who "beat the street cars to it," who pass a street car on the left; who edge their way up before the cars are unloaded instead of remaining the legal distance away.

Have him prowl around on foot and observe: The hog who blocks the pedestrians' crossing while waiting for a traffic change; his traffic officers who are blind to this; the number of cars which have neither city nor county license tags; the manner in which traffic officers change traffic while pedestrians are proceeding with traffic; the failure of drivers to make boulevard stops; the jay-walkers who cut corners and cross streets in the middle of the block; the fool driver who approaches while pedestrians are crossing a street, at 30 miles an hour, and stops in a 10-foot space.

Have him tour in a car not marked Police Department at 20 miles an hour, and note the cars which pass him as if he were standing still; observe the times his arm signals are ignored by drivers in his rear; let him tour Waterman avenue and note the cars parked headed west on the south side of the street, and drivers in the act of driving west to park their cars on the wrong side of the street; note the cars parked at night on Pershing avenue, and other West End streets, with no parking lights burning; note Ford coupes carrying four and five passengers.

Tell the Chief to shake his "coppers" up and have them enforce the complicated traffic laws we have. Make a uniform enforcement the standard instead of all this "blah" in spurts. Get the offenders in court. Let the Post-Dispatch assign a reporter to keep tab on the cases which are prosecuted. If the Judges and Prosecutors start their old game of listening to political pull, pound at them with publicity.

The Chief might also have traffic officers do less smirking at drivers, especially the female of the species, and pay more attention to traffic in the vicinity of the Railway Exchange Building. It is also a well-known fact that one may park his car for life in this territory if he "knows" a checker or traffic officer. It is alleged this acquaintance is not without profit to the city servants.

Some day St. Louis will get rid of the vote-catering gang now ruling the city and an administration with more regard for saving life than votes will require that all drivers be licensed, after an examination to demonstrate they are capable of driving. Until then we shall be known as the city of dirt and jackass drivers. Especially so, with the Chief of Police asking "what to do."

Do Crooks Buy Gasoline?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NICHOLAS M. BELL recommends taxing gasoline 3 cents a gallon in the city, giving as his reason that gasoline helps crooks in making a quick getaway. Who ever heard of a crook buying gasoline? When he has a job to pull off, he steals a car and makes sure that it has enough gasoline. Our Mayor or City Council has no jurisdiction in the county nor in East St. Louis. Why drive the business away from St. Louis?

K. K. K. Mischief Makers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PLEASE allow me to congratulate Hugh Finnegan on his letter appearing in your edition of Nov. 5, on K. K. K.'s 100 per cent Americanism.

When certain distinguished members of this organization leave the pulpits of the church to preach religious prejudice and hatred amongst people, which is not only contrary to the teachings of God, but also the Constitution of the United States, there is no civilization in this country.

Instead of incarcerating such persons as the so-called political prisoners, these are the ones who should be jailed instead, for they are doing this country more harm today than persons classed as I. W. W., etc., ever will do in times of war.

One did not hear of the K. K. K. and its teachings while we were at war, because they were afraid of the law. If there were any K. K.'s at that time, they fought side by side with the Catholic and the Jew and kept their mouths shut, and it will take another war to silence them.

This Government would surely not allow this kind of propaganda in times of war—but why allow it at all?

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT AMERICAN.
Wittenberg, Mo.

TAX RELIEF OR BONUS?

Secretary Mellon has put before Congress, through the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, a straight proposition as to whether taxes on incomes of every class shall be reduced immediately or whether they shall be kept at their present level for "many years to come" in order that a bonus may be paid able-bodied ex-soldiers.

That is making the issue fairly definite to the American voter and taxpayer. The head of a family with two children whose income is $4000 to $5000 a year is given to choose whether he would rather have his Congressman vote to reduce his tax $12 to $30 a year for the next several years or vote a gratuity for patriotic service that would keep taxes where they are for an indefinite number of years. Mellon's program of tax reduction also offers the removal of theater and amusement admission taxes, telephone, telegraph and other nuisance levies which gouge the purse of the voter of moderate circumstances.

Reduction of income surtaxes in the higher brackets will meet with some popular objection, but if the Secretary's calculations, in which he expresses unhesitating faith and which have been indorsed by preceding Secretaries of the Treasury, are correct the revenue from these incomes eventually will be increased rather than reduced, because capital now being driven into tax-exempt securities at low interest would be lured into the more profitable channels of industry by the slicing of the heavy income tax penalty. It should not be overlooked in this connection that of the surtax reductions proposed only 5 per cent would fall into the brackets over $100,000.

If the Secretary's estimates of the results of his proposed tax revisions are assumed as correct they will be generally accepted and acclaimed with joy by an overwhelming majority of voters. If they are incorrect the Secretary and the administration must accept the consequences. With the adoption of Mellon's proposals only one big reform would be wanting in the Government's fiscal program. This would be a revision of the tariff to satisfy revenue needs rather than privileged protectionist needs. The people do not want more capital lured into industry if it is merely to fatten on monopoly maintained by protection at the expense of the salaried and wage-earning consumer.

PETTICOATING JUSTICE.

Art has represented Justice as a female figure, with bandaged eyes, holding balanced scales. But the figure has been draped in a dignified robe, which has never suggested the meddlesomeness of petticoat rule which characterizes the system of so-called investigators, appointed by Judge Garesche to aid the Domestic Relations Court, and so justly condemned by the bar association.

Whether or not the Circuit Court exceeded its powers in providing for investigation in certain divorce cases, as the bar association charges, the system is vicious because it empowers individuals to invade the home without the warrant of any assumption of criminality, but merely because a man and woman have disagreed and the disagreement may end in divorce. "If we could only bring about an understanding," the sentimentalists sigh, and proceed to pester the courts with demands for power to pry into the affair. Well and good; but what will be the results and where will this meddlesomeness end? The experience with the investigators working under our Domestic Relations Court shows that the system works more harm than good.

As the Post-Dispatch has pointed out, such a system naturally finds its victims among the poor and defenseless. They are treated as children. And in this treatment a number of jobs are created, which in the case of the St. Louis system appear to have been used as political plums.

Let the courts confine themselves to the establishment of justice through the methods that have been found adequate, weighing the evidence and rendering a verdict on that evidence. Poll Prying is as apt to defeat justice as to insure it. As the bar association suggests, the system should be abolished and the investigators' "findings" burned, to prevent further mischief.

ROYALTY'S RETURN.

Chancellor Stresemann's explanation of why he has allowed the ex-Crown Prince to return is clearly no explanation at all. A Government beset with as many troubles as his does not invite more trouble just to prove that it can stand "the presence of German Kings and Queens on German soil." The Chancellor's argument that the republic is strong enough to endure the presence of Frederick William cannot be true. It is more than probable that the opposite is true and that what is left of the republic was too weak to keep Frederick William of Hohenzollern in exile. The real reasons behind this sensational performance of the Berlin Government are not known, but they can perhaps be deduced. We know that last week in Bavaria a monarchist revolt by the Prussian Hohenzollern faction flared up and was crushed promptly by the Bavaria Wittelsbach faction. This made the Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria the leading pretender to the throne of the German Empire.

At about the same time we find the Berlin Government has authorized the Hohenzollern pretender to come back to Germany. We find also that Admiral Von Tirpitz, a Hohenzollern royalist, has been writing to Hitler in Munich, telling him not to be in a hurry. Hitler, however, was in a hurry and almost dished the Hohenzollerns in his excitement. As soon as the news of Hitler's ridiculous failure reached the Crown Prince he started for Germany. It is a fair guess that he has rushed off to rally the defeated Hohenzollern faction after their defeat by the Wittelsbach faction.

If this is correct, the question is why Chancellor Stresemann welcomed Frederick William back. It may have been because the royalists in Prussia are so strong that he had to. But, remembering Herr Stresemann's political connection during and before the war, this would seem at best to be only a partial explanation. There are two reasons why the presence of the Hohenzollern Crown Prince might seem to him useful. The first is that he would divide royalist sentiment into two factions, thus neutralizing the Bavarian Wittelsbachs; the second is that in case the royalists got control of Germany, Frederick William as a Prussian would insure the supremacy of Prussia. And the Berlin Government, being fundamentally Prussian, has no desire to see Bavaria become the master of a restored Germany. If there is to be a monarchy, Berlin would prefer a Prussian, a Protestant and a Hohenzollern to a Bavarian, a Catholic and a Wittelsbach.

Meantime, the ex-Kaiser is reported to have procured passports and is preparing to follow on the heels of his son. The report is unconfirmed, but it is entirely credible. And if Germany discards her threadbare democratic rags and again dons "shining armor" the blame will not be entirely chargeable to Berlin. The responsibility will be shared by Paris, London and Washington.

INFANT CHAUFFEURS.

Until he is 21 years of age a boy is legally an infant. He cannot make a contract, he must be represented in lawsuits by an adult and he cannot marry without parental consent. He is not considered fully responsible.

But he can possess and drive a high-powered automobile, without any other preparation than the obtaining of a license. And he can, as 16-year-old Vincent Orcutt did on Sunday, hurl his machine through the streets at 60 miles an hour, or faster if the mechanism permits, running down other machines with their passengers, or killing and maiming pedestrians. In this case a baby was hurled 50 feet and instantly killed, its parents were injured, and the "infant" boy, with other youths and girls, evidently on a joy ride, escaped uninjured from the crash.

There are, of course, numerous adults as reckless as this boy. But age is supposed to bring care and thoughtfulness. If boys under 21 were to undertake to drive locomotives, they would be promptly stopped. The thing would be universally condemned. Why should boys or girls be permitted to drive automobiles through the streets?

THERE is a sense in which the hunter is unlike other men.
It is the chase that leads him on.
The rest tire and turn back—
But not the hunter!

Thus was the West won, and thus through two days of last week did we see the Ozarks.
In November the Ozarks are loveliest.
Row upon row of brown ridges—
Vale after vale—
Unbelievably still—
And Oh, so old and worn!

You know, the Ozarks were there before many of the more celebrated mountains had been thought of.
They look it.
They look as if the old Indians found by the Heye Expedition had worn the rough edges of the rock off chasing the first land creatures for food.
Most mountains look as if they had been put up for tourists.
They seem new, and their design is spectacular.

Not so the Ozarks.
They were made before there was the least idea that anybody would ever see them.
Man, you know, was an afterthought.
A rather unfortunate one, too.

But we have no time now to discuss that.
What we want to say is that the Ozarks in November are like old leaves which one sometimes finds in a book.
They are that color and that old.
Sometimes, standing upon one of the heights, the hunter looks into blue valleys and shining streams.
Then a grove of cedars beckons to him from one of the rocky cliffs.
What a hallowed, deserted old range of mountains it is!
What an old brown leaf from the book of Time!

These are the thoughts of the hunter as he goes up hill and down.
As he drinks from clear springs.
As he steps quietly about the deserted homes.
The Ozarks have many deserted homes.
There home, too, seems an old proposition—
Something of which men have somehow tired.
A beautiful ideal, like the Ozarks themselves, sort of worn smooth and played out.

There are always old deserted orchards about these homes—
Windows boarded up—
Cedars softly sighing for days gone.
Once children laughed and played in these yards—
Dogs barked—
Roosters crowed—
And light shone from the windows at night.

You go off down the hill thinking sadly of these places—
How they increase in number from year to year—
How from the old wholesome life in the country we have turned to the unwholesome life of the city—
From the farm to the flat—
Leaving the Ozarks still, lovely, mellow—
And wondering!

According to The Adventure Magazine, Missouri does not mean "Muddy River" or "Muddy Water" as has been generally believed. The name, which was originally applied to a tribe of Indians which inhabited its banks, literally translated means "Wooden Canoe" or "the people who use wooden canoes."

However, the river is just as muddy as if the contrary were true.

Sir: Students of geography and, in fact, almost any of the natural or applied sciences will find it to their advantage to attend the movies regularly. They will find much to upset preconceived notions and a lot of the "book learning" that they were wont to depend on. They will also discover a lack of permanence in many things that in this world have heretofore "stayed put," making, therefore, phrases such as those relating to the "eternal hills" back numbers. A few of my own observations will illustrate:

The eucalyptus tree, so successful in California, has evidently undergone some process of evolution adapting it to various colder climes. It now grows in Central Park, New York, in large numbers. That this evolution is probably a mere reversion to type is suggested by a picture I saw recently, showing the eucalyptus in rural England in the seventeenth century.

The giant sequoia of the Sierras has been on the job, too, pushing northward toward the pole. No "great white north country" film is complete without the sequoia. Give them time and we will see them on the beach at Nome.

Mountains have been restless these days, and one never can tell what to expect. In the course of one picture not long ago I gazed with wonder upon the Nebraska plains walled in by lofty ranges; the approach to Omaha over a road that zigzagged downward on the side of a precipice, and the New York-Philadelphia highway pursuing its course among round, bare hills and through that chaparral with which the inhabitants of Newark and Trenton, N. J., are so familiar. Last week I discovered that Louisiana is not entirely a verdant paradise, for on the Mississippi, not far above New Orleans, I saw forbidding, desert mountains. This surprised me almost as much as did the steep, rocky coast of Virginia.

Soil conditions are not always what I supposed. I have always longed to tread the soft, velvety turf of old England, beneath the immemorial oaks; the turf I saw the other day raised such an infernal dust that it might have been an Illinois dirt road in a dry July.

While on this general subject, I must warn railroad men and regular travelers to New York via the New York Central to expect radical changes in service. The suburban zone, between the Grand Central Station and Harmon, is no longer electrified. They have gone back to steam, and the line which formerly had four to six tracks now has but one for most of the distance. In order to surmount the difficult grades for which this part of the Hudson Valley is noted, it is necessary to double-head all passenger trains of six cars and over.

The movie producers should be thankful that the public are not inclined to split hairs over technicalities. The rest of us should rejoice that occasionally we have pictures like "Sherlock Holmes" and "If Winter Comes" that were produced in their proper setting. A. L. B.

The oldest continuously worked lead mine in the United States is situated north of Fredericktown in Madison County, Missouri. This mine is more than 100 years old. Ancient lava rocks nearly 50,000,000 years old are found in this region, this being about half the age of some of the State's political beliefs.

MATERNITY.

A WOMAN passing on a sordid street,
A child upon her arm, another stumbling
Along beside her holding to her hand,
Poverty written plain upon them all.
And soon (alas, too soon!) there'll be another;
Just one more mouth to feed, one more to find
A shelter for from cold and wind and snow.
I watch her as she passes on her way,
The sorrowful Madonna of the poor.

GOVERNMENT FINANCES.

ANDREW W. MELLON in the World's Work.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S unflagging pressure upon the spending departments of the Government, coupled with the establishment of the budget system, which gave him a strong arm with which to work, has yielded most gratifying results. A surplus has been shown in each of the last two fiscal years of around $300,000,000, and the last surplus was achieved after a beginning in which a deficit of around $800,000,000 was forecast. To a very considerable extent this notable result may be attributed to the President's demand for economy, and to the co-operation he obtained from the spending departments. The Treasury finds satisfaction in the fact that it has shared in the accomplishment, both in the discharge of its own administrative duties and in its function as fiscal adviser to the Government as a whole. The achievement of a surplus in each of the last two fiscal years contributed essentially to the debt reduction that was effected during the period. It is the hope of the Treasury that the Government will maintain this position in the succeeding years and continue to supplement its sinking fund each year with substantial amounts saved out of current revenues. I know of few aids to the restoration of the economic structure of the world that will count so heavily, materially and morally, as that sort of thrift and frugality by the American Government.

HOLLAND'S NAVAL PROBLEM.

From the New York Times.

FOR months the Netherlands have been debating the building of a fleet for the protection of the great East Indian empire on which Dutch prosperity so largely rests. Conservatives were for it, Socialists and the Left Wing generally against it; but it was believed that the bill would be carried by votes of the Catholic party. Yet Catholic votes were divided, and when the bill came to a vote it was beaten by the narrowest of possible margins, 50 to 49. So slender a margin might perhaps not necessitate the fall of a Ministry in ordinary times, but this was an issue long and virulently debated, supported with vehemence particularly by Jonkheer van Karnebeek, the able and experienced Foreign Minister.

AN IDEAL SCHOOL OF THE FUTURE.

GERALD CHITTENDEN in November Scribner's.

WHAT we teach you here will not assure you of a job when you leave us, or ever add one dollar to your income. Your material well-being in the future does not interest us in the least; indeed, if we succeed with you as well as we may hope to do, you will choose your career not because it is lucrative, but because it is interesting, and the best of you will enter occupations in which the accumulation of money, instead of being a criterion of success, will be something you will have to explain. Such occupations are politics, medicine, the ministry, and teaching; there are many more. In lieu of material advantages we offer you the chance to make your mind hospitable to new ideas and tenacious of the good in human experience. You will be chary how you take anybody else's word for what that good is; you will be fitted to weigh evidence and to think independently and impersonally. We will show you how to pursue truth, or, if it happen that your mind is cast in a different mold, how to pursue beauty, which is also truth. We will enable you to act, when you are confronted with a new situation, in such a way that your deeds will stand accurately in a sequence of cause and effect which began before you were born and will continue after you are dead. If you catch the spirit of our instruction, you will become convinced of your own insignificance in the scheme of things—and that is the road to happiness.

FINDS LACK OF EMOTION IN 'A ROYAL FANDANGO'

Critic Complains That Zoe Akins' Latest Play Turns to Unrelieved Foolery.

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
Drama Critic of the New York World.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Ethel Barrymore was a slim young Queen, beautiful and venturesome. She cast her eyes upon a matador and he was glamorous. All the warm romance which was not in Romeo and Juliet seemed potential upon the stage of the Plymouth Theater last night. And after acts and acts the matador and the Queen were left alone and he made love to her, whereupon the Queen fell asleep and snored gently. Can Zoe Akins be serious about anything?

Of course, she can, but by some curious perversity she has brushed against a wholly romantic theme in "A Royal Fandango" and insisted on spoofing it through a little tepidly. The highfalutin', but altogether winning, eloquence of "Declasse" never comes to "A Royal Fandango." In the beginning we did not mind the levity, for the first act is as charming as anything Miss Akins has ever written. The comedy has just enough wistfulness to make it ingratiating and then it turns to unrelieved foolery.

To be sure, we have not yet been commissioned to watch people's plays and cry out, "Here, now, we want you to do a different sort of story altogether." But we insist that it is not fitting that two people, so altogether incinerating as Miss Barrymore and young Jose Allesandro, should be permitted to move side by side throughout a play without a truly earnest love scene.

Tea Party and a Few Snores.

Of course, we might feel compelled to throttle our protests if the foolery of Miss Akins were first rate throughout. It isn't. After the opening act creating ingenuity dwindles. Incident diminishes. Grace and wit of line is all that remains.

It may seem a curious charge to bring against the playwright who grew slightly inebriated over the glories of the mad Varicks, but "A Royal Fandango" suffers from a lack of emotion. We will go further and say that we would much prefer to have it sentimentalized far beyond its present estate.

We are naive enough to feel disappointed when Miss Akins begins by suggesting a great passion and then allows it to simmer down to a tea party and a few snores.

The satire of "A Royal Fandango" has in it something almost suicidally seditious, for the author at whom the playwright seems to be poking fun during the greater part of the evening is Miss Zoe Akins. This author, who grew tremulous over the fact that her heroine of "Declasse" was Lady Something-or-other, now insists on remaining callously calm over an authentic queen in love with a bullfighter.

More Romeo Than a Matador.

It may be romanticism or again mere snobbery, but when a Queen is put into a story we are never satisfied unless she is permitted a fling or so of regality. Mr. Molnar had the right idea, according to our notion, in "The Swan." He did not hesitate to josh his royal family liberally but he made moving concessions to all of us who have been brought up on the literary and theatrical tradition that coronets are quite a bit more glamorous than kind hearts.

If the intent was to be so farical we rather think it was a mistake to cast anybody as beautiful as Jose Alessandro in the role of the matador. This young Argentine actor keeps the spectator wondering whether it is Rodolph Valentino or Louis Firpo whom he most strongly suggests. We are told that this is his first English-speaking part. He is, among other things, a most accomplished comedian and can do more with a shrug than many an actor is able to accomplish with a whole armful of sides. Still, when a young man looks so much like Romeo, it is a pity not to let him be Romeo for a spell.

Miss Barrymore's Comedy Good.

Miss Barrymore has seldom played comedy better, in spite of the fact that she suffered visibly from first-night nervousness. In her case, too, we wished that she might be allowed to get more than her fingertips upon an emotion. It is enough to say of the story that the Queen charms the matador until he swoons and that after that auspicious beginning nothing in particular comes of it.

Perhaps, it will be well to emphasize the fact that the first act is a triumph for both players and playwright. Shaw himself has seldom written more shrewdly or entertaining of women the pursuer, but Miss Akins has made her heroine only a sprinter. Three acts proves too long a route.

ENTERTAINING A VISITOR

—Kandeler Photograph.

MISS MARGARET CHANDLER.

MISS CHANDLER, daughter of Warren M. Chandler of 5247 Waterman avenue, is entertaining Miss Georgianna Hawkins of Providence, R. I. A number of informal parties are being planned for the visitor. Miss Chandler gave a dinner in his honor last night.

Social Items

A quaint as well as unique party was given at the Florissant Valley Country Club last night to celebrate the thirty-fourth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace Niedringhaus of 10 Westmoreland place. There were 58 guests, who appeared in gowns worn at their weddings of a generation ago at the request of Mrs. James M. Franciscus, who planned the function as a surprise for the honor guests. The original invitation was to a small dinner at the Franciscus home, but at the last minute request of the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Niedringhaus motored to Florissant Valley, where the surprise awaited them.

Two long tables lighted with old-fashioned white tapers flanking a "two-story" wedding cake, at which were seated three-score brides and bridegrooms of the early '90s, presented a beautiful picture, and except for the hair that had become silvered with the years, it might have been taken that many years ago.

As Mr. and Mrs. Niedringhaus entered the club the musicians struck up the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," and a procession of bridal couples, with a bridesmaid here and there, wended its way down the winding staircase to greet them. Each bride carried a bouquet, some of the round variety such as they had on their bridal day, while others were the more modern shower. The veils were held to their coiffures in many fashions and fell in somewhat ragged splendor over gowns slightly yellowed with age. Of the gowns themselves much could be said. Made in the period when bustle backs, puffed sleeves and long, full, circular skirts were in vogue, contrast with the fashions of today was amusing, but in some cases a reproach to the present styles.

Mrs. Neidringhaus wore white satin brocade, with at least 20 yards of the material in the skirt, short puffed sleeves with trimmings of rose point drooping low to form the low shoulder line of that day, and a chou of the lace as a stomacher. She wore at her throat the diamond sunburst given her by Mr. Niedringhaus 34 years ago, and a fulle veil caught at the back of her hair with a ruching that formed a halo for her face.

Mr. and Mrs. William Caleb Sipple of Brentmoor will introduce their second daughter, Miss Katherine, to society tonight at a dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club. Two hundred members of the younger set have been invited, including all of the debutantes, who, with their escorts, will sit at the table with the honor guest. The club will be decorated in pink roses and palms. Mr. and Mrs. Sipple, and their older daughter, Miss Mary Lemon Sipple, a bud of last season, will be in the receiving line. Miss Katherine will wear white moire with trimmings of silver lace. There will be a tunic of the lace over a bouffant skirt, confined by a coral velvet girdle. She will carry pink roses. Mrs. Sipple will wear blue velvet and Miss Mary Lemon white velvet. The debutante was educated at Mary Institute, the Ethel Walker School in New York and the Weaver School at Tarrytown-on-Hudson.

One of the larger debutante luncheons of the week was given today by Mrs. William N. Claggett of 5115 Lindell boulevard, complimentary to Misses Frances Compton, Jane McElroy, Josephine Garrett and Marie Wygant, four buds of the season. The guests were Misses Judith Dana, Lauralouise Price, Grace Layman, Grace Wallace, Katherine Steedman, Katherine Sipple, Mary Elizabeth Edwards, Janet, Frances and Mary Virginia Collins, Trimble and Lucy Hoblitzelle, Mary Tiffany, Emily Shepley, Louise Bemis, Celeste Terry, Mary Francis Dickson, Polly Wyles, Elizabeth Ballard, Marie Nugent, Josephine Moffitt and Dorothy Simmons.

The marriage of Miss Blanche Erbelding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Erbelding of 4570 Oakland avenue, to Edward B. Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Watson of Chicago, will take place at 3 o'clock, Nov. 24, in the home of the bride's parents. Only close friends of the families will be present.

MRS. SUZANNE EWING TO WED W. C. STRIBLING JR

They Will Be Married in New York Thursday—Announcement a Surprise.

Mrs. Suzanne Northrop Ewing, daughter of Mrs. Reid Northrop of Tulsa, Ok., and William C. Stribling Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William C Stribling of the St. Regis Apartments, will be married at noon Thursday in the Hotel Lorraine, Forty-fifth street and Fifth avenue, New York City.

Announcement of the plans for the wedding, which is to be informal, comes as a surprise to St. Louis friends of the principals. Mrs. Ewing is one of the proprietors of Suzanne, Inc., a gown shop at Hotel Chase, where she resides. She has been in the East since September.

Sidney Runyan of 4600 Maryland avenue, who is to be one of the attendants at the wedding, left Scott Field yesterday in an airplane, with an army officer, to fly to Bolling Field, Washington, and will go from there to New York for the ceremony.

The wedding will take place in the apartment of James R. Wheeler, in Hotel Lorraine. The bride will wear a tailored gown of dark blue, of a French model, with a small Patier hat to match. Her bridal bouquet will be of white gardenias.

The bridegroom's gift is a gold mesh bag, set with diamonds and sapphires. Immediately after the ceremony they will sail for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Platt, the latter Mrs. Ann Drew Platt, both formerly of St. Louis, who were remarried on Nov. 6, last, after having been divorced for two years, will act as best man and matron of honor.

Mrs. Ewing was married several years ago to Frank Ewing of New York. They were divorced about three years ago, Mrs. Ewing going to Tulsa where she established a Suzanne, Inc., shop. About a year ago she established a similar shop at Hotel Chase.

Stribling, who resides at 5102 Waterman avenue, is a half brother of Lady Edwine Peek, formerly Miss Edwine Thornburgh, of St. Louis, who married Sir Alfred Peek, an English baronet. Stribling and another sister, Mrs. Mildred Stribling, went to New York early this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Orthwein II have taken an apartment in the Oxford, Waterman avenue and Union boulevard, which they will occupy soon. Mrs. Orthwein was Miss Dorothy McBride. Their marriage took place in Asheville, N. C., and they recently returned to St. Louis from there after spending some time with Mrs. Orthwein's mother, Mrs. William Cullen McBride.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Nicholson, 5501 Cabanne avenue, will depart for the East, Saturday, to visit friends in Baltimore, New York City and Boston, before returning to St. Louis Dec. 1.

Mrs. M. H. Barker of 5764 Westminster place announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Tesse, to Emanuel F. Werner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Werner of 5514 Pershing avenue.

PROF. J. B. ROBINSON'S FUNERAL ON FRIDAY

Former Head of W. U. School of Architecture, Author of Books.

The funeral of Prof. John Beverly Robinson, 70 years old, former head of the Washington University school of architecture, philosopher and publicist, who died of heart disease at 5 p. m. yesterday at his home, 4339 West Pine boulevard, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Artists' Guild, 812 Union boulevard. The body will be cremated at Valhalla Cemetery.

Prof. Robinson had neither religious nor political affiliation and the funeral service likely will consist of appropriate remarks by a number of kindred spirits.

He had retired from the university about six years ago because of heart trouble. Sunday he and Mrs. Robinson dined out and attended a theater; as they left the play the professor complained of feling ill and during the night physicians were called in. His condition grew worse until he died.

He was the last living member of the fifth generation of descendants of Col. Beverly Robinson, who organized a regiment that fought in the Revolutionary War. He was born in New York City June 10, 1853, and was educated in private schools and Columbia University, where he was graduated in 1872. He engaged in the architectural profession and was a member of the New York firm of Thayer & Robinson, 1882-97. He designed a number of fine country homes in the vicinity of New York.

Some of His Writings.

From 1897 to 1910 he was Deputy Superintendent of New York Public School Buildings, engaging in the meantime in occasional professional writings. In 1899 he published "Princiles of Architectural Composition," and in 1908, "Architectural Composition," which became internationally known as a college text and was the direct cause of his engagement to conduct the school at Washington University.

He characterized his years at the university as the happiest of his life. In 1916 he published "Economics of Liberty," an embodiment of his unusual political views. Recently he translated from the French a work along the same lines. Frequently he wrote articles and letters setting forth his philosophy; some of these were printed in the old Reedy's Mirror and some in the Post-Dispatch. Yesterday a letter from him, under the caption, "Fear and Force Must Pass," appeared in the People's Column of the Post-Dispatch; it ended with the prediction of an "era, not of scrambling upon the back of another, but of peaceful equality of interests and the fraternity thence arising."

Hated All Political Parties.

The professor hated all political parties, and consequently he did not vote. A university associate said: "His writings were generally socialistic or anarchistic, but outside of that he was the most law-abiding citizen of the United States. Sometimes he would air his views in lectures before various organizations. It was explained that he belonged to no church because he held no religious conviction. He was a member of the Artists' Guild. Friends characterized him as "courageous, kind and chhivalrous."

Prof. and Mrs. Robinson were married in New York in 1885. Three children survive, namely, Mrs. W. McKim Marriott of 4763 Westminster place, wife of the dean of Washington University medical school; Beverly and Devereux Robinson of New York, who will arrive here tomorrow.

FUNERAL OF THEODORE C. LINK TO BE HELD HERE TOMORROW

Body of Union Station Architect Being Sent to St. Louis From Louisiana.

The funeral of Theodore C. Link, 73 years old, widely known architect, who designed the St. Louis Union Station and the Washington University medical buildings, will be at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow from an undertaking establishment at 3621 Olive street. The body is expected to reach here early tomorrow from Baton Rouge, La., where Link died yesterday morning after a brief illness, as was told yesterday.

His widow and son, Clarence V., will arrive with the body. Link had been in Louisiana supervising construction of the $3,000,000 State University and Greater Agricultural College, which he designed.

Lieutenant-Governor Homer Casteel and John Rowan, secretary of the State Bond Improvement Commission, are coming here to represent the State of Mississippi at the funeral.

MB Means Best

THIS table stove is made for the practical housekeeper who sensibly cooks light meals at the table—with her family.

Table cooking is practical with a Manning-Bowman table stove because it cooks three things at once, where the ordinary grill cooks only two.

It makes waffles and toasts bread on both sides at once.

The utensils are aluminum—made and finished better than those supplied with any other grill or stove.

FUNERAL OF ALBERT FINK TO BE HELD HERE TOMORROW

Actor, Known Here as Thomas Garrick, Was Educated in St. Louis Public Schools.

The funeral of Albert B. Fink, known to theater-going St. Louisans of a decade or more ago as Thomas Garrick, who died last Thursday in New York, after several years' ill health, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from a chapel at 4449 Olive street to Bellefontaine Cemetery.

He was a son of the late Charles Fink, who was known 15 or 20 years ago for his activity in St. Louis civic affairs. He was educated in local public schools, Kemper Military Academy and later in an Eastern school, before beginning his career in New York. He played many St. Louis engagements with Frederick Warde and others and last was here, more than 10 years ago, with his brother-in-law, Willie Collier, the comedian, at the Jefferson. He was a member of the Lambs' Club. He leaves his widow.

TO NAME PEAK AFTER POPE PIUS

Alpine Club Will Conduct Referendum on Choice.

Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Nov. 13.—The Italian Alpine Club will conduct a referendum to choose a peak in the Italian Alps to be named after Pope Pius, long an ardent Alpinist. It must be picturesque, difficult to climb, of special scientific interest and clearly marked on existing maps.

County Attorney Acquitted.

By the Associated Press.

SHAWNEE, Ok., Nov. 13.—Claude Hendon, Pottawatomie County Attorney, was found not guilty by a jury in District Court here of six charges of official misconduct which formed the basis of ouster proceedings instituted against him by the Attorney-General's department. The principal allegation was that he attempted to prevent the Oct. 2 special election.

HOPES AGAIN DASHED IN SEARCH FOR CHILD

Girl Found at Picher, Ok., Not Pearl Turner, Who Disappeared Oct. 19.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Nov. 13.—Mystery, as deep as at any time since she disappeared from her humble home on the wind-swept slopes of White Oak Mountains Oct. 19, still keeps 3-year-old Pearl Turner hidden from the hundreds who have combed the hills and valleys in search of her. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Turner, who reside near Waldron, Scott County.

The hopes built up by searchers late Saturday, which seemed promising throughout Sunday, fell yesterday morning when pictures of a child found at Picher, Ottawa County, Oklahoma, were shown to the mother by newspaper men and Sheriff Charles Allen of Waldron. bore a striking resemblance to the child, the mother admitted, but it was not she.

Parents Halted on Trip.

The mother and father, who had hastened from Booneville Sunday night, bent on making the 150-mile trip to Picher overland in a car furnished by citizens, were halted at this point on orders from Sheriff Allen over long distance telephone from Miami, Okla., late Sunday, after he had conversed with Bill Holman, who is in jail on a charge of possessing a forged check. Holman claimed to be the father of the child at Picher and his claims were corroborated by relatives here.

And so Monday afternoon the parents of the child, whose disappearance has caused more excitement in western Arkansas and Eastern Oklahoma than any other incident within the memory of oldtimers, returned to their home in the hills and prepared to await new developments in the search, which, according to authorities, will be prosecuted with renewed vigor.

Posses numbering, at times, more than 1000 persons, within two days after the child mysteriously disappeared began combing the hills within a radius of 10 miles of the child's home and continued without ceasing for 16 days until reports, considered authentic, were received that a child, believed to be the Turner baby, had been seen at different points in Western Arkansas and in two instances as far away as Oklahoma.

Quest Suspended.

Only then did the searchers, drawn from a dozen counties in Arkansas, come down out of the hills to await the outcome of the latest clues, suspending their quest for the child.

Pearl, who had suffered from a cough, wandered from her home on Oct. 19, in a thin blue dress. She was barefooted. Her father had hitched his team and was preparing to drive several miles over the hills when he was spied by his daughter. She begged that she be allowed to accompany him, but the request was refused. She had followed him several hundred yards before he noticed her and he ordered her to return to the house. She has not been seen since.

The child found at Picher said she was Elizabeth Holman, but that she used to be called Pearl Turner. The likeness between the two children, not related, is remarkable.

BETTER FOR WORLD IF U. S. HAD NOT FOUGHT, ZANGWILL SAYS

Asserts War Then Would Have Been a Draw and Militarism Would Have Died.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. — The United States was not attacked in the last war, and "it would have been better for the world, as things turned out, if you had not gone in at all," Israel Zangwill, English author, has written as part of his reply to S. Stanford Menkin, president of the National Security League, who in a speech at Perth Amboy, N. J., Sunday night charged Mr. Zangwill's recent criticism of things American.

"There then would have been a draw and militarism would have been killed instead of reviving in other countries," Zangwill continued. "My idea of the folly of preparedness does not attach to America alone, but to all the world. I am for the policy of disarmament, which I believe is also an American ideal, and which was the reason why our statesmen in England, at least—Asquith for example—were determined to prolong the war indefinitely.

It is useless mentioning old historical analogies when you are face to face with such terrible new weapons of destruction that all ideas of preparedness must be revised. That was why I insisted the real thing that as necessary was mental preparedness, to be aware of the causes that produce war, and to try to circumvent it."

Attorney Argues Own Case and Loses.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 13.—P. S. Dickerson, Fort Smith Attorney, recently convicted of making whisky, argued his own case before the Arkansas Supreme Court yesterday and lost. Miss Darden Moose, an assistant attorney general, appeared for the State, to argue against Dickerson's contentions, which included allegations that his conviction resulted from prejudice and that the grand jury which indicted him was illegal because two of its members were women. The Supreme Court sustained the action of the lower court in imposing a sentence of one year.

Change of Climate for Obregon.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—President Obregon has left El Furte for Celaya, in the State of Guanajuato, where he will reside until his health has been fully restored. The change was ordered because the physicians felt the climate at Celaya would be more beneficial to the chief executive.

Watchman's Skull Fractured.

Joseph Walsh, 38 years old, of 4604 North Twentieth street, a watchman, found in a semiconscious condition on the sidewalk in front of 1429 South Broadway last night, suffering from a fractured skull and jaw and lacerated scalp, was unable to tell just what happened to him. He said he was walking along the street when he was attacked from behind by several men whom he did not see. He said he believed there were five or six men implicated in the assault and said he believed he was mistaken for another. He is employed by the C., B. & Q. Railroad.

A. A. VAN CLEAVE WEDS HIS FORMER TYPIST

Bride Was Miss Blanch Nation; Wedding "Some Time Ago," Says Bridegroom's Sister.

Arville A. Van Cleave, 42 years old, wealthy fire clay mine operator, and his bride, who was Miss Blanch Nation, 27, his former stenographer, are at Melbourne Hotel, where they are temporarily making their home. Van Cleave, who was divorced March 1 last by Mrs. Blanche B. Van Cleave, today declined to say when the marriage took place, but a sister said it was "some time ago."

The present Mrs. Van Cleave was brought into a separate maintenance suit, instituted in 1922 by Mrs Blanche B. Van Cleave, when Van Cleave admitted giving his stenographer $10,000 in Liberty Bonds in 1918. He asserted, however, that the gift was for efficient service during the Grand View Fire Clay Mine's war prosperity.

A note addressed to "Dear Daddy Long Legs" and signed your "Lovable Bolshevik," was introduced into this suit. Miss Nation admitted writing it, but said it was not to Van Cleave but was a form letter to several railroad representatives whom she had "jollied" in getting cars for the company during a car shortage.

Van Cleave and his first wife had been married 19 years at the time of their separation in 1920. In the divorce suit she was awarded $27,000 in gross alimony, a residence and $50 a month for each of their three children. The present Mrs. Van Cleave began working for him when she was 17.

Sullivan's Granddaughter Killed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Funeral services were being arranged today for Mary Sullivan, 11-year-old granddaughter of the late Democratic leader, Roger Sullivan. Mary was accidentally shot by her cousin, Roger Sullivan, 10, while the two children were playing. Mary's brother, Aram, 8, was the only witness of the tragedy. The children were playing near Tinely Park, when Roger found a revolver in the Sullivan car, and in running to show his find to his playmate it was discharged.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL DEDICATED

Visitation Parish Building of California Bungalow Type.

The $75,000 Catholic school building of Visitation Parish, at Taylor and Evans avenues, was dedicated formally Sunday afternoon by Archbishop Glennon. The pastor, the Rev. Joseph Collins, and O'Neill Ryan, participated in the ceremonies.

The building is of Tudor Gothic architecture, constructed with an exterior of velour high-tex brick. It is patterned after California bungalow school buildings, which are limited to one-story in fear of earthquakes. The new Visitation School has an assembly hall in the center, where an open court is found in the California schools.

New Pastor to Be Installed.

The Rev. John N. Thompson will be installed as pastor of the McCausland Avenue Presbyterian Church Sunday, Nov. 25, by the St. Louis Presbytery.

He comes to St. Louis from a pastorate at Warsaw, Ill. He is a native of Scotland and came to this country at the invitation of the late Dwight L. Moody, American evangelist. He succeeds the late Rev. Samuel A. Colle at the McCausland Avenue Church.

FROM CITY'S SMOKE TO VIEW OF HILLS ON BUS

Many Points of Interest to Be Seen on 55-Minute Ride for Dime.

From the smoke of Eads Bridge to a view of Autumn's haze over the Meramec hills, is an open-air ride which bus line passengers are enjoying for a dime, since the recent opening of the South Grand boulevard route, to Carondelet Park.

As many top-deck pleasure passengers have discovered, there is more to see on this new South Side line than there is on the route to the West End, which the bus line management has been operating since last spring.

Of the 55-minute trip, the first 15 minutes is the same as the start of the West End line, out Washington boulevard to Grand. Then, instead of the cutoff to the right, the street is followed, and the bus bumps over the Olive street crossing.

University Buildings.

Education, military science and transportation are in the foreground as the big double-decker heads south. St. Louis University, a century old as an institution, though the present buildings date only from 1889 gives a glimpse of scholastic cloisters. To the left, a moment later, is the First Regiment Armory, and beyond the stretch of railroad tracks and the moving trains are the more impressive battlements of the artillery armory. Next to the left is the medical department of the same St. Louis University, where half-open windows give glimpses of clinical white jackets.

The new Missouri Pacific hospital, biggest and newest structure in a neighborhood of well-kept business buildings, divides attention with Reservoir Park and its "Naked Truth," attempt at artistic symbolism. From the Reservoir south, for all the brave show made by movie theaters, and turnvereins, and eating places, the prevailing atmosphere is a churchly one.

There are the Little Sisters' Home, and the fine facade and tower of St. Pius' Church, and Lutheran and Methodist churches, not so ambitious in architecture but equally favored in location, and St. Anthony's Hospital, and in the near view, the gleaming twin crosses of the Monks' Church and a third gilded cross on the tower of a neighboring convent. To the right, out Gravois avenue, is the imposing red brick pile of the House of the Good Shepherd.

Tower Grove Park, with quaint creatures of iron surmounting its entrance pillars, stretches to the west in the midst of this worshipful array. Beyond Meramec street, where the bus line loses the competition of the Grand cars, one more large church institution appears, St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum.

Cleveland High School.

The athletic field of Cleveland High School furnishes a fine foreground for the school building, while nearer at hand, one of the handsomest of the new grade schools, that named for the late Richard M. Scruggs, is seen.

Blocks and blocks of bungalows follow. Just a beginning, perhaps, of what is to be, for subdivision selling is still going on to the west. One of the most pretentious of the bungalows on Grand has a gable as sharp as the Shaksperean serpent's tooth.

To the right, the prospect over the truck gardens, and away to the Meramec valley, becomes more charming as the ride continues. Late afternoon is the time to get this scene at its best, and to appreciate, too, the prettiness of the wooded view at the Carondelet Park entrance, after a viaduct over train tracks is crossed. That is the end of the ride, but the person who just went for the air and the view will probably remain on top, and will perhaps get a transfer west from Grand on the return, thereby seeing the rest of what the bus line has to show its passengers.

1297 BOGUS PRESCRIPTIONS IN DRUG STORE, DRY AGENTS SAY

Federal prohibition enforcement agents in the last eight months have come upon a few counterfeited whisky prescriptions here and there in periodical examination of the files of druggists, and yesterday claim to have found 1297 such counterfeits on the spindles at the drug store of Hugo Ridolfi, 1334 Cass avenue.

They arrested Ridolfi and charged him with having illegally disposed of 1297 pints of whisky.

Whisky prescriptions are printed and issued by the Government to physicians on their application to prescribe whisky for medicinal purposes, and the counterfeits are said to be quite like the genuine blanks. In all discoveries thus far made names of physicians, it is alleged, have been forged to the counterfeits.

WIFE REWED, HE GETS PASSPORT

By the Associated Press.

PHILIPPOPOLIS, Bulgaria, Nov. 13.—A Bulgarian Enoch Arden has solved his problem in a drastic way and spared the embarrassment of his remarried spouse by getting out of the country. This man, Nikola Stefanoff, was captured by the Greeks and sent to one of the Aegean Islands, without notification of his capture to the Bulgarian Government. He was kept at forced labor for more than four years.

Escaping, he made his way to his native village in Kurdjali only to find his wife, who had given him up for dead, the bride of another man. He made the discovery much as the hero of Tennyson's poem did, by peeping into his house on the evening when he returned to the village. Stefanoff thereupon took up a passport and went abroad.

A collection of the stories that have amused him.

Harrison Fisher's beautiful cover and The Stage Today in art gravure

Two years ago when almost everyone in the publishing business said Cosmopolitan must reduce its price to 25 cents, Ray Long wrote in reply:

> "The American public has the finest reading taste in the world. Therefore, let's give that public not only the best, but only the best. Give it a magazine worth more than 35 cents and the public will be glad to pay 35 cents."

The December issue totals 1,338,000. And we are going strong.

WHY?

The December issue is typical of the magazine from month to month. Irvin Cobb begins a series of humorous boy stories; there's a sprightly short story by Rupert Hughes; Peter B. Kyne's splendid novel; Sewell Ford with a new story of our old friend, Shorty McCabe; mystery by Arthur Somers Roche; study of life as it is, by Frank R. Adams; Curwood, Kathleen Norris, P. G. Wodehouse, Gouverneur Morris, George Ade, W. Somerset Maugham, Royal Brown, Montague Glass, Albert Payson Terhune.

Note the variety. If you like humor, there's Cobb, Ade, Wodehouse, Glass, McIntyre and McCutcheon. If you want business in your fiction, you find it in Kyne's novel and Hughes' short story. Adventure: there's Curwood; love stories: Ford, Brown, Adams, Kathleen Norris; discussion of problems: Gouverneur Morris's novel and Crystal Eastman's experiment in "Marriage Under Two Roofs"; mystery: Arthur Somers Roche's novel; short stuff: Maugham, McCutcheon, Ade and Glass all say their say in two pages.

JUDGE DYER IMPOSES $1000 FINE "THAT MUST BE PAID"

Allows Former City Smoke Inspector 30 Days to Raise Money or Go to Jail.

A $1000 fine "that must be paid" was today imposed by Federal Judge Dyer upon Emanuel Kowalski, a former city smoke inspector, who pleaded guilty of illegal possession of narcotics. "If it isn't paid, you go to jail for a long period," the Judge informed Kowalski.

Special Assistant Attorney-General Dyott had recommended a fine in consideration of Kowalski's plea of guilty, as a former trial had resulted in a hung jury. Judge Dyer said he was willing to impose a fine instead of imprisonment, but added:

"The worst kind of crime is embraced in the charges against this man. I don't propose to fine him, have him spend 30 days in jail and then go free under the pauper act to avoid paying the $1000. If the money isn't paid, I'll set aside the fine and impose a long jail sentence."

Kowalski, who made unsuccessful attempts to have local politicians intercede for him when he was arrested last year with opium, morphine and cocaine in his possession, then asked through his attorney for 60 days to raise the $1000.

"I'll give you 30," said the Judge, "or jail."

ARKANSAS MEDICAL BOARD BARS ST. LOUIS P. AND S. GRADUATES

Cannot Take Examinations, Pending Inquiry Into Alleged Diploma Frauds.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 13.—The State Medical Examining Board, at its annual meeting here today, barred from the Fall examination all graduates of the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery and the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons, pending an investigation by the board of charges by a St. Louis newspaper that graduates of the two schools had obtained medical licenses in Arkansas through the use of fraudulent credentials.

VERDICT FOR THE DEFENDANTS

Former Secretary of U. S. Grain Growers Loses $70,000 Libel Suit.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 13.—W. G. Eckhardt, Dekalb, Ill., former secretary of the United States Grain Growers, Inc., lost his $70,000 libel suit against Prof. H. C. Filley of the University of Nebraska and the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation in Federal District Court here yesterday, when Judge T. C. Munger sustained a motion for directed verdict in favor of the defendants. The suit was filed by Eckhardt following publication in a farm paper of an article by Filley concerning Eckhardt's connection with the United States Grain Growers.

The Court held that there was "no charges in the article which attack Eckhardt's ability or integrity as an agricultural expert, although the article did question his business ability in several instances."

TRUCK ROBBERS RAID DISTILLERY

Five Loads of Whisky Reported Near Baltimore.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 13.—Armed men numbering about 25 early today raided the Gwynnebrook distillery at Gwynnebrook, a suburb of Baltimore, and are reported to have obtained five large truck loads of whisky. Four Government guards at the distillery were overpowered.

Police shortly after 5 o'clock captured two drivers and three trucks loaded with stolen whisky near Towson, about 10 miles away from the holdup.

DRUG CONCERN SAFE IS ROBBED

Company Officials Report $472 Was Taken.

Burglars who entered the office of the Goedde-Igel Drug Co., 6801 Easton avenue, by breaking a basement window some time last night, knocked the combination off a safe and obtained $472.55, officials of the company reported.

A check is being made to see if narcotics were taken.

DRIVER OF AUTO FLEES AFTER STRIKING WOMAN

Seven Persons Hurt, Three of Them Seriously in Motor Vehicle Accidents Yesterday.

Seven persons were injured, three of them seriously, in automobile accidents in St. Louis yesterday.

Police are looking for the driver of an automobile who fled from the scene after striking Miss Virginia Pallister, 23, of 3728 Olive street, when she alighted from a street car at Jefferson avenue and Rutger street at 8:20 last night. Several witnesses gave police the license number of the car, which sped south on Jefferson avenue. Miss Pallister is at the city hospital suffering from internal injuries.

Others injured are: Albert Le Grant Jr., 3 years old, of 2802 Chouteau avenue, who suffered abrasions and a possible fracture of the skull at 5:15 p. m., when he was struck in front of his home by the machine of Edward J. Geoffry of 3858A Evans avenue. Albert is at the city hospital.

Girl, 18, Badly Hurt.

Miss Gladys Adams, 18, of 1826A Papin street, received a fractured skull and internal injuries at 5:30 p. m., when struck by an automobile driven by Chester Fohrman, 27, of 3038 Eads avenue, at Eighteenth and Papin streets. Miss Adams is in a serious condition at city hospital. Fohrman was arrested on a charge of felonious wounding.

John Bartran, 65, of 4125 Lea place, suffered lacerations of the head and chest, and his wife, Sarah, 62, concussion of the brain, at 6:30 p. m., when Bartran swerved his machine into a street car in front of 2838 South Grand boulevard. Bartran was driving north and, in passing another automobile, crashed into the southbound street car. Mrs. Bartran is at St. Anthony's Hospital.

Jack McCormack, 40, of 6054 Cabanne avenue, was cut and bruised at 5:20 p. m. when his automobile collided with a Page avenue street car in front of 5841 Plymouth avenue. He was taken home.

Orville Hall, 12, of 1542 South Broadway, is at City Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull as the result of being struck by a mail truck driven by Frank Huttig in front of 1619 South Second street at 6 p. m. Huttig was arrested and charged with careless driving.

Charles Mitchell, 25, a negro, of 405 South Fifteenth street, was arrested for leaving the scene of an accident after he had demolished an iron post bearing a fire alarm box at Seventeenth and Olive streets at 8 p. m. Mitchell, driving a borrowed truck, crashed into the post while attempting to pass another machine. According to police witnessing the accident, Mitchell and another negro with him jumped from the truck and started to leave the scene. Several shots fired in the air halted them and Mitchell was arrested. Neither of the negroes was injured.

Verdict of Accident in Case of Truck Driver's Death.

A coroner's verdict of accident was returned in East St. Louis yesterday in the case of Edward F. Taake, 15 years old, who was fatally injured Saturday when a truck he was driving was struck by a passenger train at a crossing at New Hanover, Ill., 18 miles south of East St. Louis. The boy's father, Henry A. Taake, a farmer, living near the scene of the accident, is in a critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital from internal injuries.

It was disclosed at the inquest that Taake, who was driving an enclosed truck, either failed to see the approaching train or believed it would stop at the station before reaching the crossing. The train stops at this point when signalled. The boy died on the train of a fractured skull while enroute to the hospital.

MEININGER'S COUNSEL PLANS TO OBJECT TO SECOND TRIAL

Will Contend That Prosecution Cannot Proceed Pending Appeal of First Case.

When the case of A. O. Meininger, cashier of the defunct Night and Day Bank, is called at Union one week from today, Meininger's counsel will object to trial of the charge pending against him, which is that of accepting deposits in a failing institution. The ground of the objection will be that Meininger has been sentenced, in the same court, to five years' imprisonment, on his conviction for embezzlement, May 21 last.

Meininger's lawyers, Harvey & Baer, notified Circuit Attorney Sidener today that they would make such an objection, and that if overruled by Circuit Judge Breuer, they would ask the Supreme Court for a writ of prohibition.

Following the verdict against Meininger last May, his counsel announced that he was ready for sentence, and Judge Breuer imposed the sentence, though the Circuit Attorney asked that sentence be deferrd. It is now held by Meininger's counsel that the formality of sentence will preclude any further trial of Meininger at Union until the Supreme Court has passed on his appeal. Judge Breuer, in a statement on the matter, took a view contrary to this.

As the Meininger cases have all been transferred to Union, success of this move on his lawyers' part would defer any further trial indefinitely.

Dr. J. F. Hancock Dies at 89.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13.—Dr. John F. Hancock, former president of the American Pharmaceutical and of the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association, died here yesterday. He was 89 years old.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

A lecture-room blackboard in the Elgin Watchmakers' College

The technique of professional watchmaking is founded on a science that penetrates deep into abstruse mathematics and physics. In the College lecture-room are laid down the principles which are then put into practise at the work-bench.

Elgin looks way beyond 1923
The Watchmakers' College does that

PROBABLY no less than a hundred million watches are being carried in America alone. This creates one of the biggest service problems of modern times—if you are a real service-giver and don't want to dodge the issue.

Elgin service through the jeweler has been celebrated for years. In scope and care it ranks first and Elgin users have been getting the benefit of it right in their own home town for a long time.

But today the Elgin vision goes still further.

* * *

So in 1920 the Elgin Watchmakers' College was established and endowed.

Here, studying for as many as four years under teachers of international reputation, are young men from all over the nation who have an instinctive regard for fine mechanisms and delicate handwork. Here, too, are experienced watchmakers and time inspectors who have come to the college for a year's intensive study to perfect themselves still further.

These men will go out all over the country year after year and the American people will get daily benefit from their expert brains and skill.

These men will know watches and love watches. From their Watchmakers' College they will bring their service to you and look after your watch in the same professional spirit that an Elgin watch is made.

Nothing finer in all Elgin achievement than the new "B. W. Raymond" — 21 Jewel — Railroad Model announced recently and now being distributed.

Coffee Drinker's Last Cup.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. — The habit of drinking a cup of coffee each night before retiring which Isadore Schwartz, 75-year-old fiddler, had been told by his mother, who died in Chicago at 104, was the greatest aid to longevity, led to his death. The musician, who had played in quaint Ghetto cafes, died of asphyxiation caused by gas escaping from a jet he had failed to close firmly after heating his coffee night cap Sunday night.

City News in Brief

POSTAL CLERKS IN THE ST. LOUIS offices, numbering about 1500, have reserved special sections of seats for next Sunday afternoon's performance of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus at the Coliseum.

THE SECOND OF A SERIES OF LECTURES on health and physical education, arranged by the Women's Chamber of Commerce, will be given at the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney music hall at 2 p. m., Thursday, by Dr. Mary Alice Grehore. She will discuss the subject, "Foods, Showing Why 'What You Eat You Are.'" The lecture will be illustrated with models and charts.

THE COTE BRILLIANTE SCHOOL PATRONS' Association, recently organized, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Cote Brilliten School, 2616 Cora avenue.

TWENTY-FOUR IMPORTED HAND bags, valued at $625, were stolen from an automobile belonging to Mrs. Emily F. Welek, 6325 Waterman avenue, vice president of Charles F. Welek & Co., Inc., 315 North Tenth street, when a negro chauffeur left the machine parked for a few minutes near Eleventh and Locust streets yesterday. Mrs. Welek had left the package in the machine while she visited a furniture house nearby. The bags were labeled "Made in France."

BETTING ON ZEV LANDS CINCINNATI YOUTH IN JAIL

It All Started When He Cashed a Check to Get Money to Bet— He Later Fled to St. Louis.

Of course, it is all Zev's fault, or the fault of that speedy animal and his jockey that Bernard Greenbaum of Cincinnati is in the hands of the St. Louis police, charged with attempting to pass a bad check here after having passed two such checks in his home city.

Bernard, who is 18 years old, explained the matter quite volubly to the police today. He has been working as a shipping clerk for his father, Abraham Greenbaum, a garment dealer. He gave one of his father's customers a check, which the customer cashed, and he put the proceeds—$25—on Zev to win at Latonia. When Zev finished second, Bernard was without money to deposit against the check, and two more check escapades, in which he signed the name of his father's firm, were followed by his flight to St. Louis.

Here he stopped at Hotel Jefferson and went to the Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co. to place an order, and incidentally to cash a $50 check signed with his father's firm name, "per B. Greenbaum." When the officials of Ely & Walker demurred about cashing the check without further assurances, Greenbaum canceled his order and walked out. City detectives soon afterward arrested him at the Jefferson.

JEWISH WOMEN HEAR COMMITTEE REPORTS

Defeat of Compulsory Bible Reading in Public Schools Result of "Successful Protest."

Defeat of legislation requiring compulsory instruction of the Bible in the public schools of Missouri, as also was the case in Ohio, Texas and California, was hailed as the result of a "successful protest," in a report to the triennial conference of the Council of Jewish Women," in session today at Hotel Chase.

The report, considered the most important of the various committee reports presented before the conference yesterday and today, was read by the chairman of legislation—Mrs. Louis B. Hertz of San Francisco—and the section in reference to Bible instruction was as follows:

"To show legislation has its relation to religion, the States of Ohio, Texas, California and Missouri all had to kill legislative bills which asked for compulsory instruction of the Bible in the public schools. Protestant and Catholic Bibles were given consideration but no cognizance of the Jewish (our own translation) Bible; hence, our successful protest. We must ever have a vigilant eye on this kind of legislation, as there are those who believe that Bible instruction in the schools will be the greatest eliminator to break down the immorality of the youth of the nation. We who have a larger vision know that such a course will create a great prejudice and separation rather than a brotherhood among the growing generation."

"Proud Achievement" Described.

The report also described as "one of our proudest achievements" participation in the congressional lobby which brought about passage of the Sheppard-Towner maternity bill, designed for the "care and protection of the mother and infant, the keystone of our nation's future." State Council Sections were aiding in the passage of necessary concurrent legislation, the report stated, but such laws had not been passed in Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Louisiana, Kansas and Illinois.

Attention also was called to the Towner-Sterling bill for a national department of education, and the Council was asked to support the work of the Illiteracy Commission of the National Educational Association to eliminate by 1930 an illiteracy in the United States that the commission estimates to reach 20,000,000. "While urging your interest on the national measure," continued the report, "let us take up school legislation for our respective states and local committees. The word of economy is abroad in the land, but it is a mistake for any community to cut down on school budgets."

Passage of the Cable bill, requiring every foreign born woman to take out her naturalization papers to become an American citizen in the same way as her husband, was mentioned.

Work for Uniform Laws.

The report concluded with an account of the conference on uniform State laws held in Minneapolis in August, in which the chairman urged uniformity of laws relating to marriage and divorce, child labor, industrial compensation, birth registration and responsibility for illegitimate children. The conference reported it had already distributed for adoption in all the States uniform laws relating to marriage and divorce and support of illegitimate children.

PRINCESS MAUD, TARDY BRIDE, MAKES KINGS AND QUEENS WAIT

King George Spends the Interval Chatting With the Six Bridesmaids.

(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co.'s, the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Princess Maud, younger daughter of the Princess Royal and the late Duke of Fife, and King George's niece, yesterday was married to Lord Carnegie, son and heir of the Earl of Southesk, in the Guards' Chapel, Wellington Barracks.

Usually such ceremonies are on schedule like clockwork, but the bride was nine minutes late. She kept the bridegroom, two Kings and five Queens waiting. King George, who gave her away, spent the interval chatting at the door with the six bridesmaids. Former King Manuel, with his consort, Queen Mary; Queen Alexandra, Queen Maud of Norway, Queen Olga of Greece, the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, Lord Lascelles, the Duke and Duchess of York, were among the guests. It was a silver and blue wedding, Princess Maud wearing a silver bridal gown and the bridesmaids thistle blue.

FIVE CHILDREN AND PARENTS RESCUED IN ILLINOIS FIRE

Firemen at Glen Carbon Carry Family to Safety—Loss Estimated at $17,000.

Five children and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Hirsch, were rescued by firemen of Glen Carbon, Ill., at 3 a. m. today when a fire which threatened to destroy the business section of the town cut off their way of escape by the stairs from their second-floor living quarters to Hirsch's store.

Firemen carried the trapped family, in night dress, down ladders from the windows. The frame building was destroyed, as was the adjoining two-story frame store building of Louis Soma. Two other adjacent frame buildings were damaged $1000 each before the flames were checked. The total damage was estimated at $17,000. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

Invariably Mosinee

Before you can cut your shipping-room costs by standardizing your wrapping, it is necessary to find a Wrapping Paper mill which has standardized its output.

Twelve years ago, paper experts said this "couldn't be done."

Ten years ago, the Mills of Mosinee did it.

Today, as ten years ago, Mosinee stands forth as the one and only standardized, uniform Wrapping Paper on the market.

Its quality and strength, its weight, color and finish—all are standardized.

Mosinee is invariable. Its values are standard, constant, dependable.

This is why the standard Wrapping Paper used by concerns which have analyzed the market sufficiently to know the inside facts, is invariably Mosinee.

"Melto" the Wonderful Discovery
The Simple, Safe, Scientific Way to Reduce

MELTO Reducing Cream is a wonderful new discovery for people who aren't quite as slender and graceful as they'd like to be, and who don't want to spend their entire lives reducing by strenuous methods.

Reducing the Melto way is not only absolutely harmless—but it is the only sensible way to reduce.

First of all, it takes only 5 minutes a day of your time.

Second—it reduces you just where you want to reduce—and nowhere else! What's the sense of suffering under a strict diet that may make you thin in the wrong places—when Melto simply melts the excess fat where it is applied?

Third—Melto leaves the skin smooth and the muscles firm and vigorous. Why reduce by methods that make you look haggard and flabby—when Melto gives you the firm, fresh look of youth?

Don't be fat any longer—and don't suffer any longer! Just try Melto. What it has done for hundreds of other people it can do for you, too.

Melto is simply a mild, dainty rose-colored cream with wonderful reducing properties. It comes in an 8-oz. jar and costs only $3. Ask your druggist for a jar today. Try it tonight. You'll be delighted with it at once—and even more delighted in a few weeks when you see how slender and graceful you have become. Give Melto a chance—and give yourself a chance. It will be worth your while.

It's absolutely harmless!

LONDON, Oct. 26.—British hop growers are working together to prevent the importation of hops. It seems 900,000 hundred weight of foreign hops came into the country during the last three years, and if this amount had been grown locally it would have given employment to 46,000 men.

CIRCUIT JUDGES TO BE ASKED TO END DIVORCE 'INQUIRIES'

Bar Association Resolution Also Urges Reports of 'Investigators' in Cases Pending Be Destroyed.

The next Legislature probably will be asked to establish a legal system of investigations in divorce cases pending before the St. Louis Courts of Domestic Relations.

In the meantime the Circuit Judges in general term will be asked, by the terms of a resolution passed by the Bar Association last night, to abolish the present force of investigators, established by a special Judge-made rule and appointed without the civil service examinations which the law requires. The Judges will be asked to order that all the reports of these investigators, in cases now pending, shall be destroyed. The judges will next meet in general term Dec. 3.

The report of a special committee of the Bar Association, favoring the abolition of the present investigation system, was approved at last night's meeting at the Washington Hotel, after two and one-half hours' discussion, by a vote of 56 to 43.

Named Without Examination.

Most of the time was given to arguments in defense of the investigation system, as the points against it had been set forth in the printed report of the special committee, sent out to all members in advance. As has been told, the report recited cases in which the investigators had acted unwisely or beyond the intent of the law; and it attacked the legality of the action of the Circuit Judges by which, in the lack of a legal provision for such investigators, they were appointed nominally as Deputy Probation Officers of the Junevile Court. The appointments, as has been told, were made by Circuit Judge Vital W. Garesche, when he presided over the Juvenile Court. The law requires civil service examinations for Deputy Probation Officers, but the investigators, of whom eight are now serving at $1500 a year, were not so examined.

Douglas W. Robert, chairman of the special committee, declared in opening the discussion that some of the investigators had been telephoning to lawyers of their acquaintance, asking them to attend the meeting and vote against the adoption of the committee's report. He denied, though no speaker directly charged, that any political or personal element was behind the committee's recommendations or that it was a case of "one judge against another."

Former Judge Garesche, who appointed the investigators, and who has since left the Circuit bench, is now Senator Spencer's candidate for appointment as a United States judge for this district. Several others, including some judges now on the Circuit bench, have received some support for the same appointment.

The other members of the special committee, who were not present, were Fred L. Williams, former judge of the Supreme Court, and Leo S. Rassieur, former Circuit Judge.

Grimm Supports Committee.

Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm made an argument in favor of adopting the committee's report, and said that if a system of investigations was desired, the Legislature should be asked to make provision for such a system in a regular way. George T. Priest later made the same point. Judge Grimm said the oppointments of investigators had never been reported to the judges in general term, and that the judges as a whole had no hand in them.

Lawrence McDaniel, former Circuit Attorney, made the chief argument in defense of the existing system of investigations. He said the investigation system tended to lessen the number of divorces, a thing he considered necessary, as he declared that there is one divorce to four marriages here, while the ratio throughout the United States is one divorce to six marriages.

McDaniel argued that the work of the investigators had been beneficial, and represented a forward social measure, and that the present system should be improved rather than abolished. He said that, in the 26 months ending Sept. 1 last, out of 7275 divorce cases, and out of 2406 cases involving minor children, the investigators had brought about the reconciliation of 126 couples, had placed 28 children in homes, and had provided medical attention in 176 cases.

Arguments in behalf of the investigators, and opposing adoption of the committee's report, were made by Charles J. Dolan, Peter T. Barrett, W. O. Reeder, Christy M. Farrar and R. L. Spelbrink. Barrett referred to the "old days" when 50 to 75 divorces were granted in a day, and when default day was termed "wash day" and "Liberty Bond day."

Mrs. Bernadine Cooper, of the present investigation force, was formerly employed as a stenographer for Judge Franklin Miller, and not in the Circuit Clerk's office, as was stated yesterday.

West Virginia Team, Billikens' Next Opponent, Is Peer of Any Eastern Eleven, Scout Reports

Coach Savage Impressed With Attacking Power and Defensive Strength of Mountaineers, After Viewing Game With Washington and Lee—St. Louis U. Departs Next Thursday.

By Frank Gaffney.

Head Coach Dan Savage, of the St. Louis University football team, who returned to St. Louis yesterday, after scouting the West Virginia-Washington and Lee game, admitted he SAW the West Virginia team. He also told of a shock he received when a stand from which he was viewing the game collapsed, injuring more than 40 persons. Savage himself escaped injury or shock.

He did not tell, however, about the mental shocks he received as he watched Nardacci, Eckburg, Simons and Barnum, the West Virginia backfield, plow through the big W. and L. line, reeling off abundant yardage by means of sheer line plunging ability, and then gaining large rods of ground on forward passes.

Savage declared that Coach Spears owns a team which, for downright power of attack, vicious offense and diversified plays, probably cannot be surpassed by any team in the country. The defense is but little below the attack in ability. W. and L. could not make even small gains through the forwards and the attack of the Virginians left huge holes for the runners. The Billikens' next opponents were forced to kick but twice during the game. Both boots were great, long spirals from the toe of Eckburg. The forward passing of the Spears machine includes all forms of passing. One pass against W. and L. traveled 45 yards before being caught by the runner, who ran a few remaining yards for a touchdown. There were innumerable short and lateral passes used to good advantage also.

Mountaineers Not Bulky.

The West Virginia team is not an extraordinarily heavy one, according to Savage. The backfield averages 170 pounds per man and the line is in the 185-pound class. There is a large amount of reserve material in the squad, and Savage reported that 28 men were used against W. and L. without the least lowering of the scoring efficiency of West Virginia.

Coach Savage summed up the team as resembling "the thing that gave the inventor of the steam roller his inspiration."

The Billikens emerged from the Loyola game in good shape. None of the players who participated in the contest received more than minor injuries and bruises. Coach Savage plans to concentrate on physical fitness this week and hopes to have every member of the squad in shape to battle the "Mountaineer" juggernaut.

Heavy Backs to Be Used.

It is the intention of the Blue and White coaching staff to use its heaviest backfield to bolster the Billiken line against the thrusts of the Mountaineers. This would very likely place Harry McConachie, Bob Hannegan and Frank Ramacciotti on the line of secondary defense and Schaeffering as "safety man."

The trio of secondary men are great defensive backs and may succeed in breaking up a good many of West Virginia plunges.

The Virginia interference is of the massed or grouped type which places the ball carrier in a very close position to his guardians and makes it necessary for enemy tacklers to break up the close formation before even attempting to tackle the runner. This brand of protection has a tendency to wear out the tackling ends and halfbacks and Coach Savage will attempt a new system to break up the Mountaineer attack.

The Billiken cripples are rounding to in nice style. Bob Hannegan, who was not used against Loyola, will undoubtedly be in shape for the Virginia game. Ramacciotti is showing better than ever before. McConachie is rapidly recovering the use of his leg and will very probably be in good condition. McKenzie is in first class shape and his sharp shots through tackle may be a factor in the Saturday battle. Schaeffering will call the signals and direct the team. Clarence Eggler is still in the hospital recovering from an operation. Frank O'Leary, now sick and in bed, will very probably be out for the remainder of the season.

Westhus Not "In the Pink."

"Bud" Westhus, the big tackle who was injured in the Xavier game, was in uniform yesterday but is still in poor shape. He is a doubtful starter in the Virginia game. Schwartz, the other tackle, was not in uniform yesterday but he is likely to be in the best of shape Saturday and will start the game. Capt. Quirk has regained his form and will be in the fray. The remainder of the line is in good shape at the present time.

As the Billikens plan to leave St. Louis early Thursday afternoon the locals will receive the benefit of but two more scrimmage workouts. Coach Savage intends to take 27 men on the trip to Morgantown.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Marble Face for Landis.

JUDGE LANDIS plans to make several suggestions at the joint meeting of the major leagues, next month—suggestions which seem to add to the altitude of his high authority. Among other powers he wants that which will enable him to referee any dispute to which an umpire is a party.

We venture the guess that Commissioner Landis will be overruled in every particular that promises to broaden the scope of his office or add to the stature of his job.

The fact is, the High Commissioner is de trop in the world of major league presidents, upon whose corns he has already stepped to the point of indignity. He made President Heydler play dead in the Rube Benton case—a particular in which he also offended the American League's head.

In fact, we have gained the impression, from direct contact, that if Commissioner Landis did not have a seven-year contract, his $50,000 a year job would disappear with the speed of seven-league boots.

Is it necessary to add that two of the seven leagues would be the American and National?

* * *

Couldn't Happen Here.

J. O. ANDERSON, one of the greatest of modern tennis players, just has his expense bill for his Davis Cup trip to America turned down by the Australian Tennis Association, dispatches state. Anderson says, as a result, that he personally is out about $2500, and also out of competition as a representative of Australia.

Such a thing could not have happened in the United States, which would have protected its player financially.

The tennis world will suffer a real loss, if this matter is not patched up, as Anderson is highly rated. Champion Tilden places Anderson fourth of all the players in the world he most fears.

Breakers Ahead.

INCIDENTALLY, Tilden mentions in his list of super opponents the following men: W. M. Johnston, Manuel Alonzo, Gerald Patterson and J. O. Anderson as the first four.

This is a significant classification. It means that if Tilden and Johnston of America slip, the next three ranking players in the world will be foreigners, two of them from Australia.

Although America has several good second string players, Williams, Richards and that kind are not equal to holding down the Davis cup in a challenge round against Australia—and perhaps other countries.

Let's hope that Little Bill and Big Bill like the brook go on forever.

Stoneham Still at Top.

"THE power of gold" was again illustrated at the Giants' meeting when Charles Stoneham was re-elected president of the club.

It had been reported that because of his former connection with race track and Casino gambling in Havana, and because of his indictment in the New York bucket shop cases, he would step down.

The National League needs the genial personality and the go-getter qualities of Stoneham.

Likewise his money.

GILLESPIE 'MENACE' HAS HARD TIME DEFEATING WEST FRANKFORT TEAM

The Gillespie, Ill., soccer team, which has assumed the proportions of a menace to St. Louis' superiority in the Missouri-Illinois district, experienced real difficulty in winning its second round national challenge cup game Sunday from West Frankfort. Local followers felt reassured upon learning that Gillespie was forced to play extra periods to win by a scant 2-1 score.

John "King" Finnegan, who refereed the match, declares that the slippery and uneven condition of the field seemed to disconcert the Gillespie players.

West Frankfort scored in the first half on a penalty kick and Gillespie tied the count in the second half on a similar shot.

Kennedy Rolls Perfect Score in Team Match; First of Season Here

WALTER KENNEDY of the Schaefer Recreation team, rolled a 300 score in a team match in the Business Men's League last night on alleys 13 and 14 at the Washington. This was the first perfect score rolled in St. Louis this year.

As the game was rolled under a sanction of the American Bowling Congress, Kennedy will be entitled to the gold medal awarded by the Congress to bowlers bowling perfect scores.

Tryon of Colgate Leads in Scoring

Leads Eastern Players With 13 Touchdowns for 70 Points.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Chet Bowman, the fleet-footed Syracuse halfback, resumed operations on the gridiron last Saturday to such effect that he jumped back into the thick of the fight for the individual scoring honors among the leading Eastern colleges. The Orange sprinter and back-field flash sped through the Boston University eleven for three touchdowns and regained second place in the standing, with 68 points, the result of 10 touchdown and eight goals after touchdown.

Eddie Tyron of Colgate was not called upon against Rochester and as a result his lead was cut to 10 points. He has 13 touchdowns for a total of 78 points.

The leading scorers, with touchdowns, points after touchdown, field goals and points totals, follow:

The time was 3:58 3-5. The track was sloppy.

Cleveland Hopes To Beat Central For League Lead

Unbeaten High School Rivals Will Meet Saturday in Feature Football Game.

The Interscholastic League football games scheduled to be played next Saturday at High School Field probably will furnish preparatory school sport followers an afternoon brimful of excitement. In one contest Central and Cleveland, at present in a dead heat for the leadership, will battle for supremacy. In the other game a strengthened Soldan eleven will attempt to down the Yeatman machine, and by so doing remain in a position to share in a tie championship, should an upset occur in other battles.

Central and Cleveland have won both their league games this season. The Red and Black trounced Soldan by a 19-to-0 count and Yeatman by a 20-6 score. Cleveland has registered a 6-0 verdict over Yeatman and a three-touchdown victory over McKinley. This, if the perilous comparative score basis is used, indicates an eight-point margin for the squad of Coach Mike Walker. But score comparisons in a high school league are futile.

Thrills Expected in Feature Game.

The Central and Cleveland battle promises to be one of thrills. Both teams have plenty of speed and the trickery of the rival coaches is well known. The Cleveland line has played brilliantly in the two games so far this season, and has consistently opened up holes in the opposition lines for the South Side runners. Last week, against Yeatman, Cleveland tore the North Enders' forward defense to shreds and gained a large amount of ground on straight line plays.

Speed appears to be the best bet for a Cleveland victory. If the Carondelet sprint marvels can get away from the Walker secondary defense with any degree of consistency, the Red and Black seem destined for a trimming.

But the defensive play of Central in the games against Soldan and Yeatman indicate that it is going to be a tough afternoon for the Fenenga flyers.

Central is a team which does not immediately strike an observer as one which is of championship caliber, but it grows better as play proceeds.

Central players tackle well, the players work together well and with a speed which takes the enemy unawares. One of the favorite strategies of the Walker team is the group conference before each formation, terminating in a swift resumption of positions and instantaneous putting the ball in play without any signal calling which might allow the opposition to become set for the play.

Central Backs Fast and Strong.

There is speed and power in the Central backfield. Thomas, at fullback, is a powerful line plunger and he is also fairly fast. Goldberg has developed into a star this year and his knifelike thrusts through the tackle and his speedy end circling has been outstanding. Braznell, the Red and Black quarterback, is another fast man, and either Trigg or Simonin, subbing for the injured Hunt, are acceptable.

As the teams lined up in past games there appears to be a slight weight advantage for Central in the backfield and an equally small margin for Cleveland on the line. Cleveland apparently possesses a greater reserve list of fairly capable men than the Central squad, but this is not regarded seriously by Central, due to the fact that Coach Walker prefers to use his men during an entire game and rarely substitutes for his regulars.

Soldan hopes to be reinforced by the appearance of Capt. Helser and Lacey, both linemen of ability who were injured early in the year. The West Enders expect to take the Yeatman machine into camp.

Yeatman, although out of the running as a title contender, is nevertheless a strong team and Soldan will be forced to get up steam in order to beat the North Enders. On a comparative score basis Yeatman "dopes" five points better than Soldan, using the Central 19-0 victory over Soldan and its 20 to 6 verdict over Yeatman.

The standing of the teams at present:

| | Won. | Lost. |
|---|---|---|
| Central | 2 | 0 |
| Cleveland | 2 | 0 |
| Soldan | 1 | 1 |
| Yeatman | 1 | 2 |
| McKinley | 0 | 3 |

De Forest Explains History And Technique of Famous Freak Punches in Boxing

Original Sleep Producer Was the "Whisker" — Tells Why the Kidney Punch Is Barred—"Solar Plexus" a Doubly Effective Rap — Dempsey's Rabbit Blow a Stunner.

NO. 16. De FOREST SERIES.

By Jimmy De Forest,
Famous Trainer of World Champions.

(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

THE freak blows of Fistiania should afford a topic for an interesting chapter—the important ones, I mean—which won fame in their time and will for many years to come carry on the memory of their creators.

In this class I call to mind the "whisker punch," the pivot, the scissors, the culler, the corkscrew, the navy crusher, the solar plexus, the loop, the subway, the kidney, the rabbit, the whirlpool, the Firpo and latest of all, the merry-go-round, which was put into use for the first time by Pal Moran in his battle with Charley White, not figuring as the knock-out in that battle but marking the turning point of the fierce counter for Moran.

Not forgetting in this list that the knockout punch, as generally understood, which is to say a blow to the point of the jaw that renders its recipient unconscious, was in its first days regarded as the greatest freak of all and was thought for a time to be John L. Sullivan's special and particular own.

Sullivan First "Knocker-out."

BUT, with the creation of the Marquis of Queensberry rules, the use of the padded glove was ordered, and with this protection to his hands the fighter could let go his punches with all the strength he could muster and with greatly lessened fear of doing injury to his natural weapons.

John L. Sullivan at this time went down a long line, copping them on the point of the jaw and sending them to the mat with the whites of their eyes showing. He was the original "K. O." of the game, although the nickname, as it has been applied to other fighters, was unknown in his day.

The First "Freak" Blow.

GAS" HICKMAN of London was inventor of the first well-remembered freak blow. And it was a sleep-punch for fair. It was called the "whisker." It was a right hand swing that landed on the back of the jaw bone just below the ear and carried a shock that dazed a man to helplessness if it did not knock him out completely. It was called the "whisker" because in Hickman's day the fashion was the wearing of long side whiskers, or, by younger men, short side whiskers or "sideboards," and this blow ended where the dandies usually wore their whiskers.

The pivot blow, since barred, created a tremendous sensation, for by its use La Blanche, "the Marine," won the middleweight championship from a fighter whose personal popularity rivaled that of the great John L. himself—Dempsey, the Nonpareil, top of the middleweights when the Marine defeated him. The punch was barred because it was struck more with the unpadded wrist than with the glove.

Fitz's "Solar Plexus."

FITZSIMMONS, the "Old Master," not only won fame by knocking out James J. Corbett and taking the championship of the world from him, but in that he did it with a new unusual punch—the solar plexus.

It was a stomach punch, but delivered higher than the usual stomach blow. A punch in the belly is a hard one to take under any circumstances, and a fighter who can land a heavy one can usually put over a knockout to the jaw on top of it. But when Fitz landed his solar plexus blow there was no need of a further punch to top it and achieve a knockout. For the solar plexus blow paralyzes the nervous center in the torso and the entire muscular organization is temporarily paralyzed, the while, however, the mind of the stricken man remains perfectly clear.

The "Meanest" Punch.

THE meanest punch on record and one rightfully barred by all sensible commissions and referees, was the "kidney." It consisted of a low chop to the small of the back, delivered in the clinches or on the getaway. It carried no knockout properties whatsoever, but was supposed to be damaging in a fight that went any distance—that is, if delivered in the early rounds its effect would be felt keenly in the later rounds and slow a man up if it did not cripple him entirely for continuing the encounter. But I never saw it work that way. It did not figure during the contest, but would have a distressing effect on the fighter some 24 to 48 hours later. This would take the form of bladder hemorrhages lasting all of a week.

The blow was brought to this country by George Dawson, an Australian, who battled Harry [illegible], Tommy Tracey and other good men. But a campaign of newspaper letters led by Jack Farrell, a fight enthusiast, stirred sentiment rightfully against the "kidney" punch as thoroughly unsportsmanlike and vicious and it was then sent into the discard.

Dempsey's Punches.

JACK DEMPSEY, the present champion, has perfected two freak blows, the "rabbit" punch and the "whirlpool." The "rabbit punch" is a chop to the back of the neck just at the base of the skull and is a stunner. The "whirlpool" is a series of punches, a medley of right crosses and hooks delivered with a peculiar winding of the body and a constant rolling of the head suggesting the center of the whirlpool and the arms its outer circles.

The public got the impression that the "Firpo," the blow that won the South American so many fights after I had trained him and which nearly stopped the great Dempsey himself, was the "rabbit" punch. But it was not. The "Firpo" lands just back of the ear on the occipital bone. It is not a knockout, but nearly as good as one, for it dazes a man and lays him wide open for the finishing touches.

The most sensational freak punch in a long time is that which I mentioned in the beginning as having been put over on Charley White and which I have dubbed the "merry-go-round."

It was first delivered by Pal Moran in the fifth round, just at a time when White had every reason to think Moran was his canary. It consisted of a quick shift that brought Moran behind his man so that he seized White's farthest shoulder, swung him around and as he came Moran put up his right with crushing effect against White's jaw.

Why Was Manager Fred Mitchell So Eager to Get a Minor League Club When He Already Had the Braves?

A.A.U., Not Fight Board, Regulates Amateurs' Status

—VERNE LACY

Western Division President Answers Complaint of Business Men's A. A.

SANCTIONS ARE ESSENTIAL

Boxers Competing in Unsanctioned Events Ineligible to A. A. U. Meets.

By Joseph F. Holland.

What is an amateur?

This particular question which led to a thorough but unsatisfactory quest for sound and sensible definition in the "Big Ten" conference a week ago in the case of Irving Gerber, Wisconsin U. tackle, has come up for a hearing locally with Verne Lacy, president of the Western division of the A. A. U. and Harry Cook of the Business Men's A. A., the contending parties.

The "Big Ten" decided that a boy who teaches swimming in the summer to a Y. M. C. A. class of boys is as much a professional as Rogers Hornsby or Babe Ruth.

The St. Louis case grows out of a recent amateur boxing show promoted by the Business Men's A. A. Lacy said after the show that it was not sanctioned by the A. A. U. and that boys who competed in it were placing themselves in position to be disqualified from competition in the National A. A. U. championships, which are preliminary to the selection of athletes to compete on the American Olympic team.

Only Amateurs, Cook Says.

Cook replied that he had permitted only amateurs to box; that his organization was incorporated under the laws of Missouri, recognized by the Boxing Commission and had never before been the subject of attack by the A. A. U.

"Cook apparently misunderstands the situation," Lacy said yesterday. "He cannot say who is an amateur and who is not. No one can say it except the Amateur Athletic Union through its own ruling and definition.

"Of course, there is this to consider: If a boy does not care to compete in sectional, national and even Olympic championships, then Cook or any other individual can designate his status. But if the boxer wishes to try for the Olympic team, he must abide by the A. A. U. rules. One of the rules provides for disqualification if he competes in games not authorized or sanctioned by the A. A. U. Cook's show was not sanctioned.

"What difference does it make if his club is incorporated under State laws? What difference does it make if he has complied with the Boxing Commission rulings? These facts do not in themselves meet the requirements of the A. A. U. The show must be sanctioned by the A. A. U. or the boy competing is subject to disqualification. In other words, Cook's action will reduce amateur boxing from a sport that may bring national and world championships to this district, to a purely local competition.

"Managers" of Amateur Tabu.

"He says that managers of some amateur boxers demand 'a five-dollar bill' before they will allow their boys to box. The A. A. U. does not contemplate managers and I have consistently advised against the large numbers of advisers and seconds amateurs have. If these exist today Cook's duty as a member of the Board of Governors of the W. A. A. U. is to report it. Then it will be stopped, or the boy disqualified.

"With the Olympic games coming next year, this district should do everything in its power to promote sanctioned events in athletics, in order that athletes may be sent to the national championships where, if successful, they will win the right to compete abroad. Isn't that better than winning a mere local championship?

"The A. A. U. is not trying to subsidize athletics. The men in it receive nothing for their time and spend a lot of their own money just to promote athletics and assist in the development of young men and women. If athletes want to compete nationally, they must live up to A. A. U. rules; if they do not, they can follow their own courses. We are always anxious and willing to assist, if given the opportunity."

Lacy will leave Friday night for Detroit with five associates to attend the national convention of the A. A. U.

McCARTHY OUSTED AS COAST LEAGUE HEAD; WILLIAMS IS ELECTED

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 13.—The so-called "big five" and "little three" factions of the Pacific Coast League returned here today after the annual league meeting on Catalina Island, where the former, using their superior voting power, drove W. H. McCarthy of San Francisco from the presidency, elected Harry A. Williams of Los Angeles in his place, and transferred league headquarters from San Francisco to this city.

The San Francisco, Vernon and Sacramento clubs stood solidly behind McCarthy, even after the others had voted Williams into the chair. They refused to answer the new president's roll call.

Seattle, in the person of John J. Sullivan, re-entered the league councils on the vote of the majority, after having been excluded since early in the year on McCarthy's charge that William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Los Angeles club, was interested in the purchase of the Seattle franchise.

The fight will now be taken to the National Board of Arbitration, meeting in Chicago. McCarthy declared today that he would wage a vigorous fight there in behalf of his stand against what he termed "syndicate baseball" in the Coast League.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

CHICAGO—Erni Ghuzeman of Los Angeles outpointed Hillie Levine, New York, in a 10-round bout at 122 pounds, in the opinion of newspaper men. Bill Henry of Chicago defeated Mickey O'Dowd of Muncie, Ind., in a 10-round bout at 126 pounds.

NEW ORLEANS—Kid Carlin, New Orleans bantamweight, knocked out Ray Rose of Hot Springs, Ark., in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

SALT LAKE CITY—Johnny Adamson, Denver, junior welterweight, lost the decision in six rounds to Frankie Darrin of Logan, Utah.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Frankie Garcie, local featherweight, scored a technical knockout over Brookie Stephens of San Antonio in a scheduled eight-round bout when the referee stopped the fight in the third round after Stephens had been knocked down three times.

DETROIT—Red McLachlin of Saginaw won all the way from Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia. Howard Mayberry defeat. Tommy Hughes.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Joe Paglina, Louisville, knocked out Eddie Dyer, Terre Haute, in second round. Eddie Staten gained a decision over Jack Ranch, eight rounds.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Johnny Flynn of Chattanooga and Battling Budd of Atlanta, welterweights, fought eight rounds to a draw. Flynn was the more aggressive through the fight.

Bancroft Goes to Boston Braves as Playing Manager

Giants Toss in Stengel and Cunningham for Southworth and Oeschger.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. — Dave Bancroft captain and shortstop of the New York Giants, was traded yesterday to the Boston club of the National League, to act as player-manager of the Braves in place of Fred Mitchell, who has resigned.

Casey Stengel, who won the first game of the world series for the Giants with a home run, and Bill Cunningham, who alternated in center field with Stengel, also will go to Boston with Bancroft in exchange for Joe Oeschger, a pitcher and Billy Southworth, the hard-hitting outfielder.

This surprising and almost sensational deal was completed only last evening at a meeting in the headquarters of the New York club, attended by Charles A. Stoneham, president and John McGraw, manager of the Giants and Christopher Mathewson, president, Emil Fuches, vice president of the Boston Braves.

Mitchell to Become Owner.

Mathewson said that Fred Mitchell resigned because he planned to buy a minor league club.

McGraw was willing to trade Bancroft because of his confidence in Travis Jackson to fill the hole at shortstop for the Giants. The trading of Bancroft breaks up McGraws famous infield—an infield that was regarded as one of the best that ever stepped on a baseball field.

Bancroft's legs troubled him several times this year and his playing in the world's series was not nearly so brilliant as that in the series of 1922. In fact, Everett Scott outplayed him. In the 1922 series it was Bancroft's smartness that enabled the Giants to beat the Yankees.

Bancroft is 32 years old and began playing with the Duluth club. In 1912 he became a member of the Portland team for the Pacific Coast League and three years later he was purchased by the Phillies. He "made" the Phillies that year and helped Pat Morgan to give its first national league pennant.

Critics Favor Trade.

The majority of local experts believe that McGraw has strengthened his outfield in both hitting and fielding, as Southworth is a more consistent hitter than either of two traded Giants. He will play either center or right fields.

McGraw will use Travis Jackson, the 20-year-old find from Little Rock, at shortstop, and while he has great confidence in the youngster, the critics assert that Jackson cannot be expected to fill the shoes of Bancroft, whom they name as the greatest shortstop the Giants ever had and the greatest in the game today.

The acquisition of Bancroft alone, both as a manager and a shortstop, is sufficient, according to local opinion, for Boston to make up the loss of Oeschger and Southworth, as Fred Mitchell, the retiring mentor, was not a player.

Bancroft Deal Breaks Up Cardinals' Effort To Obtain Braves' Star

THE trade of Billy Southworth, captain and outfielder of the Boston Braves, and Pitcher Joe Oeschger, to the New York Giants for Dave Bancroft, Casey Stengel and Bill Cunningham, broke up a deal that the Cardinals had tried to arrange with Boston whereby Southworth was to come to St. Louis.

It was authoritatively reported some time age that a deal in which Jack Smith, George Toporcer and Jeff Pfeffer were to go to Boston would result in bringing Southworth and Catcher "Mickey" O'Neil to the Cardinals. Boston's desire for a new manager to succeed Mitchell probably influenced Mathewson to accept the New York proposition with Bancroft included.

JUGO-SLOVAK ELEVEN MAY VISIT ST. LOUIS DURING TOUR OF U. S.

There is a possibility, remote at the present moment, that a champion soccer team from Jugo-Slovakia will play in this city next spring.

Joseph P. Ciszek, a native of Jugo-Slovakia and now a resident of St. Louis, has been authorized by the Sarajevo team, representing the city of that name, in Jugo-Slovakia, to complete details for a tour of six or eight cities of the United States. Ciszek has written to Thomas W. Cahill, secretary of the United States Football Association, asking for co-operation in the endeavor.

According to Ciszek, a team representing the Gradjanski Sports Club of Zagreb, Jugo-Slovakia, will visit South American cities in the spring. These teams have recently played in Spain, Italy and Austria.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that there are very capable soccer teams in the south of Europe countries. A team representing Czecho-Slovakia was a finalist in the soccer championship in the Olympic games at Antwerp three years ago. This team defeated an eleven representing Norway, which had won from Great Britain. Later it won from France, but lost to Belgium in the final match, 5 to 0.

Pores Returns to Track.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Charles Pores, record holder for the five-mile run, who retired from active competition last year, plans a comeback this winter, and if he is successful in his indorsing will become an active candidate for 1924 American Olympic team. His first appearance will be in the Melrose A. A. games in January.

Battered Pikers Gamely Preparing To Battle Tigers

Schnaus Out of Missouri Game and Other Cripples Still on Doubtful List.

By Arthur Schneff.

Although Missouri is figured to win from the Pikers in their annual "big game" here Saturday, many followers are wondering just what kind of battle will be staged.

Comparative scores indicate a runaway for the invading Tigers; but even though the Pikers have been walloped by such a topheavy score as 83 to 0, the more optimistic Piker supporters scoff at the possibility of the recurrence of such a severe trouncing.

They say that two things must be considered. First, that the Pikers fight harder against Missouri than against any other conference team; and second, that whereas it is the "big game" for the Pikers, it is a comparatively unimportant game for the Tigers, who will be conserving all their strength for their Turkey Day battle against Kansas.

All this may have a tendency to keep the score from mounting too high; but in view of the strength of the two teams it is doubtful if even the most hopeful Piker could concede the local eleven a chance to win.

Pikers Lack the Men.

For it is in actual physical material that the Pikers are most wanting, and apparently nothing under the sun can supply that want in the next four days before the battle.

In the Kansas game the Pikers used 17 men in the lineup altogether. The average weight of these players was exactly 159 pounds, high school weight. At best the squad of players available for Missouri will average under 165.

An examination yesterday of Al Schnaus' injury brought forth a statement from the doctors that the star guard would not be able to play against Missouri and in all probability will not be able to play against Tulane Thanksgiving. Dugdale, regular end, is also out with an injury calculated to keep him out of Saturday's game.

Charley Levy, star tackle and punter, was the only player injured in the Kansas game. He did not report to practice yesterday, but his injury is not believed to be serious enough to keep him out of action long.

The coaches put the men through a stiff workout yesterday. The advance sale of seats has already been a large one.

'Death to Firpo,' Cry Bolivians When Boxer Ignores Crowd's Cheers

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13.

A DISPATCH to La Macion from La Paz, Bolivia, says that Luis Angel Firpo incurred the displeasure of the residents of the city by his indifference to the enthusaistic reception accorded him.

Firpo, the dispatch adds, was in a sulky mood when he arrived at the La Paz railway station. He was met by cheering crowds who were displeased when their idol hastily fled in an automobile from their presence and they raised hostile cries when he refused to raise his hat in acknowledgment of their greetings.

A great crowd gathered later at an athletic hall, in expectation of seeing the South American champion, but he did not appear. This was interpreted as another slight, and the angry citizens marched through the streets crying, "Death to Firpo."

The correspondent asserts that while on his way to the Bolivian capital Firpo read a La Paz newspaper which protested against his scheduled exhibition bout at a local theater. According to the correspondent Firpo leaves today for Buenos Aires where he has a motion picture contract calling for a weekly salary of $6000.

HARRY RATICAN TO PLAY WITH BEN MILLERS HERE SUNDAY, BROTHER SAYS

Harry Jay Ratican, noted soccer star, will return to the lineup of the Ben Millers of the St. Louis Soccer League next Sunday, according to an announcement made by his brother, William Ratican, who is manager pro tem of the Miller team.

Harry Ratican is coach of soccer at West Point. The season of intercollegiate games ends this week and Harry has wired that he will arrive here Thursday or Friday, ready to play.

It is probable that he will also immediately assume the duties of managing and coaching his team. Harry played one professional game while in the East, lining up at center forward for the New York Giants two weeks ago. He is said to have obtained his release from that club to play with the Ben Millers here.

COE COLLEGE PLAYER KICK'S 55-YARD FIELD GOAL, SEASON'S RECORD

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 13.—When John Pence, the Coe College back, made a 55-yard drop kick for a field goal in the Drake-Coe football game here Saturday, he established a season's drop kick record, football experts here declared today. Only three drop kicks and two place kicks in the history of football have been good for a greater distance, according to the records cited.

Pence also added a 45-yard drop kick to his record in the same game.

The records here show that the longest field goal in football history was on a kick from placement by Maxall of Princeton in the Yale game of 1882. It was good for 65 yards. The longest drop kick was made by Mark Payne of Dakota Wesleyan University in a game against Northern Normal at Aberdeen, S. D., in 1915. It was good for 63 yards.

The famous Pat O'Dea of Wisconsin drop kicked 62 yards against Northwestern in 1898, and the late George Gipp of Notre Dame drop kicked the same distance against Western Reserve University in 1916. Davis of Dickinson College made a 58-yard goal from placement against Pittsburg in 1905.

RAILROAD SHARES SCORE ADVANCES ON STOCK MARKET

Industrial List Shows Some Irregularity—Bonds, Especially Rails, Are Firm—Rally in Foreign Exchange Market.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

| Selected Securities. | Close Tues. | Close Mon. | Week Ago. | Day's Chge. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 20 Industrials | 89.12 | 89.34 | 87.50 | —.22 |
| 20 Railroads | 60.70 | 60.19 | 59.72 | *.51 |
| 40 Stocks | 74.91 | 74.76 | 73.61 | *.15 |

*Increase. —Decrease.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review, says:

"Strength in rails, which began shortly after an irregular opening and continued to the last, was the feature of today's stock market. Erie continued to be a leader and several of the other low-priced issues also showed gains of about a point, but the higher priced and standard rails also benefited from the movement and the group as a whole was distinctly higher at the close. Industrials meanwhile displayed much irregularity, but a number of specialties were strong and declines were of insignificant magnitude. Coming at a time when industrials had paused after a strong advance, the rise in rails indicated that the bull party were still prepared to carry through on their program. Bonds were firm, especially rails, and the rate on call money, after opening at 4¾ per cent, was reduced to 4½ per cent just before the close.

Rally in Exchange.

"Following London's lead, the foreign exchanges rallied well in the early trading. In view of the sharpness of the recent decline, the recovery was an entirely natural one. After sterling had snapped back to $4.38¾, however, buying slackened off and with a supply of cotton bills coming in, the price slipped back to $4.37¾. This was still ⅛ of a cent above the previous close. French francs meanwhile touched 5.60 cents and at a late price of 5.56 cents were up 1½ points on the day. The other Europeans were generally higher and the South Americans also benefited by the recovery. The volume of business was fairly large on the rally, but shrunk away on the decline. The news from abroad was reasonably good, but London's opinion as to the permanence of the rally was reserved.

Cotton Market Lower.

"Lower prices at Liverpool, heavy profit-taking and Southern hedge selling brought another reverse in the movement of the cotton market. When, however, the principal futures declined to the 33-cent level, support appeared just as offerings are heavy when the price reached 34 cents. The fluctuations of the market are illustrated by the movement of the May future, which, after opening about 30 points lower, rallied 16, broke 55 and then recovered 31 points to a late price of 33.30 cents, at which the day's loss amounted to 39 points.

"Grain meanwhile furnished a rather narrow trading market. Wheat found better support as December neared the dollar level and this option closed ⅛ of a cent higher at $1.03⅞. Corn, on the other hand, was slightly easier, for a time, but May ended the day unchanged at 74¾ cents.

VOLUME OF OCTOBER FOREIGN TRADE ABOVE YEAR AGO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Exports from the United States during October amounted to $402,000,000, compared with imports of $303,000,000, leaving a favorable balance of $99,000,000.

According to the preliminary estimates of the October foreign trade as made public today by the Commerce Department, exports from the United States were $20,000,000 greater than during September and $31,000,000 greater than in October, 1922.

October imports likewise increased, being $27,000,000 greater than those of October, 1922, and $50,000,000 greater than those of September, 1923. The department commented that in view of the facts that prices had changed little during the year the foreign trade of October had resulted in the movement of a much greater volume of goods than it did a year ago.

In contrast with expectation of financial authorities, the movement of gold into the United States was shown to have continued at a heavy rate during October. Early in the present year it was predicted that the United States would become an exporter of gold. In October, however, imports of the metal amounted to $29,858,000, compared with exports of $1308,000, leaving an import balance amounting to $28,550,000. For the 10 months including October, 1923, the net import of gold was $223,194,000, compared with net imports during the same period of 1922 of $199,687,000.

Silver imports during October were valued at $6,927,000 against exports of $7,522,000.

In the 10 months total of merchandise imports and exports, the United States was shown to have shipped out $3,342,607,000 and to have imported $3,207,153,000, attaining a favorable balance of trade amounting to $135,454,000. During the same 10 months of 1922, exports were $3,107,450,000 and imports were $2,527,153,000, leaving a favorable balance to the United States of $458,927,000.

London Wool Auction.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—At the wool auction sales yesterday, 10,740 bales were offered. There was a brisk sale of fine medium greasy cross-breds at firm rates. Other grades were quiet and irregular.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 13.—Corn was unchanged to higher and wheat unchanged to lower at mid-session on the local market. Liverpool closed ½d lower. There was large increase in wheat visible. Exchange rates were better. Prices were mixed at the close in case of wheat with corn higher.

In the local cash grain market wheat was generally steady with good demand for both soft and hard grades, mills and elevators buying. There was a good clearance. Corn was 1c to 3c lower on old grain and 2c to 5c off on new. Demand was good. Oats were steady to ½c lower. Demand was fair.

Opening wheat prices were lower and corn higher. The firmness of corn credited to report of damp weather and action of Liverpool subsequently helped wheat. Shorts covered. Liverpool afternoon wheat cable was ½d lower. The local market had to adjust itself to the changes at Chicago yesterday when there was no trading here.

December wheat opened at $1.03¾. May wheat $1.09. December corn 77¾c. May corn 75c and July corn 75¼c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 3735 cars of wheat, compared with 2704 a week ago and 3128 last year. Minneapolis receiving 1233 cars, Duluth 582 and Winnipeg 1920.

Local wheat receipts which were 238,077 bushels, compared with 66,000 a week ago and 731,383 last year, included 158 cars local and 40 through. Corn receipts, which were 175,500 bushels, compared with 24,700 a week ago and 357,682 last year, included 131 cars local and 4 through. Oats receipts, which were 180,000 bushels compared with 82,000 a week ago and 496,000 last year, included 53 cars local and 37 through. Hay receipts were 68 cars local and 27 through.

*Receipts today and last year are for 3 days.

Primary receipts of wheat were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 2,999,000 bushels. Corn receipts were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 1,146,000 bushels. Oats receipts were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,320,000 bushels.

CORN FUTURES SELL HIGHER ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Absence of any important selling pressure led to an upturn in wheat prices today soon after the start. Relative firmness of Liverpool quotations counted as something of a bullish factor, and so did strength of corn. Most of the wheat purchasing, however, was confined to previous sellers who were in a position to collect profits. The opening, which ranged from ⅛@¼c decline to ¼c advance, Dec. $1.02⅝ to $1.02⅛, and May $1.07¾ to $1.08⅛, was followed by moderate gains all around.

The selling of wheat today was partly by longs but generally by shorts and there was some changing over the hedges by cash houses. The visible supply increased 2,256,000 bushels last week to a total of 71,445,000 bushels or more than double that of a year ago. Primary receipts were again large. Sales of 50,000 bushels wheat were made to go to store. There was some betterment in foreign exchange. Cash wheat premiums were unchanged.

Local cash sales were 3000 bushels wheat; 22,000 corn; 139,000 oats; 5000 rye and 1500 barley. Seaboard reported a moderate amount of Manitobas taken for export.

Subsequently, demand slackened, and the market temporarily declined; but undoing of spreads between wheat and corn was effective in ralying wheat again during the late trade. Wheat closed firm, ½@⅝ to ⅞ cents net higher, December $1.03⅛ to $1.03⅛@1.03¼, and May $1.08⅝ to $1.08½.

Damp weather gave firmness to corn and oats. After opening at ⅝c off to a shade advance, December 76⅝c to 76½c, the corn market showed a general upturn.

Later reports indicated that rains were merely of a scattered character and prices underwent a setback. The close was unsettled, varying from ⅝c decline to ⅞c advance, December 76⅛c to 76¼c.

There was selling by spreaders who had the corn bought and the wheat sold. Cash corn was easy in tone. Receipts were heavier but they were not excessive. Visible supply increased 235,000 bushels last week.

Oats started unchanged to ¼c higher, December 41⅞@42c, sagged a little and then hardened all around.

Oats were more inclined to follow the trend of corn. Cash houses transferred hedges and there was some buying by commission houses. The visible supply decreased 216,000 bushels last week.

Provisions were firmer with corn, despite lower quotations on hogs.

Strength in cash situation offset the weaker hog market. Smaller packers bought.

Visible Grain Changes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes for the week: Wheat increased 2,256,000 bushels. Corn increased 235,000 bushels. Oats decreased 215,000 bushels. Rye increased 412,000 bushels. Barley increased 493,00 bushels.

COTTON PRICES LOWER IN NERVOUS NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The cotton market was nervous and unsettled during today's early trading because of easier Liverpool cables, a denial of yesterday's reports that the British Government had offered a large loan to the Lancashire cotton trade, and unsettled foreign political conditions. The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 36 points under scattering liquidation and southern and local selling. Orders were almost evenly divided at the decline and there was more or less irregularity right after the call, but the bulges seemed to meet considerable cotton with the market ruling around 33.15c for January during the first hour or about 20 to 30 points lower.

Reactionary sentiment was expresed more generally later and the market weakened toward midday under increased realizing or liquidation and local and southern selling. The decline was accompanied by reports that the lower grades of cotton could be purchased on a tenderable basis in the South. January sold down to 32.75c, the general list showing net losses of 60 to 71 points around midday.

Enough buying developed at 32.75c for January to cause rallies of 40 or 45 points from the lowest during the early afternoon. The improvement was not fully maintained but the market was steady around 2 o'clock with January selling at 32.92 or 43 points net lower.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Spot cotton quiet; middling, 33.70c.

Boston Wool Market.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—Additional domestic business came into the local raw wool markets today following reports that the American Woolen Co. had entered the market for the next season's overcoatings. Prices have not yet shown any material change. The export movement is subsiding as the domestic demand increases. Receipts at Boston Monday were 246 bags of domestic wool.

HOG SUPPLY IS HEAVY AND PRICES RANGE OFF

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Nov. 13.—Receipts today, estimated: Cattle and calves, 7000; hogs, 26,000; sheep, 2000; horses and mules, 300.

CATTLE—A modest supply here today influenced a slightly better trend to the market in most departments, values ruling steady to strong and 10c to 15c higher in some favored cases. Quality of the steer run was plain, a range of $6.15 to $9 per cwt. covering 90 per cent of the transactions in the beef department. Stocker and feeder steers continued largely at $4 to $5.25 or $5.50. Yearling quality was also plain and grassers were most numerous at $3 to $6.50. Butcher cows were most numerous at $3.50 to $5, cutter cows $2.50 to $2.75 or $3 and canner cows $1.75 to $2.25. Bologna bulls made $3.50 to $4.50, and canner bulls $2.25 to $3.

VEAL CALVES—Best lights advanced 25c to 50c, most sales appearing at $9.50 to $10. Southern canner yearlings at $2, a few $2.10, showed strength, although other plain stuff was not materially improved.

HOGS—For Tuesday the estimate of hogs was placed at 26,000 head, a heavy offering. This makes receipts for the week thus far 47,637. Under this heavy supply prices dropped 10c to 15c on hogs, with pigs showing a decline of 25c from Monday. The better weight hogs from 190 to 210 pounds sold on the opening rounds at $7.05 to $7.10 mainly, a few at $7.15 representing the early top. Light hogs and shippers from 160 to 180 pounds sold in a range of $6.90 to $7.05 mainly, according to the weight and quality of the offering. Strong weight pigs showed a 25c drop in price from Monday. Offerings averaging from 130 to 150 pounds sold largely in a range of $6 to $6.50, the medium weight kinds from 110 to 130 pounds clearing at $5.50 to $6. Light pigs and peewees from 110 pounds and down cleared at $5 to $5.50 mainly, according to weight and quality. Packer sows were 15c lower at $6 mainly. Stags at $5 to $5.50 showed little change.

SHEEP—The market today ruled active under receipts of 2000, estimated. Prices on lambs showed an advance of 25c to 50c, the top advancing to $13 during the opening rounds. Good to choice offerings were quotable at $12.50 to $13, with medium to good kinds at $11.50 to $12 and the common to medium grades at $11 to $11.50. Culls from $8 to $9, according to weight and quality. Sheep were generally steady, good to choice mutton ewes quotable at $5 to $6, medium to good kinds at $4 to $5, and common to medium at $3.50 to $4. Choppers and bucks at $2.50 to $3.50 and canners at $1 to $2, according to the weight and quality.

HORSES AND MULES—A modest run of horses here the two days this week influenced a fairly active market at steady to strong prices. The commission run embraced something better than 200 head. Mules, approximating 500 head in first hands, was about in line with last week.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The early raw sugar market was firm and prices were unchanged at 5½c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 7.28c for centrifugal. There were sales of 4000 bags of Cubas in port, to local and outport refiners, at 5½c, cost and freight, while an operator purchased about 18,000 bags of Perus, due to arrive early in December, at 5c, c. i. f., or about 1-16c below the prevailing level of Cubas.

Raw sugar futures were higher on continued covering in December, and buying of the latter positions by both trade interests and houses with Cuban connections. Prices at midday were 4 to 5 points net higher.

The market for refined was unsettled and prices were unchanged to 5 points lower, with fine granulated now quoted from 8.75c to 8.90c. Business was light.

Refined futures nominal

Sugar futures closed steady; approximate sales, 27,000 tons; Dec., 5.43c; March, 4.31c; May, 4.38c; July, 4.47c.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

A modern engine terminal, Southern Railway System.

Making Good

During this year of record-breaking railroad traffic, the Southern Railway System has performed its service to the South without once issuing an embargo against any part of the System.

The sixty thousand men and women who make up the organization are working night and day to keep the traffic moving.

Operated by Southern men, understanding the transportation needs of the South, the Southern has the confidence of the people it serves. Its prosperity is inseparably bound up with that of the communities along its 8,300 miles of lines. It can prosper only as the South prospers.

When the Southern meets the test of traffic congestion, it is because the men who operate this great railway system know that they are backed by the confidence and cooperation of the millions of patrons they serve.

Southern Railway System last year spent in the South $20,000,000 more than it received from the South.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Cotton goods market were steady today at the recently prevailing high prices. Print cloths were quoted at Monday's figure, 11c for the 64x60 and 13c for the 68x72.

Raw silk dealers chipped 10c to 15c off their quotations to meet lowered prices at Yokohama, but failed to stir much in American markets which were dull.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

F. H.—Inquire among the gymnasiums in the city for the name of a boxing instructor.

M. A. J.—The Ohio State Institute for the Deaf, is located in Columbus, Ohio.

PICTURE LOVER.—We suggest that you take the picture described, to some art dealer, to ascertain its value.

O. O. O.—The Glennon Club holds its meetings at the Barr Branch Library. There are no particular evenings on which the meetings are held.

J. A. C.—The name of the cathedral in Sussex, England, Chichester, is pronounced Chich—(ch pronounced as in chin) es-ter, with the accent upon the first syllable.

M. J. B.—(1) Harry Herbert Knibbs, author, was born in Clifton, Ontario, Canada, 1874. He is author of "Songs of the Outlands," "Sundown Slim," "Tang of Life," and others. His address is 711 Cole av., Los Angeles, Cal. (2) The home of Harold Bell Wright, the author, is in Tucson, Ariz.

DAILY READER.—The St. Louis Insane Asylum, was first erected by the County of St. Louis in 1868, and was a county institution until 1876, when the city was separated from the county, and it was given to the city. The location now is 5400 Arsenal street. The institution is controlled by the city, and is intended for the city's insane, but the State also makes an appropriation, which aids in its support. It is under the supervision of the health commissioner and the board of health, with a superintendent in immediate charge.

X. Y. Z.—Following is a formula for kalsomine: Sodium carbonate 8 parts, linseed oil 32 parts, hot water 8 parts, white glue 12 parts, whiting 160 parts. Dissolve the sodium carbonate in the hot water, add the oil, and saponify by heating and agitation. Cover the glue, broken into small pieces, with cold water and let soak over night. In the morning, pour the whole on a stout piece of stuff, and let the residual water drain off, getting rid of as much as possible, by slightly twisting the cloth. Throw the swelled glue into a capsule, put on the water bath, and heat gently until it is melted. Add the saponified oil and mix well; remove from the bath, and stir in the whiting, a little at a time, adding hot water, until a liquid is obtained, that flows freely from the kalsomining brush. The addition of a little soluble blue to the mixture increases the intensity of the white.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

B. W. B.—A wife can file suit for divorce in Missouri, one year after her husband has deserted her.

A. F.—It is perjury if a witness in court, when asked if he is divorced, says no when he is divorced.

HUNTER.—You are not allowed to hunt in the city, or are you allowed to hunt on Sunday.

JENNIE — Under the circumstances described, you can sue "B" for damages in a Justice of the Peace Court.

MOTHER.—You can have your personal belongings insured, even though you are living in a rooming house.

P. L.—If the furniture store sues you, consult the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

R. E.—Your brother-in-law may be able to obtain the information he desires, by writing to the War Department, Washington, D. C.; but we doubt if they will give it to any one else.

MRS. 1801—If the minor wants to get out of the loan, he must disaffirm the transaction within a reasonable time after he becomes 21, and must then turn the automobile over to you, from whom he purchased it, if he still has it at that time.

J. C. B.—(1) The estate is appraised at its fair value, when valued for State and Federal inheritance taxes. (2) The State inheritance tax rates and exemptions vary according to the relationship, etc., of the parties sharing in the estate, and the amounts received by each. You can see the rates in the Missouri Statutes at the Public Library. (3) We do not know why the tax is divided in the way described, as we know nothing about the estate in question. However, we should think it likely that "Brown" stood on a different footing from the other heirs, either in his relationship to the deceased, or in the amount of the bequest to him, and for that reason the tax to be paid him was computed separately.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

B. S.—A high school diploma is required in most of the best training schools for nurses.

SALLY—You should consult a physician concerning your inquiry, or if unable to pay, go to a free clinic.

W. T. R.—Write to the Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., for the pamphlets you desire.

STENO.—We do not think that there would be any harmful effects to the ear by the constant use of the dictaphone, if the tones conveyed are not loud or harsh.

ROSE.—The operation you mention is a form of facial surgery, and is accomplished generally by the injection of paraffine under the skin. There is a danger of undesirable results. This work is done generally by beauty doctors, and is very expensive.

T. F. B.—Strychnine and quinine may be taken together, preferably in capsule form. One-fortieth of a grain of strychnine may be combined with two grains of quinine. Such a capsule for an adult may be taken from every three or four hours to three times a day, depending upon the indications.

HARD UP—If you are a resident of the city, one year or more, you can enter the City Hospital, if not, apply at the Maternity Hospital, Taylor and Washington, Bethesda Hospital, Vista near Grand, or the Salvation Army Rescue Home on Marine avenue.

D. M.—In order to become an orthopedic surgeon, a full medical course is necessary. There are people who pick up the rudiments of foot trouble. Just where they obtain this information, we do not know. Generally they are men who have worked in shoe shops and they of course get some knowledge in this way, which they augment, perhaps, by reading and otherwise.

A. B. C.—The following might be tried for the condition described, and if no relief is obtained, we suggest a cystoscopic examination of the bladder for there is evidently an irritation about the neck of the bladder: Liq. potassae, tincture hyoscyami, and tincture opii camphorati, of each 4 drams; mucilage acaciae, 1½ ounces; aq. menth. piper. enough to make 4 ounces. Two teaspoonfuls in water after meals will give best results. We consider your case one for the genito urinary surgeon.

THRILLING ANIMAL ACTS; REALLY FUNNY CLOWNS

Performing Lions, Tigers, Bears, Kangaroos and Plymouth Rock Rooster at Circus in Coliseum.

Lions, tigers, panthers, bears, kangaroos, monkeys, horses, acrobats and clowns that are really funny are the diversified attractions of the Hagenbeck-Wallace winter circus which opened last night at the Coliseum.

The name Hagenbeck calls up visions of fierce, fiery, untamed beasts of the jungle, subdued by the domineering power of man, and in this show the realization keeps pace with the promise, for anyone who doesn't get a thrill out of John Helliott's acts with his cage full of lions would go to selep in the last five minutes o fthe last quarter of a Yale-Harvard football game.

The lions may be really ferocious, and then again, they may be actors well trained to register anger, but their snarls, roars and rushes on the little man who meets their charges with a frog-sticker on a pole are not calculated to make any large number of unemployed stand in line with a view to taking Helliott's job away from him.

There also is a young woman who defies the snappy onslaughts of half a dozen or more tigers. Like other good performers in this circus, she deserves mention by name, but as no programs were distributed or sold at the opening performance, she must be satisfied with anonymous credit.

Bears Compete With Clowns.

The bears perform without the interposing of iron bars between them and the spectators. They are dignified and earnest in performing their more difficult feats, but they have a natural bent for comedy and some of their antics afford brisk competitiin for the clowns. Their only animal rivals in this line are the two boxing kangaroos which literally put their act over with a big kick. They haven't much arm reach, but when they rear back on their tails and let both hind feet go at once they have a wallop that Dempsey might envy.

Theer is a barnyard comedian, too, a seemingly mild-mannered Plymouth Rock rooster that become a fighting demon when one of the clowns imitated the rooster's crow on a clarinet. Chanticleer assaults the base wood-wind imitation with all the vigor of a game cock.

Exhibition of Horses.

The exhibition of horses, including high school steppers and jumpers, is really impressive. Zest is added by the fact that some of the best jumpers have women riders. The fence clearing feats at last night's show provided many thrills, as did also the races, in the course of which two men riders were thrown. One of the jockeys, unhorsed at the south end of the arena narrowly escaped being trampled. Another came a cropper at the north end of the track and went headlong into one of the boxes. He was carried out, seemingly unconscious, but later it was said he was not seriously hurt.

The first part of the show is devoted mainly to the animal acts. Then the cages are cleared away and three rings are put in commission. Old style bareback riding acrobatic acts, a wood chopping and ax throwing exhibition, tight wire walking, Japanese pole balancing and aerial acts on the trapeze and horizontal bar complete a varied and entertaining program.

There will be matinee and evening performances each day for the remainder of the week.

St. Louisan Victory Highway Director.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 13.—Marshall Hale of San Francisco was elected to fill a newly created vice presidency of the Victory Highway Association last night. Directors elected include F. W. A. Vesper, St. Louis.

'OPEN WINTER' CAUSING EAST SIDE MINES TO SHUT DOWN

Already 32 of 82 Mines in St. Louis Territory Have Closed and Several Others Are to Follow.

The "open winter" which is causing the lilacs and magnolias at Edwardsville to burst into leaf unseasonably, is having another effect of a more substantial kind—the coal mines are shutting down.

There are 82 shipping coal mines in that part of Southern Illinois contiguous to St. Louis and of these 32 have already closed. On Saturday notice was posted at Mine No. 3 of the Mt. Olive and Staunton Coal Company at Edwardsville that the shaft will be closed until August or September of next year.

Mine No. 14 of the Consolidated Coal Company, located between Edwardsville and Staunton, took similar action three days prior to that of No. 3, announcement being that reopening is indefinite. No. 14 is one of the largest mines of the district.

Continued warm weather and the checking up of manufacture by some industries is assigned as the cause for such a dull market that only a fraction of the mining industry can remain in operation.

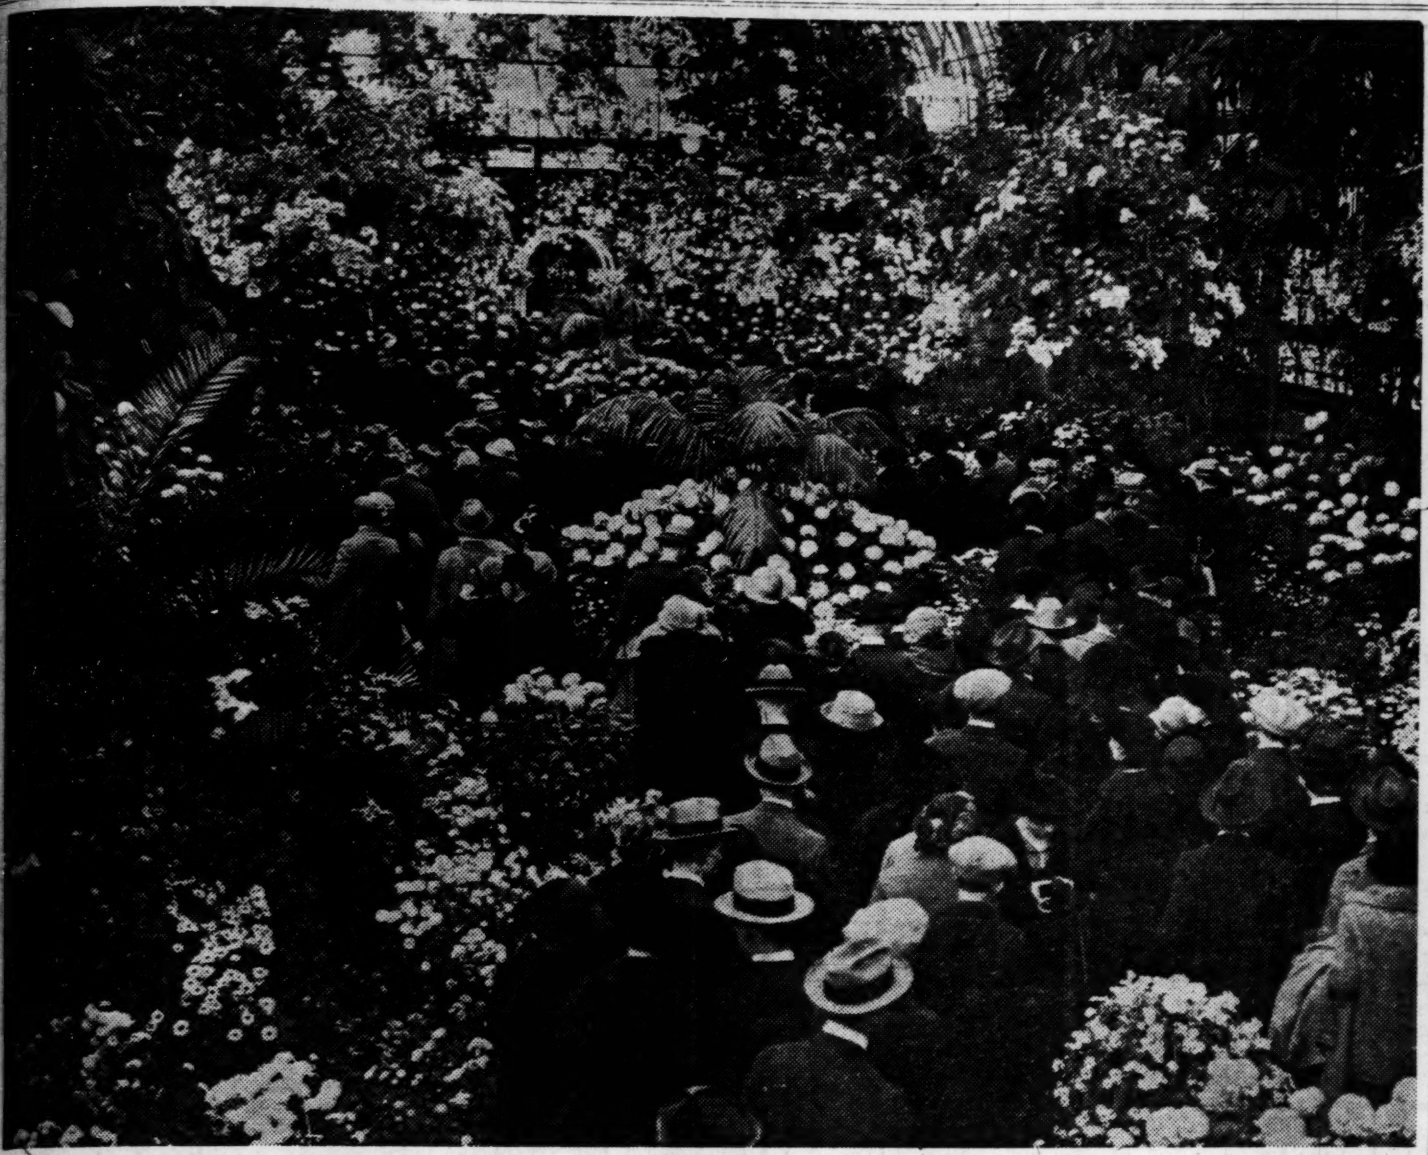
AT THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW AT SHAW'S GARDEN



A photograph made Sunday afternoon when thousands went there to see the beautiful display of blooms. The show will continue throughout the month.

To right: A new photograph of Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, with her young son, Guy, whose parentage her husband, James Stillman, New York banker, repudiates. The Stillman case has been revived by the banker's appeal, in which he has introduced an alleged "confession" letter purporting to have been written by Mrs. Stillman, admitting misconduct with Fred Beauvais, an Indian guide, at her Canadian camp. This letter, repudiated and denounced by Mrs. Stillman, was barred in the trial in the lower court. Stillman alleges Beauvais is the father of this boy.

Sally Hopes to Straighten Up Kemp

MOSTLY SALLY

By P. G. WODEHOUSE

A CONTINUED STORY

GINGER took a step towards the door, then paused, rigid, with one leg in the air, as though some spell had been cast upon him. From the passage outside there had sounded a shrill yapping. Ginger looked at Sally. Then he looked—longingly—at the bed.

Don't be such a coward," said Sally, severely.

"Yes, but . . ."

"How much do you owe Mrs. Meecher?"

"Round about twelve dollars, I think it is."

"I'll pay her."

Ginger flushed awkwardly.

"No, I'm hanged if you will! I mean," he stammered, "it's frightfully good of you and all that and I can't tell you how grateful I am, but honestly, I couldn't . . ."

Sally did not press the point. She liked him the better for a rugged independence, which in the days of his impecuniousness her brother Fillmore had never dreamed of exhibiting.

"Very well," she said. "Have it your own way. Proud. That's me all over, Mabel. Ginger!" She broke off sharply. "Pull yourself together. Where is your manly spirit? I'd be ashamed to be such a coward."

"Awfully sorry, but, honestly, that woolly dog . . ."

"Never mind the dog. I'll see you through."

They came out into the passage almost on top of Toto, who was chasing phantom rats. Mrs. Meecher was maneuvering in the background. Her face lit up grimly at the sight of Ginger.

"Mister Kemp! I been looking for you."

Sally intervened brightly.

"Oh, Mrs. Meecher," she said, shepherding her young charge through the danger zone, "I was so surprised to meet Mr. Kemp here. He is a great friend of mine. We met in France. We're going off now to have a long walk about old times, and then I'm taking him to see my brother . . ."

"Toto . . ."

"Dear little thing! You ought to take him for a walk," said Sally. "It's a lovely day. Mr. Kemp was saying just now that he would like to take him, but we're rather in a hurry and shall probably have to get into a taxi. You've no idea how busy my brother is just now. If we're late, he'll never forgive us."

She passed on down the stairs, leaving Mrs. Meecher dissatisfied but irresolute. There was something about Sally which even in her prewealthy days had always baffled Mrs. Meecher and cramped her style, and now that she was rich and independent she inspired in the chatelaine of the boarding-house an emotion which was almost awe. The front door had closed before Mrs. Meecher had collected her faculties; and Ginger, pausing on the sidewalk, drew a long breath.

Kemp Tells Sally She's Wonderful

"You know, you're wonderful!" he said, regarding Sally with unconcealed admiration.

She accepted the compliment composedly.

"Now we'll go and hunt up Fillmore," she said. "But there's no need to hurry, of course, really. We'll go for a walk first, and then call at the Astor and make him give us lunch. I want to hear all about you. I've heard something already. I met your cousin, Mr. Carmyle. He was on the train coming from Detroit. Did you know he was in America?"

"No. I've—er—rather lost touch with the family."

"So I gathered from Mr. Carmyle. And I feel hideously responsible. It was all through me that all this happened."

"Oh, no."

"Of course it was. I made you what you are today—I hope I'm satisfied—I dragged and dragged you down until the soul within you died, so to speak. I know perfectly well that you wouldn't have dreamed of savaging the Family as you seem to have done if it hadn't been for what I said to you at Roville. Ginger, tell me, what did happen? I'm dying to know. Mr. Carmyle said you insulted your uncle!"

"Donald. Yes, we did have a bit of a scrap, as a matter of fact. He made me go out to dinner with him and we—er—sort of disagreed. To start with, he wanted me to apologize to old Scrymgeour, and I rather gave it a miss."

"Noble fellow!"

"Scrymgeour?"

"No, silly! You!"

"Oh, ah!" Ginger blushed. "And then there was all that about the soup, you know."

"How do you mean, 'all that about the soup'? What about the soup? What soup?"

Trouble Starts When Soup Arrived

"Well, things sort of hotted up a bit when the soup arrived."

"I don't understand."

"I mean, the trouble seemed to start, as it were, when the waiter had finished ladling out the mulligatawney. Thick soup, you know."

"I know mulligatawney is a thick soup. Yes?"

"Well, my old uncle—I'm not blaming him, don't you know—more his misfortune than his fault—I can see that now—but he's got a heavy mustache. Like a walrus, rather, and he's a bit apt to inhale the stuff through it. And I—well, I asked him not to. It was just a suggestion, you know. He cut up fairly rough, and by the time the fish came round we were more or less down on the mat chewing holes in one another. My fault, probably. I wasn't feeling particularly well-disposed towards the Family that night. I'd just had a talk with Bruce—my cousin, you know—in Piccadilly, and that had rather got the wind up me. Bruce always seems to get on my nerves a bit somehow and—Uncle Donald asked me to dinner and all that. By the way, did you get the books?"

"What books?"

"Bruce said he wanted to send you some books. That was why I gave him your address.

Sally stared.

"He never sent me any books."

"Well, he said he was going to, and I had to tell him where to send them."

Sally walked on, a little thoughtfully. She was not a vain girl, but it was impossible not to perceive in the light of this fresh evidence that Mr. Carmyle had made a journey of three thousand miles with the sole object of renewing his acquaintance with her. It did not matter, of course, but it was vaguely disturbing. No girl cares to be dogged by a man she rather dislikes.

"Go on telling me about your uncle," she said.

"Well, there's not much more to tell. I'd happened to get that wireless of yours just before I started out to dinner with him, and I was more or less feeling that I wasn't going to stand any rot from the Family. I'd got to the fish course, hadn't I? Well, we managed to get through that somehow, but we didn't survive the fillet steak. One thing seemed to lead to another, and the show sort of bust up. He called me a good many things, and I got a bit fed, and finally I told him I hadn't any more use for the Family and was going to start out on by own. And—well, I did, don't you know. And here I am."

Sally listened to this saga breathlessly. More than ever did she feel responsible for her young protege, and any faint qualms which she had entertained as to the wisdom of transferring practically the whole of her patrimony to the care of so erratic a financier as her brother vanished. It was her plain duty to see that Ginger was started well in the race of life, and Fillmore was going to come in uncommonly handy.

"We'll go to the Astor now," she said, "and I'll introduce you to Fillmore? He's a theatrical manager and he's sure to have something for you."

"It's awfully good of you to bother about me."

"Ginger," said Sally "I regard you as a grandson. Hail that cab, will you?"

Types of Girls Every Man Meets

CERTAINLY you have met her. Perhaps she has whispered in your ear that it would be "perfectly thrilling" to do so-and-so, and has added, "I just hate to be conventional, don't you?"

The Unconventional Girl is a dangerous plaything. She is like the person who is proud of always taking a dare. She never knows, herself, how far she will go. Because she is proud of making herself conspicuous in public, she thinks that her chosen escort should share her pride.

Perhaps you are momentarily proud, as she sits by your side in a "Bohemian" restaurant, wearing a clamorous batik smock and sandals, puffing at her cigarette (few girls really smoke one.) Somebody of your own sex, a few degrees more callow than yourself, casts envious glances from a table near.

For the man who observes the niceties of life the Unconventional Girl has such epithets as "spineless," "stupid," "without individuality." Otherwise, there is nothing the matter with him.

The excuse one of these unconventional girls once offered to me was that she was only doing what other girls would like to do, and that she wasn't a hypocrite.

Those employers who, according to report, are refusing to hire girls with barbered tresses must believe that Delilah's strength, like Samson's, resides in her hair.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Shy Little Girl Who Became the Swedish Nightingale

A PICTURE of all New York City on its feet, waving and cheering in a very abandon of enthusiasm, and finally settling down to such deep and unwavering admiration and love as seldom has been lavished upon a public character, attaches to the name of Jenny Lind.

Nor was her popularity confined to the American metropolis. Her visit to this country won the people of the United States so completely that even now, 30 years after her golden voice has been silenced by death, tales still are told of her sweetness and beauty.

The "Swedish Nightingale" was the daughter of a somewhat obscure teacher of languages. Those who hold to the theory of reincarnation often cite her as proof of their claim, since her knowledge of music appeared to be inborn, and demonstrated even before she could speak.

At the age of 3 Jenny Lind could repeat a song once heard, with remarkable exactness. When she was 9 she began the study of music at Stockholm. Three years later her upper notes lost their sweetness, and then came a time of depression amounting almost to despair for the small girl and those who had entertained high hope for her. But the golden quality returned as suddenly as it had gone when she was 16. It was then that she was sent to Paris to become a pupil of Garcia.

Oddly enough her appearance was against her at the beginning of her career, for Jenny Lind was anything but an attractive child. She was awkward and shy to such a degree that those who had to do with the stage declared that never, never would the public accept such gaucherie!

But her lack of physical charm was metamorphosed by the years, and in 1850 her fame as a vocalist extended throughout Europe.

It was in that year that an enterprising showman—none other than P. T. Barnum—decided the time had come to bring to his own country the Scandinavian song-bird. She consented to cross the ocean, and was billed to appear in New York.

A bit doubtful at first, but with growing excitement as enthusiasm mounted, the public bought tickets for her first appearance—paying fabulous prices according to the rates in those days. And her first appearance in America sealed her success. She was called the greatest singer of all time.

During her visit to Boston she met Otto Goldschmidt, a skilled pianist and conductor. They became friends. Soon friendship turned to love. When Jenny Lind became Mrs. Goldschmidt, she retired from the stage and except when she sang to aid charity, her voice never again was heard by the public.

Jenny Lind died in London, where she spent the last years of her life, in 1887.

Fashion Frills

All sorts of single, glittering plaques are now used in Paris as ornaments on evening gowns. They seem to be attached wherever fancy dictates ,even decorating the coiffure.

* * *

The dash of red which aped earlier in the autumn is spreading rapidly. The bright red cloche is seen in London today, while red panels, linings and trimmings of all sorts are a matter of course.

* * *

Once more the ankle ornament is seen in London. At a smart dance the other evening several young girls wore a cobochon ornament tied around one ankle with a black velvet band.

* * *

It seems as though the new fabrics have reached the height of gorgeousness. A favorite among them in New York is a deep pile velvet in a marvelous, dark red, through which runs an intricate pattern in dawny gold. Another wonderful combination is green velvet with a pattern in heliotrope.

* * *

Tired, perhaps of the pale pastel tints, some women at present are adopting lingerie of linen in some very striking color. A set of linen underthings in light orange was set off by small triangular insets of black chantilly lace.

* * *

A fabric remarkably akin to eponge is being used for some of this season's informal frocks. The cloth, of a firmer weave than its eponge cousin, has a small satin pattern in a self tone.

MAH-JONGG!—It's Contagious and [illegible] Louis Is C

MARGUERITE MARTYN FINDS IT BEING PL[illegible]D IN SCENT

"LOOKS LIKE DOMINOES!"
"IT IS LIKE LOTTO!"
"SOUNDS LIKE CRAPS!"
"PUNG!"
"Oh!!"

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

FOR a year or more we have been hearing and reading of the hold the ancient Chinese game of mah-jongg has taken upon seekers after diversion elsewhere in the country. We have heard the wave of Chinese fashions in jewelry, women's clothes, interior decorations credited to the influence of mah-jongg. We have noted the increasing number of books on the subject crowding bridge treatises off the publishers' lists and articles and departments in the magazines devoted to the subject, some of them under the signatures of writers formerly known as authorities on bridge, golf and other sports with the intimation that mah-jongg was superseding most of our tried and true diversions—maybe even poker and penuchle.

All of which may have been alarming, but had not upset us much here in St. Louis.

St. Louis Has Arrived.

Until just recently mah-jongg sets were almost impossible to obtain in the local shops and there was little demand for them. But now just within the last few weeks, what a change has come over us!

Department stores have seen the wisdom of erecting pagoda-like booths where mah-jongg sets in every degree of materials and workmanship, from cardboard and soft wood to carved ivory and bamboo, at prices from 87 cents to $87, are set forth for sale; and tables rigged up in every degree of covering, from felt and oil cloth and fabricated leather to fine watered silks.

Each of the larger department stores has set apart rooms upon the quiet upper floors, where free instruction is given, the appropriate atmosphere created by elaborate furnishings of Chinese chippendale, embroideries, brocaded and printed wall panels, porcelains, jades, wicker, lacquers, statues of Buddha with incense burning.

While the demand for instruction far exceeds the supply and the rooms are crowded from their opening at 9 o'clock until 5, with eager would-be players, curious bystanders or confirmed addicts of all types. Not only are they the idle, efficiency-apartment housewives, social butterflies and the typical cake-eaters you'd naturally expect to see, but many business women, who can steal the time off from calling on the trade or those who can give their noon hour and just about as many business men, too, if you please. One distinguished looking gray-haired gentleman I observed at one department store when the mah-jongg parlor opened was observed again at 5 o'clock sitting in at another department store game as the doors closed at 5 o'clock.

The Repeater Evil.

Indeed, the chief deterrent to efforts to meet the demands for instruction, the teachers complain, is the number of repeaters, those who already have been given the half-hour's instruction to which their free ticket entitled them, and who keep coming back and trying to edge in at the tables, occupying the space which is intended for the purpose of creating more players, not better ones, and more buyers for the sets, especially the expensive ones with which, it is noted, the beginners are encouraged to play.

Some of these repeaters, to overcome the objections of the instructors, volunteer their services as assistants, and some feign stupidity, inability to learn, as an excuse for lingering at the tables longer than they are wanted. One significant difference between mah-jongg and bridge, it seems, is that the practiced player does not mind playing with beginners. There are no objectionable partners, no partners at all. So there are none of the familiar recriminations afterward.

No post-mortems. In that sense mah-jongg, as is claimed for it, is a more sociable game than bridge.

Now there I go, extolling one of the virtues of mah-jongg, when I had not intended to commit myself; only to comment upon a condition, something which is going on, the sudden rage and craze in which St. Louis at last is joining the rest of the country.

Nor do I intend to offer an apology for any delinquency upon our part, nor claim a virtue of self-restraint, either, but only to advance one guess as to how the condition may have come about. It was merely, in my opinion, another case where Missourians wanted to be shown.

The mah-jongg fad was brought back from the

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Candle Light.

I LOVE the glare of brilliant light against the darkening sky, the rays that banish shades of night and cast their gleam on high; the mellow radiance that glows above the crowded street when busy day is at its close, to guide the homeward fleet. Oh, there are many lights I love, small lights that flicker past, and lights upon great ships that move down trackless ways and vast; the lights along the rock-bound shore to warn the ships away, the stars whose light grows more and more as night blots out the day. I watch the morning's light at sea, the sunset in the West; and yet of all lights dear to me, the candle's gleam is best. Merely a ghost of light it seems, dancing against the wall, so faint, to flickering its beams where thick the shadows fall. Yet dreams come dancing in its train, sweet dreams of days gone by; forgotten fancies wage again, too dear and fair to die. Again white, patient fingers trace the stitches neat and fine, or weave a net of fairy lace in intricate design. I lose the sense of fret and fears, the haste of busy marts, to gain the peace of other years that candle-light imparts.

POSTED in a railroad car I saw this notice:

"The only safety appliances which this company cannot furnish for your protection are 'eyes that see and brains that think.'

"They are the best safety devices known.

"Use them!"

What better advice could be given?

Eyes are made to see with and we expect the brain to furnish useful thoughts. But do these organs respond as they should? If not, why don't they?

Mental blindness and brain stagnation may come from illness. Lack of alertness, apparent failure to see and understand the imminence of danger, acquired stupidity—these may be signs of physical disability.

So delicate are the workings of the human brain that it must be expected, like any intricate machine, to be easily disturbed in its functions.

If you have been very ill and are on the street for the first time, don't you know how dizzy you feel and how uncertain? You are afraid to cross the street and no matter how fearless you may be in health, you dread the traffic.

And the patter—wh oneself acquiring quite a vocab language one never hoped to underst " one learns, means simply a sequen you exclaim when you discover y of three of a kind. "Gan," you con when you know you have three of ealed behind your bridge. "Kong" means any four of a kind. "Hoi kong" means you have four of a kind all face up on the table. "Um kong," you keep to yourself for four of a kind concealed. And "Ma cheuk" is for the pair with which your hand is completed. "Mah jongg" you sing out joyfully when you've got the whole layout completed. And suppose by the throw of the dice you've been designated East Wind, you are entitled to double joy, for your winnings are doubled. Then there is a time when you come in for "major quadruple joy," though I have not got that far into the intricacies.

"Bam!" you announce when you play a bamboo and that sounds like craps—that most ignoble game. You feel a sense of contempt. But you are lured back by the attractive sound of the tiles as they click. They sound like sparrows chirping and that, you are told, is just the way the game got its name. The Chinese play it so fast it sounds like sparrows pecking or chirping and mah-jongg is Chinese for sparrow.

The decorative implements of the game, the sense of exoticism and mysticism suggested by the symbols and terminology, are things to which women may be expected to be susceptible. But why should men be attracted to it? Ah, I know. It is because the element of chance is its dominating factor. And men are gamblers ever.

Now I feel sure it is mere chance and not intelligence which rules the day in mah-jongg, because at my initial essay at the table and without any undue attention from the instructor I mah-jongged twice and found myself the East Wind twice, with my winnings accordingly doubled.

Of course, there may be fine points that I did not get all at one sitting. It may involve the skill and science they claim for it. It may abound in Oriental subtleties beyond the ordinary Occidental perception at first glance—but the fact remains, my first experience was exactly the same as my first experience at lotto, where I won a prize—I went mah-jongg twice and I was East Wind twice and I do not claim any aptitude for games, any of the vaunted card sense, either.

It seems an innocuous game save for that gambling element. Yet it has, as I have noted, its fascinating features. And I suspect that I shall play again.

If one who is near and dear to you is mentally unbalanced, do not lose hope of recovery until it has been proven that every organ is free from disease and is functioning normally. There is many a sufferer in mental darkness, because of the failure to look for and to locate an abscess poison-generating center. As I have suggested, such a center may exist even though there never has been an ache or a pain to indicate its existence.

Yourself

By J. J. MUNDY.

YOU look about you at times, bitterly, because you see the ease, comfort and security which others seem to have while you stand in a position where the loss of your job would mean the foundation taken out from under you completely.

Perhaps you do not blame yourself for the position you are in.

It is possible that you feel that your parents should have provided you with a better education—that your father should have engaged in a line of business to which you might have fallen heir, putting you on Easy street.

At times you are rebellious and think of devilish undertakings which would bring in more money if you were on the winning side, but which if you lost and were found out would mean loss of reputation and good standing.

You are unfortunate, but that does not excuse you for dishonorable purposes and undertakings.

What have you ever done to put yourself above your present position?

You are looking for the easiest way, and there is no such thing.

Work, and then more work, is the only safe and sure way to do something for yourself and for your children.

Be a worthwhile man or woman, and do for yourself, and respect yourself.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

When opportunity's at hand,
Pray do not fail to take command.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

IT was several days before Danny Meadow Mouse went up in the air again. Meanwhile he and the aviator who had caught him had become friends. The aviator visited him several times every day and he never failed to bring some tid-bit to tempt Danny's appetite. And he talked to him. He talked in a low, gentle voice. It wasn't long before Danny didn't hesitate to take food from his friend's fingers.

Then came a morning when Danny knew something was going to happen. His friend, the aviator, was very busy about the airplane, which Danny always thought of as a man-bird. Other people came and there was a great deal of noise and confusion, which frightened Danny so that he kept inside the little box in his cage. Then his friend climbed into the man-bird and almost at once there was the terrible noise which is always made when an airplane engine is started. A few minutes later Danny felt himself going up and up and up. He knew he was flying once more.

Now, that aviator had made a place for Danny's little cage up where he could see Danny and where Danny could look out and down. He had fixed it so that Danny would be protected from the wind. It was a long time before Danny ventured to come out of his little box. But after he had grown used to the noise Danny ventured to poke his nose out. Then he poked his head out. Then he came out altogether.

For the first time Danny knew what it was really like to fly. He could look down and see all the Great World spread before him. Never before had a Meadow Mouse seen such strange sights as Danny now saw. He saw little green patches that looked very smooth. Really they were fields and meadows, though Danny didn't know this. He saw rougher green patches, and these were groves and green forests. He saw shining, silvery stretches and silvery threads. These were ponds and lakes and rivers. He saw queer-looking little houses, which seemed all crowded together. These were towns and villages. He saw little houses all by themselves in the middle of green and brown patches. They looked as if they must have been made for folks no bigger than himself. Really they were farmhouses.

Once he looked down right on the back of King Eagle, who was flying below him. He didn't know it was King Eagle, for he never had seen King Eagle close. But that is who it was, for his head was snowy white. Once all those things below him suddenly seemed to start growing. They grew bigger and bigger and bigger so fast that Danny didn't know what to make of it. Then they began to grow smaller and smaller and smaller again. That was when the man-bird had swooped down toward the earth and then climbed up again. Once he could see nothing but a great, soft mass below him. It was a cloud. Danny was above the clouds, but of course he didn't know this. It was all so wonderful that Danny forgot to eat. He was almost sorry when at last that great man-bird came down, down, down, and the noise of the engine stopped.

DUTCH APPLE PUDDING.

One pint flour, half teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder, one egg, two tablespoonfuls butter, four large apples, two-thirds cupful of milk. Add salt and baking powder to flour and sift. Rub butter into flour. Pour in milk and beaten egg and mix quickly and well. Spread dough one-half inch thick on buttered baking pan. Cut peeled and cored apples into eighths and stick into the dough in rows. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake 25 minutes. Serve with cream sauce.

Feeding the School Child

By Emilie Hoffman

THE diet of the school child is quite as important as that of the infant and should be planned with the same care. Improper food not only retards growth, but it lessens the power of resistance to disease. Often a bad disposition is directly traceable to a wrong diet and inefficiency and dullness in school is frequently due to wrong food.

If a growing child eats only that which nourishes one part of the system at the expense of the other the diet is imperfect. To feed the muscles and starve the brain is not good feeding. The meals of the school child should afford variety and at the same time provide the necessary growing material as well as enable the various organs to properly and easily perform their respective functions. If this is accomplished the child is well fed.

Investigation has shown that an amazing number of school children eat no breakfast. Of course, these children are undernourished. A child does not have reserve material to permit him to go without food for such a long interval and this strain will react detrimentally on the disposition and the mental ability of the child.

Warm food promotes digestion and gives vigor to body and mind, hence it is advisable to have at least one warm dish included in the lunch and for the same reason a warm breakfast is desirable.

Cooked cereals, from whole grains, are preferable for school children, as are also the whole wheat and oatmeal breads. Eggs, milk and vegetables are body building foods and should be included in the daily menu. Meat is also rich in body building materials, but should be given only once a day and in moderate quantity.

Fruit and vegetables supply iron and are so essential to growth, and for all the activities of the body, that they should be served every day and very freely. Milk is the very best food there is and from one pint to one quart should be consumed every day. A school child should never drink tea or coffee—these have no food value and are too stimulating.

Fresh foods and rich pastries are positively injurious to the school child. Highly flavored foods should not be given to growing children. Sweets, in moderation are wholesome, but they should be given in simple forms and only at the end of a meal.

WATCH OUR SMOKE.

THE smoke inspector watched the smoke,
As into night it turned the day;
Then up that smoke inspector spoke
And said, "That smoke is all o. k.
In spite of what our rivals say
Our smoke is quite beyond compare,
And ten to one I'll gladly lay
It can't be beaten anywhere."

In Pittsburg where the stokers stoke
Until the skies are dark and gray,
They say our claims are all a joke—
No city has such smoke as they.

Our smoke inspectors all declare
That ours is better every way—
It can't be beaten anywhere.
